

Next Wednesday Marks Opening Of Randolph Fair

Extensive Preparations Have Been Made And Fair Is Expected To Be Best Ever.

Four Days, Five Nights With Something Interesting On The Program Every Hour Of The Entire Event.

Next Wednesday morning will mark the opening of the seventh annual Randolph County Fair at the fair grounds on Route 70 just south of the corporate limits of the town of Asheboro. The fair will last through four days and nights, coming to a close Saturday night, October 1st.

According to the usual promise, this seventh annual fair will be the largest and best in the history of the fair association. This promise for the fair next week, however, should be no idle boast nor advance propaganda. Crops have been good generally in the county this season, the poultry industry has increased by leaps and bounds, the livestock industry has made wonderful strides and at the same time the industrial life of the county has been expanded. Fair officials and department managers have for the past several months been putting forth intensive effort to surpass anything they have done at previous fairs in their particular lines of endeavor.

Ample space is afforded in the fair buildings and indications are that every inch of this space will be required to take care of the exhibits which will be brought in the days before the fair. And it is promised that these exhibits will be larger and better than have ever been seen at Randolph county fair in previous years.

Perhaps no one day can be singled out as the best day of the fair. It all depends on which most interests the individual. There is School Day on Wednesday, the first day of the fair. This means that all school children will be admitted free to the fair grounds that day. Thursday is set aside as Moore and Montgomery county day and on these days school children from these counties may enter the fair grounds without charge. Home Coming day is Friday of the fair. This was one of the biggest days of all last fair and promises to be a feature next week. Saturday is Everybody's Day and it means just what the name implies. Special programs have been arranged for each day of the fair. Whichever day the fair visitor attends he will see something of interest. And he will be entertained with free exhibitions each day. Entertainment may be had in the large midway, of course, by the payment of admission to the shows. There will be a free band concert twice daily during the fair by the Worthville brass band. A gorgeous display of fireworks at night and balloon ascension each day are some of the free attractions.

Made in Randolph Exposition
Not the least of the attractions at the fair this year will be the Made in Randolph Exposition. This is the second year of this department of the fair. It was one of the main attractions last year, and, no doubt, will repeat next week. Those in charge have put forth strenuous effort to enlarge this department this year. In this exposition will be exhibits from the manufacturing industries in the county to show what Randolph is accomplishing in the way of shaping the raw product into the finished article. Last year there were in the exposition some of the most interesting and unique exhibits to be found anywhere in the broad expanse of the fair floor space.

Prizes To Be Given
Prizes to be offered to the winners in the various departments of the fair this year amount to practically $3,000, which is a large figure for a county fair, and much larger than the total value of the prizes offered last year. There will be keen competition in the various departments this year, and the fair management feels that the winner should at least have something in the way of compensation for his efforts in addition to the pride and satisfaction of being a winner. Competent judges, some of State-wide note, have been secured for judging in each department.

Large Crowd Expected
One of the largest crowds ever assembled in Randolph county is expected in Asheboro next week. There is no serious epidemic of disease in the county, roads are good and the weather, whether good or bad, never keeps people away from public events any longer. Preparations have been made by the fair officials to handle the crowds each day in the best manner possible to expediate entry and exit from the fair grounds. It is not desired that the public be inconvenienced at any time for the lack of any accommodation.

Those who expect to attend the morning church services will please bear in mind that the service for next Sunday only will begin at ten-thirty and close at eleven-thirty. This is done in the hope of keeping the entire Sunday school for the special service.

Box Plant Began Work Yesterday

Started At About Half Capacity
And Expects To Be In Full Swing Soon.

Capacity Enlarged

The Old Dominion Paper Box Company began operations yesterday afternoon after having been closed down since the fire on August 9th which practically wiped out the plant on Salisbury street and badly damaged the Ross building in which the industry was housed. Operations yesterday began at about half capacity and it will be a week before full capacity is reached. It is anticipated that when full capacity is reached the output will be considerably larger than that prior to the fire. In fact, in addition to the machinery which was damaged by the fire and which has been repaired and renovated several new box making machines have been installed and others have been shipped for further enlarging of the plant.

The industry is now located in the Randolph Chair Company building where the machinery was moved from the Ross building immediately following the fire. Extensive remodeling has been done to the building in order to fit it for the use of the box plant. There is a large floor space and adequate warehouse room in the building.

