

PEACH HARVEST REACHING PEAK

This Week and Next Will Witness Real Activity—Good Roads to Peach Belt.

This week and next will see the beginning of real activity in the peach section of the Sandhills of North Carolina. For the past several weeks there have been peaches in the peach belt but not in large quantities as now. There is a large crop despite reports to the contrary stating that the cold weather in April severely damaged the crop. It was damaged to a great extent in some places, but plenty of fruit was left.

Georgia peaches, which ripen a little earlier than the Sandhills peaches, have been flooding the market, but the peak of the Georgia shipments has been reached and is on the wane. This affords an opportunity for the shipment of fruit from the Sandhills peach belt and it is beginning to go out in carloads. However, many of the peach growers are depending on the local market to absorb the fruit. For the past several years thousands of bushels of peaches have been bought by persons making trips to the Sandhills by car or truck. These buyers, the peach growers say, get the best peaches. They get those that are a little too ripe to stand railway shipment, but not too ripe to be hauled in cars and firm enough to be used for canning and preserving.

The Georgia Belles will be the main peach in the market in the peach belt this week and the peak of the production and sale of this popular variety will be reached next week. About the third or fifth of August will find the Elbertas on the market. Both the Elbertas and Georgia Belles are peaches of the highest excellence, the Belles a little higher in flavor, perhaps, and the Elbertas a little better keepers. Later when the Hales come in they are very good fruit, but not so abundant as the other two varieties.

The peach belt in the Sandhills extends over a fairly large area. The nearest center of production and sale to the greater number of Courier readers is in Candor, but a little farther on is Hamlet, Hoffman, Elerbe and a half dozen other peach centers. Good roads, either paved or sand clay wind like ribbons in the peach section. The orchards are easily accessible from whichever direction the seeker of peaches may come. The best route from Asheville and points north of Asheville is down 77 from High Point or 70 from Greensboro to Asheville and thence south on the detour around those portions of 70 below Asheville which are under construction. The hard surface may be traveled to Utah, but the detour from Utah south is not intended for through traffic use and the detour which begins near the end of South Fayetteville street in Asheville should be followed. This detour is in excellent condition and, unlike most detours, does not increase the distance.

Scores of cars may be seen each day going to and coming from the peach section. The latter part of this week and for days to come will find a larger number of such cars making the southward journey to the peach centers. Roads are good and those who desire to make the trip to the orchards will find that the State highway construction work on 70 will not hinder progress.

Controversy Still On Over Routing of Highway 75

It is understood that no definite decision has been reached on the way in which highway 75 will be routed through the town of Asheville. Survey was made out Salisbury street along the route of the Old Salisbury road and a part of the right of way cleared. However, district commissioner Cox, of High Point, was down Sunday and looked over the routing of the road, and, it is understood, expressed himself as favorable to a different route. The matter is still pending and nobody seems to know which of the streets the road will follow.

Illnesses Shook Forward

Investigations into the cause of the recent illness of the primary candidates in the United States Senate election, which Senator McKinley spent $250,000 in an effort to be re-nominated to succeed himself, while Frank L. Smith, the successful candidate, spent $250,000. These sums are exclusive of the $100,000 spent in Chicago alone by one Republican organization. The one-quarter of a million spent in the primary campaign, Truman Newberry took his. A vast Henry Ford in 1916, the year he was elected.

BAPTISTS CLOSE ANNUAL MEETING

Piedmont Baptists Held Two Days' Session in Ramseur, Ending Yesterday P. M.

The 33rd annual convention of the Piedmont association of Baptist churches, composed of churches located in the counties of Randolph, Guilford and Rockingham counties, came to a close at Ramseur yesterday afternoon with the reading of obituaries for the year by Rev. S. A. Rhine, of Greensboro. The convention had been in session since Tuesday morning in the Ramseur Baptist church with Rev. J. M. Hilliard, of High Point, serving as moderator. Splendid attendance of ministers, laymen of the Baptist church and visitors was registered at all the sessions.

