

Julius F. Reitzel Dies In Florida

Funeral Held Saturday Morning At The Home Of His Parents In Liberty.

Buried At Fairview

Funeral was held at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Reitzel, at Liberty, Saturday morning by Rev. F. L. Gibbs, assisted by Rev. W. M. Pike, for Julius F. Reitzel, who died Wednesday afternoon at his home in Tampa, Fla. Interment was made in Fairview cemetery. Mr. Reitzel was prominently connected with the Seaboard Air Line Railway Company as chief dispatcher of the north Florida division with headquarters in Tampa. He was a prominent member of the Masons, Railroad Brotherhood and several other fraternal organizations.

Mr. Reitzel was twice married. His first wife was Miss Gertrude Diffe, of High Point, and after her death he married Miss Mae Boyles, of Savannah, Ga. He leaves his widow and two sons, Wiley and Franklin; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Reitzel, of Liberty; one sister, Mrs. W. M. Hanner, Liberty; and one brother, Carl S. Reitzel, of Tampa, Fla.

Pallbearers at the funeral were officials high in the service of the Seaboard Air Line and who accompanied the body of Mr. Reitzel to Liberty from Tampa. Floral offerings were numerous and beautiful.

"Rube" Eldridge Stars

"Rube" Eldridge, product of Glenola, Randolph county, who has been erroneously dubbed "Duke of Spero," is setting the pace for pitchers among the cotton mill teams of the State. When "Rube" laid down his glove for the Piedmont League season he immediately put on another for the Amazon cotton mill team at Thomasville. He has pitched this team to two wins, the only two games he has pitched for them in fact. He won his last contest 11 to 1, and while it is forgotten the runs his team piled up in the first game it is recalled that "Rube" struck out ten men and that the opposition failed to score.

Plant Some Lettuce For Winter Garden

Lettuce Planted Now Will Furnish Abundance Of Succulent Heads For Holidays.

Raleigh, N. C., Sept. 19.—Much of the planting for the winter garden should have been done in August, but there's time yet for some of the shorter growing, cool season crops.

"One of the most important of these cool-season crops is lettuce," says E. B. Morrow, extension horticulturist at State College. "According to nutrition experts, lettuce stands well at the top of all leafy vegetables in vitamin content and there is no better dish that could be served on the family table in late fall than a head of crisp lettuce with some kind of good dressing."

Of the two general types of lettuce, the housewife now prepares the crisp varieties such as the Iceberg or New York. The Big Boston variety is still popular among some gardeners. Lettuce can be grown during the cool fall weather and be made to head well if a little protection is given the beds during the cold nights of November and December, states Mr. Morrow. The Big Boston variety should form heads in 8 to 10 weeks from the time of sowing the seed, while the New York or Iceberg varieties will form heads in from 10 to 12 weeks. Seed planted in September will provide excellent lettuce for Christmas under good growing conditions.

Mr. Morrow advises the sowing of seed in a small bed and transferring the plants to a larger bed. To head well, the Big Boston plants should stand about 12 inches apart and the Iceberg about 15 inches. Lettuce needs plenty of moisture. A little nitrate fertilizer will also help the plants to head.

For protection in cold weather, Mr. Morrow advises a canvas or sash. The plants will tolerate some cold weather but will not stand freezing.

Troy Policeman Rides About Town On Bicycle

Yes, its true even if it smacks of something different. We have no less authority for it than the Montgomery Herald. A policeman has refused the tender of an automobile and has astonished the populace of Troy with the request for a red bicycle, and, yea more, is even pedaling it up and down the streets of the Montgomery capital city in the performance of his duties. It all came about suddenly and surprisingly. Jim Freeman, the policeman who essays the job of keeping the Trojans in the straight and narrow path, told the town fathers he needed some piece of machinery designed for locomotion and the town daddies immediately suggested an automobile. But the councilmen were moving too fast for Freeman. He didn't want any automobile ever made, didn't even want a motorcycle. He wanted a bicycle. The town daddies couldn't see the point, maybe thought their officer was headed for the bug house, but all the same Freeman is enforcing the law via a red bicycle and from the reports that are coming from Troy, he seems to be doing his job up brown.

Kansas Cow Sets New Milk Record

Twelve gallons of milk a day, or more than triple her weight during the last four weeks, is the record of the Holstein cow owned by R. P. Brown of Columbus, Kas. Her average has been 96 lbs. per day. She weighs 900 pounds.

