

MEMORIAL DAY EXERCISES HELD

Honor is Paid To Veterans of Civil War by Daughters of the Confederacy.

Confederate Memorial Day was fittingly, beautifully observed on Monday in the class rooms of the new M. E. church under the auspices of Randolph Chapter, Daughters of the Confederacy, gracefully presided over by Mrs. Wm. A. Underwood, head of the local organization.

The exercises were opened with prayer by Rev. W. H. Willis, pastor of the church, whose readings from the Scriptures were particularly appropriate to the occasion. The orator of the day was Prof. D. M. Weatherly, one of the best known men of the county, who paid eloquent tribute to the valor of those who had met the supreme test while serving their cause under Lee and Jackson. In glowing terms he congratulated and honored the "thin gray line" of the survivors present, so mercifully spared yet to us, after the stress and hardship of battle and accumulated years.

The audience joined in singing "Carolina," "America" and other songs, and the veterans repaired to the several small tables and partook of a splendid dinner prepared for them by the daughters; they were in jolly mood as they refreshed themselves, being enthused meanwhile by the ever beautiful and cheering strains of "Dixie." After dinner the meeting adjourned to the city cemetery where in are the remains of more than a score of veterans who, having already crossed the river, are resting under the shade of the trees, over each of whom floated the colors of the Lost Cause. These graves were decorated with beautiful flowers; that grand old hymn, "Jesus Lover of My Soul," was sung, and the exercises were closed with prayer and benediction by Rev. B. E. Morris, pastor of the local Baptist church.

At the annual meeting of Randolph Camp of Confederate Veterans, the old officers were elected to hold their respective offices for the ensuing year.

Resolutions expressing sorrow at the death of three comrades, during the past year, were introduced and recorded, as likewise was passed a resolution of sympathy and good cheer to Comrade, Capt. W. S. Lineberry, who is reported to be in temporary ill health.

The following veterans were present at the exercises Monday: F. H. Morris, Asheboro; Alfred C. Rush, Asheboro, Route 3; Ar J. Rush, Farmer; Murphy Burris, Ramseur; L. O. Sugg, Erecht; A. Upton, Randleman, Rt. 3; Wright R. Davis, Seagrove; W. I. Myrick, Worthville; Wyatt Brady, Coleridge; John Hill, Randleman, Rt. 2; M. J. Hughes, Franklinville; W. H. Bean, Randleman, Rt. 2; John C. Monroe and Martin Brewer, Eagle Springs; Haywood Jarrell, Asheboro, Route 1.

His remarks at the meeting on Monday were happily fitting, during the course of which he related interesting incidents connected with his acquaintances in New York with Mrs. Jefferson Davis and her daughter during their residence in that city.

DEATH CLAIMS AMOS GREGSON

End Came At Rock Hill, S. C., Tuesday Night—Funeral At Randleman Yesterday.

Rev. Amos Gregson, aged 87 years, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. C. M. Steed, in Rock Hill, S. C., Tuesday night at 11:20 o'clock following ill health for some time. Funeral was held yesterday at 4:30 o'clock at St. Paul's M. E. church, Randleman, by Rev. S. T. Barber and interment made in the church cemetery. The large congregation gathered to pay tribute to his life and the large floral offerings attested the high esteem in which he was held by the people of his native town and native county in which he had spent the greater part of his long span of life.

Rev. Amos Gregson was one of the most highly esteemed men and one of the most beloved citizens of the county, having made his home in Randolph and for the greater part of the time at Randleman until 1916, when, following the death of his wife, he went to Rock Hill to live with his daughter, after living for some time with his son, Walter J. Gregson, at Spero. He was superintendent of Naomi Mills at Randleman for years and was a member of the M. E. church at Randleman. He preached for years at Randleman and in almost every part of the county and was always closely identified with the religious and civic life of his town and county.

He is survived by two sons, Walter J. Gregson, of Spero, now with the Asheboro city office, and Clarence Gregson, of Siler City, and one daughter, Mrs. C. M. Steed, with whom he made his home the latter years of his life. News of Mr. Gregson's death and funeral having reached The Courier only a few minutes prior to its going to press, it is impossible to cover in so short a time and space a history of his life and works, about which there will be more in next week's issue of this paper.

Mr. Parks was the son of George Washington Parks and Malinda Parks and was born May 15, 1848, in the Parks Cross Roads section of Randolph county and lived in this county several years on the farm now owned by Jim Ellis. He was a farmer all of his life but was prominently connected in other lines of business, being largely instrumental in the organization of the Bank of Chatham and the Bank of Siler City.

NEW INDUSTRY FOR THE TOWN

Paper Box Mfg. Plant Will Locate in Asheboro July 1st—Employs 40.

The Old Dominion Box Company, with main office and factory at Lynchburg, Virginia, the center of the shoe manufacturing industry in the South, will locate a branch plant in Asheboro on or about July 1st. Fifteen thousand square feet of floor space to house the plant have been leased from the Home Building and Material Company in its large brick warehouse building on Salisbury street.

The box factory manufactures paper boxes for the shoe, hosiery and cigarette trade and for other lines of business using paper boxes. At its Lynchburg plant it operates in addition to box manufacturing machinery a large printing establishment in which labels are printed on the boxes made. At the branch plant in Asheboro, boxes alone will be made and these most likely for the hosiery trade. About forty people will be employed at the plant.

That the Old Dominion Box Company decided to locate in Asheboro is due primarily to the activities of the local chamber of commerce which has been busy since its organization in following every possible lead looking to the expansion of the industry of the town.

Chamber of Commerce To Sponsor Home Coming Week For Randolph

The local chamber of commerce at the monthly meeting of its executive committee Tuesday night put itself squarely behind a Home Coming Week for Randolph county, designated the week of the fair, some time in September, for the event and left the matter of setting the wheels in motion to the publicity committee and the secretary, who have already gone to work on the proposition. Efforts will be made to obtain special rail rates for the event and nothing will be left undone, according to these in charge, to make the Home Coming Week something long to be remembered in the county.

Unfortunately for the county, Randolph has a number of native sons and daughters in all parts of North Carolina and in nearly every State in the Union. Some of these, perhaps, have been gone so long that the country of their birth may be more or less a memory, although deep down in their hearts they hold a warm spot for the section of their nativity. It will be the task of this publicity committee and others in charge of the event to get in touch with all or as many as possible of these former citizens of the county living elsewhere and bring them back for Home Coming Week.

Asheboro Has No Threat Water Shortage In Future

Asheboro will have no threat of a water shortage this year provided rains are anywhere near normal. More than 75 millions of gallons of water are impounded in the two city ponds west of Asheboro. The dam at the old city pond has been raised 6 feet and it now has about thirty million gallons of water in it. These two ponds furnish a water supply adequate for the normal needs of a town or city several times the size of Asheboro.