In addition to the reading of obituaries yesterday afternoon there was an address by Rev. O. E. Lee on B. Y. P. U. work. Rev. H. E. Howell delivered a most interesting and inspiring address on Sunday school work, while Rev. E. E. White spoke on Christian stewardship.

At the morning session yesterday, Dr. J. T. Battle, of Greensboro, spoke on ministerial relief; Mrs. D. K. Mason, of Greensboro, on auxiliary work, while Rev. W. E. Goode, of Reidsville, used Christian education as his subject for an interesting speech. Rev. B. E. Morris, pastor of the Asheville Baptist church, spoke on orphanage work and handled his subject with credit to himself and instruction to the members of the convention.

Following the devotionals Tuesday morning, Rev. W. A. Elam, of Ramseur, delivered the address of welcome, and the response was given by Rev. Benjamin F. Clark, of Gibsonville. Christian stewardship was then discussed for some time before the roll call of churches at 10:30 o'clock. Dr. Lloyd T. Wilson, of High Point, preached the opening sermon, a strongly delivered and most timely message. Discussions during the greater part of the day centered on home and foreign mission work and were led by Dr. Wilson, Walter M. Gilmore, of Raleigh, Rev. H. P. Stevens, of High Point, and A. Wayland Cook, of Greensboro.

Mr. Cook's address was devoted largely to the work being done by the Baptist hospital in Winston-Salem. He stressed the fact that the hospital is the expression of the Baptist people of the State and is local neither in support nor in practice. Each Mother's Day in May the churches in the entire State take up contributions for the hospital in which manner the funds for treatment of charity patients are received. Last year more than 850 charity patients were received at the hospital and on an average 20 per cent of the institution's patients are in this class.

The people of Ramseur regardless of church membership joined in entertaining the ministers and delegates to the convention. The congregation of the Ramseur Baptist church served dinner in picnic style each of the two days of the session.

Surratt, of Charlotte, was the winner.

PLANS MADE FOR S. S. CONVENTION

Miss Flora Davis and Miss Daisy Magee and Others Will Take Part in Program.

Plans have been made for holding the annual Randolph County Sunday School Convention at the Baptist church, Franklinville, N. C., on Tuesday and Wednesday, August 17 and 18. Arrangements for the convention are in the hands of Mr. E. C. Williamson and Miss Hope Hubbard, President and Secretary of the County Sunday School Association.

These officers have announced that they have secured as outside speakers for the convention, Miss Flora Davis, Raleigh, Associate Superintendent North Carolina Sunday School Association; and Miss Daisy Magee, Raleigh, Children's Division Superintendent of the North Carolina Sunday School Association. A request is being made to the Sunday school workers of the county to present to the convention any special Sunday School problem that should be discussed.

Announcement is also made by the officers in charge of the convention that, following a custom started three years ago, a pennant will be presented to the Sunday School having in the convention the largest number of representatives, sixteen years of age and over, according to the number of miles traveled. Any Sunday School in the county can compete for the pennant, except the Sunday School with which the convention is held and others within one mile of the convention church.

MRS. ELWELL IS DEAD AT AGE 59

End Came Tuesday Following Illness of Eight Weeks—Funeral Yesterday.

Mrs. Mollie Elwell, widow of J. W. Elwell, died Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at the home of her sister, Mrs. M. E. Johnson, in Ramseur, following an illness of eight weeks after a stroke of paralysis. Mrs. Elwell was 59 years of age and the oldest of nine children of the late Mr. and Mrs. A. B. ## The Curb Market At Candor Offers Variety of Products

Those who have in mind that Candor conducts its curb market for the sale of peaches alone have something to learn. True, peaches are the main attraction and the largest single product offered for sale on the curb market, for Candor is in the heart of the peach belt of North Carolina. But, aside from peaches, the Candor curb market affords watermelons and cantaloupes and other products of the Sandhills.

Fruit, cantaloupes, watermelons, loads of them, may be had on the Candor market. As evidence that the people throughout this part of the State are taking advantage of the variety offerings and attractive prices is the large number of cars and trucks loaded with peaches and melons which may be seen daily passing through Asheville.