During the six weeks which have elapsed since the fire local customers of the box plant have been supplied from the parent factory at Lynchburg, Va. This plant, however, running night and day was not able to take care of all the needs of the customers of the local branch for the reason that the Lynchburg factory had a large clientele to serve and at the same time had to ship out boxes for the Burlington branch, which had started to move in its new location about the time the fire destroyed the Asheboro branch. The Lynchburg plant found itself called upon to serve the entire clientele of the three plants, and, of course, could not fill orders in full.

The Asheboro plant, however, will now be able to serve local needs and at the same time expects to ship out from its central location in the State boxes to various parts of the country, opening up a field which it had not heretofore touched.

Strange Animal Running At Large In Union Township

Some sort of animal resembling a dog is running at large in Union township according to reports coming from that section of the county. Several persons have reported seeing the animal in the dim light of the early dawn and in the twilight, but none have seen it closely enough to form an opinion of its species. It is said to be the size of a large dog and to have a shaggy appearance similar to that of a shepherd dog, save that its legs are longer. Apparently it is not harmful to human beings, or at least it has made no attempts to harm any person. Dogs will not run the animal, however, and some of the bolder of the dogs in the community have turned tail and left when attempt was made to put them on the trail of the strange visitor to the community. That it is an animal which has escaped at some time or another from a show is the explanation natives make of its presence, or that it is an animal strayed down the Appalachian range of mountains and finally found itself in the foothills of the Uwharries.

Local Laundry Gets Good Business From Greensboro

The Asheboro Laundry is being patronized by sufficient number of Greensboro patrons for their truck to go up for laundry. Since Mr. and Mrs. McHuron have been in Asheboro they have purchased new equipment, moved into more adequate quarters and have improved the laundry in general. The fact that the McHurons are experienced laundry people is demonstrated in the quality of work which they are doing. While their work is equal to that of other towns they have not had the patronage of all the people which should have been accorded them. In order for good people to make good with any business, they should have the patronage of the citizens.

Tucker Not Native Of Randolph

Irvin B. Tucker, U. S. Attorney for the Eastern North Carolina District, was not born in Randolph county as has been previously stated in this newspaper. L. D. Bulla is authority for the information that Mr. Tucker first saw the light of day in Guilford county and that he did live with his parents in Randolph county for a brief period of three years. Tucker's father lived in an old dwelling house where the county home now stands, and since it was in the days when distilling was done under government supervision, the elder Tucker operated a distillery some distance west of his residence.

Thieves Steal Chevrolet Truck
Randall Hurley, of Union township, is less rich by one new Chevrolet truck than he was a week ago. Hurley went to the fair at Star Thursday night of last week and drove his new truck. Thieves took a liking to it also and made a clean get away with it. No trace has been found of either the truck or the thieves.

District Sunday School Meeting Held In Asheboro

Workers From All Over The Greensboro District Were In Attendance.

A meeting for pastors, Sunday school superintendents and workers of the Greensboro District of the M. E. Church, Asheboro, Monday. The meeting was called to order by Mr. L. F. Craven, of Ramsaur, after which Rev. J. W. Hoyle, Jr., led the devotional service. Rev. B. C. Reavis, pastor of the local church, made the address of welcome to the members of the meeting. Mr. O. V. Wooley, General Superintendent of the Sunday school work in the Western North Carolina Conference of the M. E. Church then stated the object of the meeting and outlined the program for the day.

Miss Corinne Little, Superintendent of Elementary Work in the Sunday schools of the conference, made an interesting and helpful talk in the interest of that part of the work. Mr. Paul F. Evans, Superintendent of the rural work in the conference, was then introduced and led in a splendid discussion regarding his phase of the work and outlined some plans for the future. The work of the young people was well presented by Mr. LeRoy Tuttle, who is superintendent of that work in the conference. Other interesting and helpful talks were made. The churches of the district were well represented. Wesley Memorial church, High Point, had the largest delegation outside of Asheboro.

At the noon hour a splendid lunch was served in the dining room by the ladies of the church. After an hour of refreshment, departmental meetings were held in the interest of special work in the several departments of the Sunday school endeavor. Among the factors discussed were an organized school graded according to ages, the regular meeting of classes, the guidance of a workers council, the use of graded lessons, the establishment of definite programs of work in evangelism and missions, and the observance once a year of Children's Week and Sunday School Day.

