

Randolph's Home Coming

The following was written by O. J. Coffin, head of the Department of Journalism at the University of North Carolina, in his column, "Shucks and Nubbins," in a recent issue of the Greensboro Daily News.

RANDOLPH'S HOME COMING O the Farrows and the Finches, The Harden and the Hinshaws, The Kivettes, Kimeses, Cagleses and Kearns

The Ashworth and the Andrews, The Speagle and the Saunders, Beeson, Bostic, Burgess will come back;

The Bunting and the Bulla, The Pentziss and the Fuller, Garner and Varner, Baldwin and Briles;

Hammond and Haddock, Hubbard and Hancock, Hamlin and Hodgins, Hayworth and Hall;

The Swains and the Skeenes, The Burrows and Beans, The Browns and the Bransons and Browsers,

With Hammer and Harris, With Plummer and Parrish, Will hold forth on old time for hours.

There'll be Tucker, Tysinger, Each man a humdinger, There'll be Davis, Deaton, Bonkemyer;

The Staley and Steed Will have all that they need, Likewise Hunsucker and Hurley and Hill;

The Robins and the Rankins Who with Armfield done their bankin' I'm expectin' there to meet 'em with the York;

Jennings and Jarrett! Don't see how I'll bear it If the hand isn't down from Bush Hill;

O the folks'll come from Stribey, From Danville and Beersheby, And for all that Red John Cox's hair is gray,

Our Practical Pattern No. 1152

Smart, indeed, will your new dress be if you choose this clever pattern and reproduce it on a figured silk with satin for the trimming.

See how "Parisian" it makes the whole dress! The new rayon materials would make up nicely in the model. May be obtained in sizes 16 to 44. Size 36 requires 2 1/2 yards of 40-inch material and 1 1/2 yards of satin for skirt and trimming.

Patterns will be delivered to any address upon receipt of 25c in cash or U. S. Postage. Always mention size wanted. Address: Practical Patterns, 1178 Broadway, New York City, and please mention this newspaper.

ASHEBORO (M. E.) CIRCUIT

It is a great opportunity for the Sunday School teachers on the Asheboro Circuit to make themselves more efficient by attending the Teacher Training School at the First Methodist Church in Asheboro which is to begin on October 16th.

The Fourth Quarterly Meeting of the Asheboro Circuit will be held at Pisgah church next Saturday, September 24th, at 11 o'clock. The church officials are expected to attend, and anyone will be welcome.

President Coolidge has let it be known that he has no intention of calling a special session of Congress, holding that business to come before the national law making body can be disposed of at the regular session.

back Lewis, Ed Hedrick, Lonnie Whitaker, W. J. Scarborough, Dr. Emmett Moffitt, Col. Ed Walker, Zip Whisenhunt and Squire Hal Worth out of my part of the ceremonies. They are hereby invited to serve on the reception committee.

I wish to add further that this effusion is intended primarily, if not solely, for Randolph folks, who will know how to rhyme Hinshaws with Finches and Andrews with Saunders.

I realize, too that Rouths, Lucks, Callicitta, Lassiters, Lewallens, Ledbetters, Lowdermills, Rushes, Ridges, Burkheads, Ingrams, Husseys, Hastys, Pearsons, McCains, Ellises, Elders, Doves, Curtises, Kinneys et al deserve honorable mention.

God bless 'em everyone, up and down, around and across, fore and aft, in general and particular, now and hereafter, forever and forever, ad infinitum, world without end. Amen.

P. S. S. This is positively the last time.

Statesman a Stickler for Legible Writing

Phillip Guedalla tells us, in connection with a letter addressed by Palmerston to Lord Lansdowne, which is reproduced in his biography, that the viscount was a great stickler for good handwriting, an article in the Kansas City Times recalls.

He early cautioned the young men of the foreign office against the twin iniquities of ill-formed letters and pale ink. But letters still continued to slope backward "like the raking masts of an American schooner," or stood in "horrid rows," which can only be compared to iron railings leaning out of the perpendicular.

His own flowed exquisitely in that faultless hand, which lived on in Mr. Gladstone's memory as one of the two perfect things that he had known, entitling Palmerston to be a trifle captious on points of calligraphy, to return a dispatch to a distant consul for transcription in blacker ink, and even to issue acidly precise instructions that some reluctant pupil "should form his letters by connecting his slanting down strokes by visible lines at top or bottom according to the letters which he intends his parallel lines to represent."

