More About "Good Fellowship" Meeting

to the foundation upon which the citizenship of the county is based. Early settlers of Randolph, according to Dr. Moffitt, were Scotch-Irish, German Quakers and English Quakers. They came seeking religious and political freedom, and it was the speaker's opinion that they found it. Aside from his subject, the speaker assured his audience that the meeting Friday night was by no means an effort to boost Asheboro, but to in some manner help in creating a bond of good fellowship between all citizens of Randolph county.

How the C. of C. Has Helped Dr. M. G. Edwards, secretary of the Asheboro Chamber of Commerce, followed Dr. Moffitt. Dr. Edwards' theme was the "Relationship of the Chamber of Commerce With the Rural Districts." He advised his audience that the chamber of commerce in looking about for the best possible means of developing the county had decided that first the towns and the rural districts should come to a complete understanding that the one could not prosper without the other. To assist in the development of the rural districts of the county, one of the first moves of the chamber of commerce was the investigation of the dairying possibilities of Randolph. A committee of the chamber of commerce visited the large creamery plants and dairying centers in the state, compared these with the possibilities in Randolph, and decided that the development of dairying and the establishment of a creamery would be one of the best beginnings that could be made toward the upbuilding of the county as a whole. Randolph, said Dr. Edwards, is one of the 300 counties in the United States which has its cattle free from tuberculosis, which, within itself, is no mean distinction. He also called attention to the Guernsey Breeders' sale which will be held in Asheboro on May 19, and explained how the chamber of commerce had worked toward getting this sale for the county.

Cattle On 10,000 Hills "I want to see cattle grazing on the 10,000 hills in Randolph and 100 purebred laying hens on every farm in the county," from Ewing S. Millsaps, Jr., county farm agent, next following Dr. Edwards, brought a round of applause. Mr. Millsaps had just explained that the goal he had set for Randolph was two brood sows on every farm, 100 laying hens and an average of five dairy cattle. He was talking to an audience that knew whereof he spoke. For some of the best cooperation which Mr. Millsaps has received in carrying out his program has been given by farmers of Concord township. Mr. Millsaps went into detail as to what the consummation of his program would mean to the county as a whole.

Rev. J. E. Pritchard Following Mr. Millsaps, Rev. J. E. Pritchard, pastor of the Asheboro M. P. church, made a most happy talk on the relationship which should exist between the people of the town and country. Twenty-two years of Mr. Pritchard's life has been spent in the country and 24 years in town, so he was well fitted to discuss the subject assigned him. Farm population is the great stabilizing factor in the country, said Mr. Pritchard, who expressed no fears of the Red propaganda as long as the farm population remained as conservative as it is. He explained that town and city were dependent upon the farm and in turn the farming population dependent upon the town and city population. The one cannot exist and prosper without the other, and in order that the greatest good be derived each should understand the other.

Rev. G. W. Clay Speaks There had been so much said that the most difficult task of all had been assigned by Farmer folks to their pastor, Rev. G. W. Clay. He rose happily to the occasion, qualified himself as a farmer, and made a most interesting talk, endorsing what had been said with reference to cooperation between the rural sections and the towns in the county. As a Methodist minister, Mr. Clay thought he had handled as many chickens as any man in the county, but admitted that Millsaps had him beaten to a frazzle since he had shipped 119,000 pounds of live poultry for the farmers of the county in the last several months. He spoke of the friendly feeling that existed between the people of the town and country and of the increasing spirit of good fellowship which was growing with the years.

A Notable Occasion Those who attended the meeting at Farmer generally felt that the first "Good Fellowship" meeting had gone over big. It was one of those occasions in which everybody knew everybody else and felt at liberty to express himself as he wished. It was fitting that Farmer should have been selected for the initial "Good Fellowship" meeting, for the Farmer community is one of the greatest farming sections in the county and has long been a great factor in the business, educational and social life of Asheboro and the entire county.

"Lactic Ferment Culture" Is Name Of Newest Drink

"Lactic Ferment Culture!" This name tacked on a drink is enough to make the public shy at it just like Old Dobbin shied at the first copper-headed Lizzie that banged and rattled down the road. But "a rose by any other name would smell as sweet," so it is not always the name that designates the quality of the product. Lactic Ferment Culture is the name of a new drink which will soon make its appearance in the stores in Asheboro. It is a whole milk product and is made by the Randolph Creamery, Inc. It is a most delicious and refreshing drink, made with the best milk—but the taste is the subtlest first

Ramsour Finals Begin Sunday, 1st

With Commencement Sermon By Rev. R. Murphy Williams, Of Greensboro.

Other School Programs Children Have Rendered "Peter Rabbit."

Ramsour, April 25.—There is never a dull program given by the children, because red blooded children are not dull. Last Wednesday evening was no exception to the rule when our school children entertained a large audience at the auditorium with "Peter Rabbit," a short play. The little folks knew their parts well and displayed good training.

On last Friday evening at 8:30, Mrs. N. F. Phillips presented Miss Frances Smith in a graduating piano recital here. A varied program of piano selections was rendered by Miss Smith, who showed rare skill and efficient training. She was assisted by Miss Juanita Gregg, of Greensboro College, Greensboro, who delighted the large audience with beautiful readings and impersonations, and Mrs. John C. Whitesell, of High Point, who sang two numbers with her usual charm. Miss Smith and Mrs. Phillips played a duet which was a masterpiece indeed. Following the program those participating and a number of Miss Smith's friends were given an informal reception at her home on Church street. Refreshments were served and a very pleasant hour enjoyed by all present.

Next Friday evening, April 29th, the Glee Club and orchestra will give a concert which will be enjoyable and for which there will be a small admission fee.

Sunday, May 1st, at 3 p. m., the baccalaureate sermon will be delivered by Rev. R. Murphy Williams, of Greensboro. Monday night, class day exercises will be held. On Tuesday, May 3, the literary address will be delivered by Dr. W. C. Livers, of N. C. C. W., Greensboro. In the afternoon the declaimers and reciters contest will be held, and at night the musical play will be rendered.

The Silver-Masked Tenor Makes Two New Records

The Silver-Masked Tenor, who made his name with the Goodrich Silvertown Glee Orchestra both in radio work and of the concert stage, has just made two new solo records for the Victor Talking Machine Company, according to Ingram & Co., local Goodrich Dealer.

"The new record by the Silver-Masked Tenor is listed in the April release for Victor dealers and offers on one side 'Dear Heart, What Might Have Been'. The other side of the record is 'Mammy's Little Kinky-Headed Boy', a number often sung by the world's greatest tenors. This record carries the serial number 20438.

"This last double-faced record of the Silver-Masked Tenor is the first solo released from this noted artist since early last year and is the third to be made since his vocal refrains with the accompaniment of the Silvertown Glee Orchestra brought him national-wide fame.

"Another record by the Silvertown Orchestra is also listed in the new April release. It carries the serial number 20440 and offers the new fox trot hit, 'If All The Stars Were Pretty Babies'. The Silver-Masked Tenor also sings the vocal refrain in this record."

The first seven days are the hardest, say brooder chicks, and the county agents who have been answering burry-up calls over North Carolina this spring agree with them.