Farmers' Union In Summer Conference Passes Resolutions

The summer conference of the State Farmers' Union in meeting at Guilford Battleground this week passed a set of resolutions favoring the Australian Ballot to safeguard elections and declaring against the State-wide proposal for an eight-month school term. The union also went on record as opposing any increase in the assessed valuations of farm land, having in mind the assessment which will be held in 1927.

The resolutions also opposed the absentee voters law and the proposal for a State cantaloupier. Free text books were advocated and the primary upheld.

In spite of the rainy weather a large number of delegates from unions all over the State were present. Final report of the State Auditor shows that the State Treasury had an actual cash surplus for the year ending June 30th of $1,949,183.97, or more than a hundred thousand dollars more than was expected. Last six weeks the revenue collections exceeded estimates.

SPEAKER SCORES CIGARET HABIT

Says Tobacco Industry Is Unpatriotic and Is Fastening Habit Upon Youth.

Rev. Charles M. Fillmore, of Indianapolis, Indiana, national secretary of the No-Tobacco League of America and a member of the firm Fillmore Music House, of Cincinnati, O., gave an interesting program at the Asheville Friends church Tuesday night, consisting of songs and a lecture. Among the songs which Mr. Fillmore sang was "Tell Mother I'll Be There," which was based on President McKinley's telegram sent to his dying mother. He told interestingly of the history of the song. Other songs which were sung by Mr. Fillmore included "I'll Wear a White Flower for You, Mother, Dear" and "Beautiful Garden of Prayer."

Mr. Fillmore's lecture in the Friends church was a part of his tour of the country under auspices of the Committee on Alcoholics and Narcotics of the Friends church. He said he believed in using tobacco in the way God meant it to be used, that is as a spray for killing bugs and other insects. He declared that most of the men who use tobacco use it because they have become slaves to the characteristic element of the tobacco plant. In proof of his assertion, he quoted Charles Richet, of Paris, acknowledged to be the most famous physiologist in the world.

The greater part of Mr. Fillmore's address was devoted to proving that the tobacco business is unpatriotic. This was shown, he said, by the World War in the way in which the cigarette habit was thrust upon our soldier boys, a habit that weakened them physically and prevented them from being most accurate in their workmanship. The unpatriotic manner of the tobacco business today, he stated, is shown by the way in which the cigarette habit is being cultivated among the very young boys and girls.

But the most unpatriotic conduct of the business today, according to Mr. Fillmore, is shown in the special efforts that are being put forth to make cigarette using common among the women of America. No intelligent man, said Mr. Fillmore, will claim that cigarette slavery will make a better wife or mother of any woman, and no greater curse can come to America than the wholesale nicotineization of her women.

On Farm Tour

Approximately 50 farmers of Montgomery county left last week on a tour of several counties in the State to observe and study farms and farm conditions. Following the State convention at Raleigh which they attended in a body, they will tour counties in the eastern part of the State. They will also visit some of the best farming sections of South Carolina before returning home.

MANY COUNTY FARMERS ATTEND STATE MEETING

Many of our farmer readers will be looking for the regular farm department in this issue of The Courier and will be disappointed that it is not to be found. The reason there is no farm department this week is that county agent Millaps together with several scores of farmers and farm women of the county are in Raleigh attending the State farmers' and farm women's convention which began Tuesday. The trip to Raleigh was made by truck and by private cars. Many of the farmers journeyed to the convention by means of Randolph county school trucks which were lent for the purpose by the county superintendent of education. Others used their own cars.

Mr. Millaps has been untiring in his efforts to get a large delegation of Randolph county farmers and their wives to attend the convention, and, despite the inclement weather Monday, a large number made the trip.

TO HOLD CLINIC FOR CHILDREN

Begins Tuesday, August 10th, and Lasts Four Days—Preliminary Arrangements.

Beginning Tuesday, August 10, and continuing for four days, the State Board of Health will conduct a tonsilladenoid clinic for school children between the ages of 6 and 12 years inclusive.

Miss Buchan, state school nurse, who made the health survey in the county schools last fall, is now here to make preliminary arrangements for the clinic.

