Trogdon Reunion

cendants of William Trogdon Met At Court House In

WAS SECOND MEETING

More than 500 descendents of William Trogdon, patriot of the Revolution, killed by David Fanning, noted Tory leader, and buried on the banks of Sandy Creek in Randolph county gathered in the court house in Asheboro Sunday for the second annual reunion of the Trogdon Historical Society, of which W. F. Trogdon, of North Wilkesboro, is the president. Mr. Trogdon could not be present, however, for the reason that he is in Florida trying to salvage all he can from the wrack of his summer home in Miami destroyed by the recent tornado which swept the Florida east coast.

The meeting was called to order in the court house at 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon by W. B. Trogdon, of Greensboro, secretary, after a sumptuous picnie, dinner spread on the court house lawn had been enjoyed. Mr. Trogdon called Congressman Hammer to the chair to preside over the meeting in the absence of the president. The Higgins sisters, of High Point, delighted the Trogdons with a number of selections. September Was Dry, Hot Month In This Section State

According to the official Weather Observer, September was a very dry, hot month in this section. The mean temperature for the month was 47.2 as against an average for this section of 69.3. The highest temperature was 92 on the 2nd while the lowest was 53 on the 26th. While there were no unusually high temperatures any particular day the entire month with the exception of just a few days was too hot for comfort which fact brought the average up.

To the people of Asheboro and Randolph county:

evening, October 4th, it was decided that every citizen of Randolph county should be given an opportunity to do something for the relief of the people in the storm swept district of Florida. Many of these people had their houses and all their possessions swept away while they themselves are in hospitals, many with broken bones and cuts and bruises which will in-capacitate them for work for quite awhile. The American Red Cross estimates that there are eighteen thous-and families that are homeless and that five million dollars will be necessary to carry on the relief work need-