Grandeur and Decay in Palaces of India

The abodes of Indian potentates are an incredible mixture of the magnificent and the cheap, the grandiose and the ludicrously homely. Cows bask on the front steps; the anteroom is filthy with the droppings of pigeons; beggars doze under the gates or search one another's heads for lice; in one of the inner courts fifty courtesans from the city are singing interminable songs in honor of the birth of the maharaja's eleventh grandchild; in the throne-room, nobody quite knows why, there stands a brass bedstead with a sham mahogany wardrobe from the Tottenham Court road beside it; framed copies or prints from the Christmas number of the Graphic of 1907 alternate along the walls with the most exquisite Rajput and Persian miniatures; in the unseemly jewel room 55,000,000 worth of precious stones lie indiscriminately heaped; the paintings are peeling on the walls of the private apartments, a leprosy has attacked the stucco, there is a hole in the carpet; the marble hall of audience is furnished with bamboo chairs and the Rolls-Royces are driven by ragged chauffeurs.—Aldous Huxley, in the Bookman.

A Touchstone

The vitality of a translation, so far as it is a translation, is necessarily limited by the primary vitality of its original. . . . Virgil and Horace are among the immortals, the classics, not of one age or country, but of all time and all the world. Each one rediscovers and reinterprets them, and no translation can interpret more than one phase of their complex quality, their multifarious significance. The attitude of any period towards poetry, the meaning that poetry has for any period, may be partly gauged by observing what it found in the classics, and what, therefore, it expressed in its translations.—J. W. Mackail, in "Studies of English poets."

Belong There

An old lady was out riding with her son and his wife. Presently they came to a group of buildings surrounded by a high stone wall.

"What is that, son?" she asked, pointing to the buildings.

"That is the state insane asylum, mother," explained the son.

Next they came to a golf course, adjoining the asylum, which was well populated with the Sunday crowd.

"Oh, isn't that nice of them to let the poor crazy people out into the pasture!" exclaimed the old lady. "But they do act queer, don't they?"—Los Angeles Times.

Real Speed

Offspring the passenger clambered out of the two-seater sports car and breathed a sigh of relief as he found himself on firm ground once again.

He proffered his cigarette case to the driver.

"Very kind of you to give me a lift," he remarked at length.

"Only too pleased," said the motorist.

"You drive rather fast, don't you?" asked the other.

"Fast?" exclaimed the motorist. "That was nothing. You ought to be with me when I'm alone."

Teachers of County Will Meet in Asheboro Saturday

A meeting of all the teachers in the county has been called by County Supt. of Education T. Fletcher Bulla to assemble in the court house in Asheboro Saturday morning at 10 o'clock for the purpose of discussing the work to be done during the year and various matters pertaining to school work. Health certificates are required of all teachers this year, therefore physical examination will be made of the teachers Saturday by the health officer. Supplies will be distributed for school work by the county superintendent. Mr. Bulla states that it is of the utmost importance that all teachers be present.

NOTICE

To Members of Randolph County Historical Society: A meeting is hereby called of the members of the Randolph County Historical Society at 8 o'clock P. M., Friday night, September 23rd, at the court house, for the purpose of organization, with view to making possible the opportunity of interesting and interviewing the Home-Comers and others at the fair.

Veteran Minister Called By Death

Rev. J. H. Stowe, Well Known in Randolph, Died in High Point Sunday.

Once Lived Here

Rev. J. H. Stowe, retired minister of the Methodist Protestant church, died at his home in High Point Sunday afternoon following an illness of several weeks after declining health for several years. While the end was not unexpected, his death came as a distinct shock to his relatives and many friends throughout the State.

Mr. Stowe was born in Cabarrus county February 1, 1863, and was educated at Mount Pleasant. He was married on August 20, 1874, to Miss Margaret Elizabeth Long, of Union county, who died September 27, 1920.

Mr. Stowe served in the ministry of the Methodist Protestant church from 1889 to 1921. He served many pastorates throughout the M. P. conference throughout North Carolina during his years of faithful service. Among these charges were two in Randolph, the Richland and the Randolph charges. Each of these he served the full limit of time allowed and during this time endeavored himself to his congregations and to the public in general throughout the county.

Mr. Stowe attended the home coming at Why Not last August and as a mark of appreciation of his services to the church and in honor to the man the large congregation paused in its program for the day long enough to