Nobody Seems To Want Randolph's Thirteen Boarders

How Can They Work At "Hard Labor" When Nobody Cares
To Furnish Jobs?

Boarding in the county bastle under the watchful eye of Jailor Tommy Brookshire are thirteen prisoners with which the county is through but of which it cannot rid itself. These are persons sentenced at the recent term of Superior Court to hard labor on the county roads. Now, Randolph has no county chain gang and hasn't had for many years past, and Rowan usually obliges by clearing our jail at frequent intervals of its guests. But the rub is that Rowan doesn't want any more prisoners for its chain gang. It has enough.

Several other counties which maintain chain gangs have been approached but these counties are in the same fix as Rowan. They have all the enforced road workers they want, and, in fact, some of them are seriously considering getting rid of those they have. They can get all the prisoners they want. Some counties even offer to deliver prisoners to these chain gangs free of charge just in order to get rid of them.

Unless there is some way of getting their sentences changed, county authorities will have to look about some more in order to find a new boarding place for the thirteen in the county jail. The sentences designate "hard labor" and hard labor isn't considered languishing in jail, but is usually thought of in terms of breaking rocks on county road work. Down East there are some counties with chain gangs which have not yet been approached with offer of the prisoners, so it may be that within the course of a few days Randolph's thirteen will have the opportunity of taking a free trip down in the cotton belt.

A large attendance is expected from the very beginning of the school year and the expectation is that this will be the banner year in the history of the school.

Purebred Cattle Have Scrubs On Run In Randolph

In Three Years There Have Been Placed In County 392 High
Grade Cattle.

76 Registered Bulls

109 Registered Guernsey Cows,
207 Grades And Number
Still Growing.

Three years ago there were only two purebred Guernsey bulls in service in the county and few, if any, of any other breed. Today there are more than 80 purebreds in service and of this number 76 are purebred Guernseys which have been placed on Randolph farms through the efforts of County Agent Ewing S. Millsaps, Jr. This accomplishment, the placing of 76 purebred bulls in the county within three years, is a remarkable achievement, and something of which the farm agent and the county as well might justly be proud. But it didn't end there. For during the same length of time there have been placed on Randolph farms 109 registered Guernsey cows and 207 grade cows. This makes a total of 392 cattle of the better grade placed in Randolph county in three years.

Getting down to more definite facts and figures, it was three years ago that County Agent Millsaps started this purebred bull and cattle program for Randolph. During six months of 1925 Mr. Millsaps placed on Randolph farm 30 registered bulls, 38 registered Guernsey cows and 46 grade cows. For this achievement he won second place in the State in the contest among county agents for the largest number of purebred bulls placed in any one county in six months. He won first place in the number of purebred Guernsey bulls placed in any one county in six months among all county agents in the union.

In 1926 there were 18 registered Guernsey bulls bought and put in service on Randolph farms. In addition to these there were 32 registered Guernsey cows and 53 grade cows. Keeping up the work which was started in 1925, the fiscal year ending August 31st, 1927, found an additional placement of 28 registered Guernsey bulls in the county, 39 registered Guernsey cows and 108 grade cows. The increased number this year over last year was probably due in large measure to the establishment of a creamery in Asheboro last April. This creamery will make approximately 10,000 pounds of butter during the month of September, which means that its production has grown by leaps and bounds since its inception.

Without putting any frills on it or unduly boasting it would appear that the placing on Randolph farms within a period of three years a total of 392 cattle is an achievement not to be sneered at, and one which has not been surpassed in many instances, if any, in the State. It means that the farmers of the county are waking up to the realization that the salvation of the entire farming industry in Randolph lies in livestock, especially in that phase of it appertaining to dairying. It means that in placing 76 purebred Guernsey bulls in service on Randolph farms several scrub bulls have been replaced and that the future generations of cattle in Randolph have a much better chance to have been sired by a purebred. It means that the entire livestock industry in Randolph has been placed on a higher plane and that in years to come—years not far distant—Randolph may be looked upon as the leading Guernsey county in the South. It may mean also, and the creamery is helping wonderfully along this line, that Randolph may at some not far distant date be referred to as one of the leading dairying counties among the 100 which make up the Tar Heel State.
