

Presbytery Of Orange In Session In Asheboro Honors Rev. Cothran G. Smith

Elected To Represent Presbytery In General Assembly At El Dorado, Ark.

Presbytery Is Having Interesting Sessions

Much Business Is Transacted And Forceful Sermons And Addresses Delivered.

The presbytery of Orange in session at the local Presbyterian church for the past two days heard last night an address by Rev. H. M. Woods, D. D., of China, a missionary of this denomination in that country. He has recently translated and edited a new edition of a Bible Dictionary, the first to be issued in that country. His address was in connection with a popular meeting on Foreign Missions led by Rev. W. R. Potter, D. D., of Burlington, who presented the report of the work.

Outstanding features of the work of the Presbytery, thus far, include the election of Rev. C. G. Smith, pastor of the local church, to represent this Presbytery in the General Assembly, the highest court of the Southern Presbyterian Church, which meets May 19th, in El Dorado, Ark. This is regarded as a high honor in this denomination and Mr. Smith was highly spoken of as a nominee for the office on the floor of presbytery.

In addition to this feature, the presbytery reported through Rev. R. E. McClure, Secretary of Stewardship, that the Benevolent Askings of the Presbytery which amounted to over $97,000 has been over subscribed by nearly $20,000. This is the first time such has been the case and so far as can be learned this is the first presbytery Synod to do this.

The presbytery met for its first sessions Tuesday night at 7:30 P. M. and heard the opening sermon by Rev. S. M. Rankin, of Greensboro, the retiring moderator, on the text: "My grace is sufficient for thee." 2 Cor. 12-9. In his message he spoke on the life of God in its workings in the lives of Christians as well as unbelievers.

The moderator's sermon was one of hope based upon his conception of the grace of God, which he defined as "the unmerited favor of God." In this connection he declared that this grace was unlimited in its riches and available to all who are in the right frame of mind to measure sufficient for every need.

"Dewdrop" Butter Is Asheboro's Own

This Is Name Of Product Of Randolph Creamery, Inc.—First Made Saturday.

Placed On Market And Asheboro People May Have Home Product.

"Dewdrop" butter may be had from local grocery stores. This is the new brand of butter, Asheboro's own, made by the Randolph Creamery, Inc., the first churning of which was made Saturday. The creamery was opened for business earlier in the week, but it was not until Saturday that enough cream had been collected to make a sizeable churning. The butter at present is wrapped in regular stock cartons. However, within a short while cartons bearing the name of the new product will be on hand and the creamery product will be wrapped in most attractive cartons to be found anywhere.

Drawings of the new carton have been approved by the management of the local creamery. Cartons will be made up in colors. A picture of a part of the herd of Mendenhall Brothers, of Trinity township, will adorn one side of the carton. The Mendenhall herd of Guernseys is one of the finest herds in the State as the cut on the butter carton will show clearly.

The local plant has been pronounced by experts in the dairying line as one of the best equipped in the South. It is not as large as many creameries, of course, but is splendidly equipped and there is ample room for further growth. Mr. O. J. Hill is the superintendent in charge. He is a man of wide experience in the creamery business, having had charge from time to time of leading plants in North Carolina and Tennessee. A. R. Wingham is the secretary and treasurer of the new enterprise.

Four creamery routes have been put in operation at the creamery. Roughly these two routes are two east of the railroad and two west of the railroad which runs across the county from north to south practically dividing the county into two equal parts. The itinerary of the routes will probably have to be changed from time to time in order to get into the communities which furnish the most cream.

New Phone System For Ramseur Soon

Local Company Advises That New System Will Be Cut In First of Next Week.

The installation of the automatic telephone exchange at Ramseur is completed and the Randolph Telephone Company will cut over to the new equipment the first of next week. This was the announcement made late yesterday afternoon by K. D. Cox, secretary and treasurer of the local telephone company.

The work on the new Ramseur exchange has been held up for some time on account of delay in getting some keys for the board at Asheboro and which had to be ready before the new Ramseur system could be operated. The factory from which these keys were ordered has advised that the keys are being forwarded by mail. Upon their arrival they will be put into use, and each telephone subscriber on the Ramseur exchange will be notified when the new system is cut in.

Moffitt Loses Out In High Point Contest

Eliminated From Mayoralty Race In City Primary Tuesday—Davis Wins.

In High Point's mayoralty primary Tuesday, Randolph won and lost at the same time. Among the long list of candidates, three for Mayor, and about a score for councilmen, Randolph county had three native sons. They were H. A. Moffitt, incumbent mayor, W. A. Davis, one of his opponents, and L. F. Ferree, son of the late C. M. Ferree, of Asheboro, who was running for councilman. "Moffitt" was eliminated from the election contest, having trailed his two opponents, W. A. Davis and Dr. D. A. Stanton. Davis and Stanton will fight it out in the election with the odds in favor of Davis, who went to High Point some 25 years ago from the Sophia community of Randolph county. Mr. Ferree was eliminated in the primary and will not be a candidate in the general election.

Location Of Extension Of Piedmont Northern Electric Railway Line Is Still "Up In The Air"

Latest news from Washington is that the location of the proposed extension of the Piedmont and Northern electric railway from Charlotte, to which place it has already been extended from Spartanburg, S. C., is still up "in the air." From all appearances, it was evident only a few weeks ago that the extension would be made from Charlotte to Salisbury and to Lexington and thence to Winston-Salem. However, some ten days ago, the petition presented to the Interstate Commerce Commission by attorneys for the road asking for such extension was withdrawn.

