

Hayes Has Inside Track On This Job

Fight On Among North Carolina Republicans Over Judgeship Appointment.

Many After The Job

Three Are Candidates For United States Marshal.

The creation of a new middle federal judicial district in North Carolina has started a fight among the Republicans for the offices of Judge and District Attorney. Johnson J. Hayes, now of Greensboro, unsuccessful candidate for the United States Senate in the 1926 election, and Frank A. Linney, of Boone, now District Attorney for the Western N. C. District, seem to have the inside track for appointment as judge of the new district. The best are mostly on Hayes. In case Linney does not get the judgeship, it is said, he can be District Attorney for the new district since his county, Ashe, is included in this district.

A. H. Price, of Salisbury, and H. F. Seawell, of Carthage, are also regarded as candidates for the judgeship.

Thomas J. Harkins, of Asheville, seems to be the leading candidate for district attorney of the Western North Carolina district, although it is reported that Jake Newell, Charlotte lawyer of "Razor Girl" fame, will also seek that office. In the middle district, in the event that Linney does not want it, Marshall L. Mott, Jr., of Winston-Salem, and H. S. Williams, of Concord, are expected to seek the office of district attorney. E. L. Gavin, of Sanford, is also understood to be a candidate for this office.

Kenneth Smathers, who made an unsuccessful race against Representative Zebulon Weaver for Congress last fall, is said to be a candidate for assistant district attorney for the western district. Archie Elledge, of Winston-Salem, is said to seek this place in the middle district.

Marshal Candidates

Three Republicans are understood to be in a receptive mood for appointment as United States Marshal for the middle district. They are Clarence Call, of Wilkes, T. E. McCrary, of Davidson, and Heenan Hughes, of Alamance.

Legislator Establishes Reputation For Honesty

(Lexington Dispatch)

Bruce Craven, bond lawyer of Trinity, who probably knows North Carolina politics as well as anyone not actually in it, and who incidentally has charge of the school bond sale by the County Commissioners next Monday, has this to say in a newspaper interview:

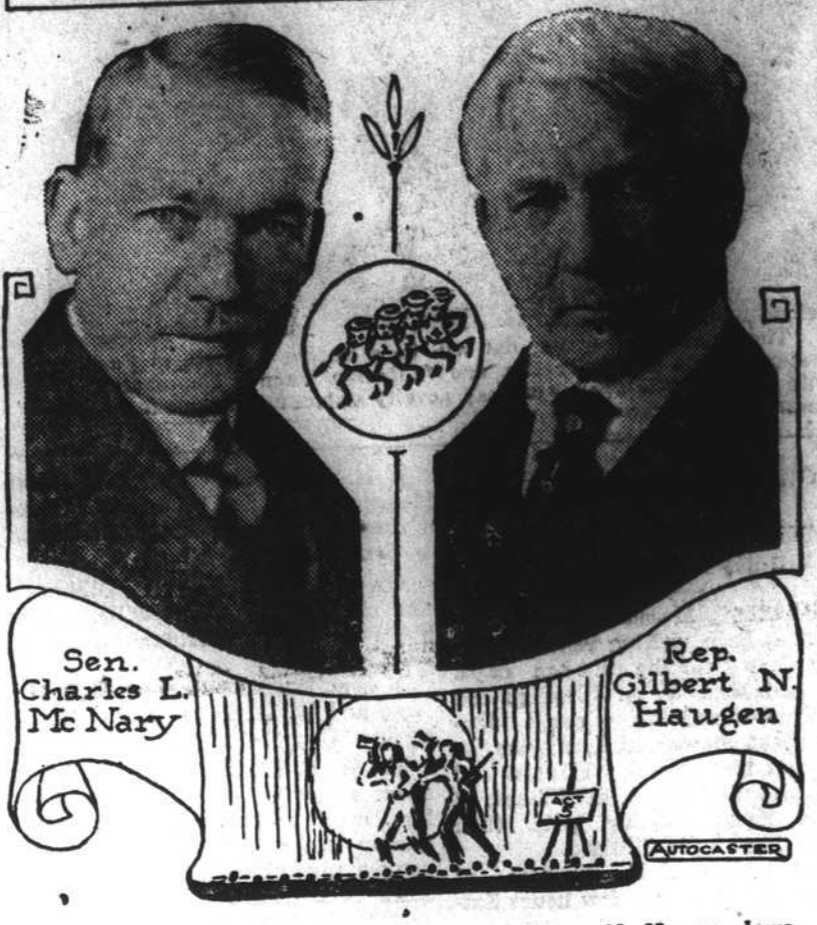

"Before he gets home from Raleigh, it ought to be told in Davidson county, that Representative L. A. Martin established for himself a reputation of 'honesty to the point of foolishness' in the Legislature. When a popular bill was up which everyone knew had a negro in the woodpile, and Martin had not only the honesty but the courage to vote against it, a prominent politician of the State said to me in the lobby: 'That man Martin could get something in politics if he didn't act so foolish about being honest all the time.' I didn't try to argue the question further to say that I took it for granted it was absolutely impossible for some people to even imagine that a man could perform a public duty without trying to pull down some of the swag himself."