A complete traveling hospital unit is in the field. This includes a truck for the transportation of the necessary equipment, such as cots, bedding and hospital supplies.

A full-time physician, an anesthetist, eight nurses, and an orderly compose the regular staff. An experienced throat specialist is employed to perform the operations.

Over 2,500 children have been successfully operated on in these clinics the past year. Only one hundred children are operated on in a county during a season.

Every child will be carefully examined by both physicians to determine the actual need for the operation and whether or not the child is in proper physical condition to be treated at that time.

The children are kept over-night in the hospital, where a nurse is in constant attention. Children are served ice cream and milk following the operation. Parents can remain with the child if they desire to do so.

A nominal fee of $12.50 will be charged for each child able to pay. Free treatment will be given needy cases. Make application to County Superintendent or State Nurse.

HEAVIEST RAIN OF THE SEASON

Total Rainfall Saturday in Asheville Was 3.45 Inches—More in Other Places.

The heaviest rain of the season and one of the heaviest that has fallen in Asheville in recent years was that of last Saturday which measured a depth of 3.45 inches. This was the heaviest rain that has been measured since Asheville has had a weather observer. The rain Saturday was general throughout the greater part of the State, some parts having a heavier rainfall than others. Albemarle, for instance, had more than four inches, while the rainfall in counties nearby was approximately the same as in Randolph.

It is estimated that the rain Saturday and that which has fallen since has been of incalculable value to the crops, especially to the tobacco crop. In many places, however, the land was washed considerably by the rain-fall. Roads suffered in places, several fills having been almost washed out and in other places the side ditches were unable to take care of the immense amount of water which overran the roads.

Lemmoinds Gets New Federal Job

COL. COX TO MAKE KEYNOTE SPEECH

At Democratic County Convention in Asheville, Saturday, August 14th.

Col. Albert L. Cox, of Raleigh, veteran of the World War, long active in Democratic party affairs in North Carolina will deliver the keynote speech at the Randolph county Democratic convention which will convene in the court house in Asheville at 1 o'clock in the afternoon of Saturday, August 14th. Col. Cox is a speaker well worth hearing.

At the convention on the 14th, a Democratic county ticket will be nominated together with a candidate for the House of Representatives of the General Assembly.

On Saturday, August 7th, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, one week prior to the county convention, the Democratic voters of the various precincts in the county will meet at the different polling places for the purpose of selecting township tickets and also to select delegates for the county-convention. It is important that every Democratic voter in the county attend the precinct meetings and take a part in the affairs of the party.

Mr. Ferree Expects To Put Peaches on Market Next Week

While Mr. A. M. Ferree, owner of the Highland Peach Orchard in the southern part of the town of Asheville, does not expect an unusually large crop from his trees this season, he does anticipate a crop of 1500 crates or more of fruit. His crop will consist of Georgia Belles and Elbertas and will be ready for the market next week. The peaches in his orchard appear to be of excellent quality. Mr. Ferree, of course, will depend largely on the local market for the disposal of his peaches this season. Many who have been making annual pilgrimages to the peach belt will be able this year to have their needs supplied at their doorsteps.

EVIDENCE IN CRANFORD CASE FINISHED TODAY

Cranford Himself Is Not Placed On Stand—State Has Last Inning Today.

All the evidence in the trial of Nevin C. Cranford, former Stanley county convict boss, charged with the murder of two negroes under his care, will not be completed before this afternoon, according to reports from Albemarle where the case is being heard in Superior court before Judge Finley. The defense rested its case shortly before noon Tuesday after having consumed several days in introduction of evidence to contradict the web which the State had previously woven around the former convict superintendent. Cranford himself was not placed on the stand.

The State began the introduction of rebuttal evidence as soon as the defense closed. More than a hundred witnesses in all have taken the stand, and seldom has evidence introduced in a criminal case in the State been more at variance than that which has been presented to the jury which is hearing the case.

The trial has reached its peak and while interest is still keen over it in Stanley county and elsewhere in the State it is on the wane. Small crowds are hearing the evidences whereas the first week the court house in Albemarle was packed to the limit despite the hot weather. The jury will probably not get the case before next week.