Yesterday's news dispatch from Washington stated that the information coming from the Interstate Commerce Commission's offices was to the effect that it was not known in what direction the road would be extended. It was intimated that the road was in the market for the best bid. It is understood that the officials of the road are trying to get into Durham or Raleigh eventually.

In order that this end may be accomplished, local men are of the opinion that the best possible route for such extension would be from Charlotte by way of Albemarle and Asheboro across by Ramseur, Franklinville and Pittsboro to Raleigh or Durham. A mass of data can be furnished by local men interested to show that the amount of shipping available along this suggested route would warrant the extension of the P. & N. through this territory.

It will be recalled by those conversant with the facts that the original North Carolina railroad survey across the State was from Raleigh through Chatham and Randolph counties, but that through the influence of Governor Morehead and the late Frank Caldwell the survey was changed and the road surveyed by Greensboro instead of by Pittsboro and Asheboro. This northern bend in the road to reach Greensboro made the rail distance from Greensboro to Raleigh a matter of 81 miles. The distance from Asheboro to Raleigh by highway is 75 miles, or six miles nearer.

Since the location of the proposed extension of the P. & N. is up "in the air" Randolph people feel that they have an opportunity to realize the materialization of something which they have long wanted, a road running practically east and west through the county. Such road would shorten shipping distances and would serve varied industries along the route, besides giving an impetus to the establishment of new business enterprises along the route which would be served by the road.

While little expression can be gotten from the officials of the road relative to its proposed expansion, local men have not given up hope that eventually the P. & N. will be operating trains through Asheboro.

Father Of Waters Is On A Rampage

Thousands Homeless
The Mississippi River has been on a rampage during the past several days. Floods along its course have raised the waters of the river to the highest peak within the recent memory of man. Levees, built to hold back the flood waters of the stream from overflowing its banks, have broken in several places and the surrounding country has been flooded with torrents of water. More than 30,000 persons are homeless, their property and all their personal belongings having been swept away in the swirling waters. More than 3,000,000 acres of land have been flooded.

Thousands of persons are laboring along the levees bringing up sandbags and placing them to strengthen them. Hundreds are engaged in relief work.

To understand the situation along the Mississippi Valley one must understand that along the lowlands from Tennessee southward when the river is spoken of it is "going up to the river," instead of down to the river as in this State. This is true for the fact that the surface of the river is higher than the adjoining land, for years the bank of the river having been built up with earth, stone and sandbags to prevent the overflowing on the adjacent land. Along these levees, as they are called, there is ever a force of men, each gang having in charge certain length of levee for attention. United States engineers are generally in charge of the work. Their business is to keep the levees always in good repair. Often in ordinary times there are small breaks, which are usually mended before any serious damage is done.

Any changes in the regular flow of the river are always kept tab on. Warnings are flashed from station to station along the river so that constant attention may be paid to the flow of the stream. These last floods along the river, however, have been so large that it has been humanly impossible to take care of the abnormal rise of the water, hence levees have broken and been pushed aside like so many piles of straw. The only hope seems to be in the receding of the flood waters.

Youth Pays One Over On Officer

Claimed To Be Man Wanted For Theft At Ramseur, But Turns Out To Be Brother.

Put In Jail, However And Finds He Isn't So Smart After All.

The general store of Marley and Caveness, at Ramseur, was robbed Sunday night of goods valued at approximately $200, the robbers making their getaway safely although a citizen living near the store saw the car drive away in the early light of the morning. Officers immediately got on the job and set machinery in motion to catch the thieves.

On Monday morning following the robbery, neighbors of Charlie Henson, who lives just east of Ramseur, reported a find of some suits, shoes, shirts, etc., stored in a vacant house and in a shack pen near the Henson home. They were identified as being a part of the goods stolen from the Ramseur store. Henson was deputized an officer by Sheriff Brady and began to watch for the return of the thieves to their cache. Acting on information which he had, Mr. Henson arrested a youth purporting to be Ramond Kennedy, of Greensboro, who was suspected of the theft of the goods. It developed that the youth arrested was Lester Kennedy, brother of the man wanted, and that he represented himself to be Raymond Kennedy in order that his brother might make his escape.

Lester Kennedy was given a hearing at Asheboro Tuesday morning and bound over to superior court on charges growing out of the misrepresentation which he made in order to throw the officers off the track of the man wanted. He is in jail in Asheboro.

Miss Lowdermilk Is Hurt In Wreck

Sustains Severe Cuts About Face And Neck When Car Leaves Highway.

In Hamlet Hospital

Miss Lucile Lowdermilk is in the Hamlet hospital at Hamlet undergoing treatment for severe cuts and bruises about her face and neck sustained in an automobile accident Saturday afternoon when the Ford sedan in which she and her father, S. F. Lowdermilk, of Asheboro, were riding turned down an embankment on the highway about six miles north of Rockingham. Mr. Lowdermilk sustained cuts about the face and neck also, but after his injuries were dressed at the hospital was able to return home.

Mr. Lowdermilk, who was driving the car, lost control of it when he attempted to kill a wasp which had gotten into the front seat. In reaching over to knock the wasp from his daughter's clothing, he turned the steering wheel and the car ran off the road down an embankment and came to a stop only when it plunged into a tree. Both Mr. Lowdermilk and his daughter were cut by the glass from the broken windshield.

Displaying unusual presence of mind, Miss Lowdermilk, though blinded by the blood from her injuries, made her way back to the roadway and stopped a passing car, which carried her and her father to Rockingham from which place they were immediately taken on to the Hamlet hospital.

Latest reports from the young lady are that she is recovering nicely from her injuries.