Local Citizen Witnessed Meteor In Sky Sunday Night

Mr. T. A. Harris, local attorney, was probably the only citizen of Randolph county who saw the meteor which was observed Sunday night in the sky in Eastern North Carolina. Mr. Harris in company with George Harris, supervisor of the State Prison, were driving from Salisbury to the home of his father, Mr. J. H. Harris, near the town of Salisbury, when he saw the meteor.

"And he whose soul is fed—his eye will have in on him by and by. The thing we need most is time to discover ourselves. That is what our own thoughts, time to stop before we say the biting word, time to get ourselves in the other person's shoes before we make our own conclusions. This is a man with the

Oregon McNARY - HAUGEN Iowa Famous Farm Relief Pair in National Spotlight

Sen. Charles L. McNary, Oregon and Rep. Gilbert N. Haugen, Iowa, have been joint authors of four different bills since post-war deflation, all of which have aimed at relief of agriculture. Their present bill is the most important legislation of this session, having been jockeyed from defeat last year to passage by House and Senate—and now up to the President. McNary and Haugen have been stars on the legislative stage for five years and still going strong, Washington admits.

Local Klan Has Its Eyes On Fiery Cross

Letter From W. C. York, Kligrapp, Says Asheville Klan Is Still Intact.

The Courier is in receipt of the following communication from W. C. York, Kligrapp of Asheville Klan No. 139, which explains itself:

Asheboro, N. C., Feb. 28. Our charter has not been surrendered and do not intend to surrender same. We are still in the ring with our fighting clothes on regardless of a few Knights of Columbus and Roman Catholic shekels that may have been distributed among a few week-kneed politicians from some other except Randolph county that is gathered at Raleigh who are supposed to look after the interest of the folks at home.

We may have to burn our masks and robes as our forefathers did their Holy Bibles and we may have to engage a sign painter to paint the names of our entire membership in big letters on the side of our hall so the world can see who we are but, thank God, all the catholic gold in the universe can not buy our manhood and our personal Liberty.

Asheboro Klan No. 139 has eyes on the Fiery cross and the Star spangled banner and is safely anchored to the rock of ages and we expect to double our membership in next three months, and we heartily endorse the national and State organizations and their new officers and we condemn certain Raleigh men for initiating "False reports". And the resignation of Judge Grady will not affect our loyalty to the organization.

W. C. YORK, Kligrapp.

Exhibits A Batch Old Tax Receipts

B. M. Allred Has Receipts Belonging To His Grandfather, Wm. Allred.

Date Back To Year 1821

B. M. Allred, better known as "Bud" Allred, of Asheboro, Route 3, while in The Courier office one day last week exhibited a batch of tax receipts which had been the property of his grandfather, the late William Allred. The receipts are in a good state of preservation and are all fairly legible. All are written on small bits of paper, the largest tax receipt being no larger than one and one-half inches by three inches, and the most of them even smaller.

The first tax receipt is for the year 1821, while the next is for the following year. The receipts then date through the intervening years until 1887 and are signed by the various sheriffs who served the county. One is for the year 1826 and is signed by Sheriff Thomas Hancock, who served two terms as sheriff of the county. There are other receipts besides those for taxes. One for nine dollars signed by Watson Petty is for work done in 1842 on Cedar Grove school house, and still another is for work done late in 1842 on a school house in the southern end of district No. 10.

Sheriff Thomas Hancock, who signed the tax receipts in the year 1826, came to Randolph county from Hertford county on the Roanoke river in search of health. He was the father of Hogan, Abner, John and Henderson Hancock. A son of Hogan Hancock is Raeford Hancock, of near Seagrave, who has in his possession one of the stirrups from the saddle Thomas Hancock used in riding over the county taking the first census ever made in Randolph. Abner Hancock, one of the sons of Thomas Hancock, was the father of Mrs. Nancy Jane Presnell, the late Dr. John Milton Hancock and Mrs. Emeline White. Thomas Hancock also served his county in the North Carolina General Assembly.

Forest City, N. C., Aug. 27, 1926

"Two years ago I bought what was considered a worn-out farm. Knowing my success as a farmer depended entirely on bringing the land back to its original state of fertility, I set out to find a fertilizer that would do it."

"The first year I tried a well-known make and was disappointed. The second year I tried only 200 pounds of 'AA Quality' Fertilizers and in spite of an extremely dry season and pests, I am gathering around one bale per acre."

"Old, experienced farmer-neighbors say this farm has never produced such a crop even in favorable seasons. I am convinced that the secret of successful farming lies in the selection and application of good fertilizers, and I have decided 'AA Quality' Fertilizers contain this secret."

—J. M. Williams