The Scuppernong

Do you know the scuppernong? Have you gone out in the early hours, when the dew was on the vine and the freshness of the September morning filled the lungs, to gather this luscious grape? One never gets away from the delicious odor and that indescribable flavor. Concentrated there is one of the elements contributing to the romance of Eastern Carolina. The frosts and cold of winter as well as the dews and heat of summer, under the friendly sky, go into the making of the scuppernong. Indigino to the land of the magnolia and the mocking bird; to the land of gentle breezes and the soft summer's sun, this luscious fruit remains one of the cherished prizes of the autumn time.

Would that some poet might arise to tell in proper measures the charms of the brown scuppernong in the days of autumnal glory! The romantic past of a loyal and heroic people would gain a new significance from the days in which a pioneer people tasted first the nectar of the ancient vine of the wilderness to these last approaching October days so redolent with the memory of the years.

The hill country can boast of winesap and pippin, but only the wide stretches of the flat lands know the scuppernong with all its pristine qualities and historic associations. The "Hill-billie" who knows not the flavor of the pride of the east has yet something to live for and look to. It would be well worth the trip to take a spin over one of North Carolina's ribbons of concrete.—M. T. P., In N. C. Christian Advocate.

Spectacular Rise Of Gov. Al Smith

Began Career As A Menial In A Fulton Street Fish Market—Now Governor.

The rise of Al Smith from a menial in a Fulton Street fish store in a down town district of New York City to Governor of the great Empire State for four successive terms and to a position of eminence in the councils of the Democratic party in the nation reads like a book of fiction. The man who is prominently mentioned as a possible Democratic nominee for the Presidency was left at the age of six years to support the family of his father who had died. He had no opportunity to attend school, but went out to battle for bread for the family.

He rose from the job in the fish market to a political job of serving summons at $1,000 a year. Al's wit and personality, his application to work, were soon recognized by his superiors and he continued from one job to another until he was sent to the legislature. In the meantime, he had built up a commercial truck delivery business. In the legislature he was soon recognized as the shrewdest member of New York's lawmaking body.

He was soon nominated for Governor of the State and for four successive campaigns has won out over his opponents, and this in spite of the fact that the Republican Presidential candidates always carry New York State by majorities reaching into the hundreds of thousands.

Al is not even a public school graduate and is not ashamed of it, although he is a friend of education. He was sarcastically asked once by an opponent from what college he had graduated. Al replied immediately, the "F. F. M." Asked to explain, he said "Fulton Fish Market." He hasn't read many books, is not a highbrow in any sense of the word, but he knows more governmental business and knows it more thoroughly than any other man who ever conducted the affairs of the Empire State. That, and the fact that he is possessed of one of the most pleasing personalities of any man in the universe, accounts in large measure for his remarkable rise to the eminence of a national figure.

Ten-Cent Gasoline

Pennsylvania Grit. Prediction is made that before long we shall have ten-cent gasoline. This prediction is based on a discovery by a German scientist who has sold his formula to the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey. According to information given regarding the formula gasoline is distilled from coal. The process involves very little expense hence the prospect of cheap gasoline.

But it is a question whether synthetic gasoline will be as practicable as the natural product—whether it will tend to carbonize faster than the gasoline we now use. It is held by some that it will, although the German scientist claims that it will not. Cheap gasoline that will carbonize rapidly would not be cheap in the end. How ever, this does not completely discount another modern discovery.

Here is beauty and the best, but in this instance, beauty represented by Miss Teresa Baron is on the long end, while the best honors in the hands of, to be exact, the feet of "Little George" take the second count. Anyway, you can personally view both beauty and beasts when John Robinson's Circus comes to this vicinity for afternoon and night exhibitions in the near future. "Little George" is one of the members of the juvenile zoo with the "pioneer circus of the world," while Miss Baron is one of the four Baron Girls, noted English aerialists. These girls are said to be without an equal in aerialistic, possessing abundant nerve and daring, as well as a godly share of English beauty. The 194th edition of John Robinson's circus comes with many new and novel features, as well as the greatest of all trained wild animal displays.

In a Bad Fix from INDIGESTION

"I had suffered with indigestion for 6 years," says Mr. E. C. Dove, R.F.D. 4, Chester, S. C. "I had gotten to the place where I could hardly eat a thing—everything hurt me. I had smothering spells and fell off 30 pounds. I was in a bad fix.

"I read of Black-Draught and decided to try it. I do not believe that I would have been living today had it not been for Black-Draught. I had gotten to where I only ate milk and crackers, but after taking Black-Draught I began to eat and gradually got my appetite back. I gained in weight and felt better. I have not had a bad spell of indigestion in ten months."
