J. A. Briles Called By Death Monday At Home On Caraway

Mr. J. A. Briles, a prominent farmer of the Caraway section, died at his home Monday afternoon at the age of seventy-four. Until eighteen months ago, Mr. Briles had been active and energetic. He was again stricken around eight weeks ago, but was much improved until Thursday of last week when he suffered a final stroke which resulted in his death. He was an honest straight-forward citizen who had the confidence and respect of those with whom he came in contact. In early life Mr. Briles was enrolled as a member of the Mt. Pleasant Methodist Protestant church, of which he continued an earnest and faithful member. ### MR. HAMMER ENTERS FOR SIXTH TERM IN HOUSE

The News and Observer carried the following news item from its Washington, D. C. bureau in its issue of Wednesday, April 9:

Washington, April 8.—Representative Hammer has sent his $50 to the State Board of Elections as his fee for entering the primary as Democratic candidate for Congress from the Seventh North Carolina district.

Representative Hammer has been in Congress for nine years, which is far from being a record as Representative Pog, dean of the North Carolina delegation in the House, has been here for 30 years, and Representatives Sedman and Doughton have each been here for 20 years, and Representative Weaver, until his defeat two years ago, had been in the House for 16 years.

Representative Hammer looks himself as a mere youth as he has just been assigned to a major House committee, the Judiciary. The Democratic leader of the House has been here for 23 years.

PRIMARY CERTAIN FOR REPUBLICANS IN STATE

Whether the powers that be in the Republican party in North Carolina are favorable to a primary or not, one is in prospect for the G. O. P. Rev. Grady Dorsett, of Wake Forest, several weeks ago announced he would be a candidate for the Republican nomination for the United States Senate, and duly posted his $50 with the State election board. About a week ago, Major George Butler, of Clinton, sent his $50 to the State election board and announced his candidacy for the Senate. Yesterday, Representative George Pritchard, of Asheville, entered the race for the nomination. The next entry is expected to be Hon. David H. Blair, of Winston-Salem, former internal revenue commissioner, and a power in Republican politics in North Carolina. The Republican race promises to be second only in interest to that between Senator Simmons and Hon. J. W. Bailey for the Democratic Senatorial nomination.

Sheriff W. B. Millikan stated yesterday that, according to law, he would be forced to advertise all land for taxes on which the 1929 tax levy was not paid by the first Monday in May. ### Major Rich Talks About Old Trails Through Asheboro

One Of These Is The Old Yadin Road, Used By The Buffaloes, Speaker Says.

Boone Used Trail

In Carrying Good Catch Of Fur To Market At Wilmington—Old Trading Path Trail.

Major J. Hampton Rich, of Winston-Salem, was in Asheboro Friday and made an interesting talk at chapel exercises in the Asheboro city schools. He spoke about old trails which pass through Asheboro and related some interesting facts about them. One of these trails was the old Yadin road, used, Major Rich stated, by the buffaloes in passing from the tall grass at the "forks" of the Yadin to the tall reed thickets on the lower Cape Fear. It was in these reed thickets that the buffaloes spent the winter months. In the spring the animals migrated to the green grass on the Yadin.

Daniel Boone learned of this trail, said Major Rich, and followed it to Fayetteville at one time to sell an extra good catch of mink and muskrat skins. At another time Boone went to Wilmington to sell a catch of muskrat. On this particular trip the trail blazer, as Boone is often called, used the old Trading Patch, which runs a little farther north than the old Yadin road.

Major Rich announced a medal and cup contest, which is being sponsored by the Boone Trail Association. A marker for the Yadin road, he stated, would be placed in Asheboro in the spring.

Major Rich also spoke on the same subject to the Kiwanis Club at its regular meeting on Thursday night.

This conference has come to be one of the most attractive features of young people's church work in Randolph county.

FIRST M. E. CHURCH

The series of revival services came to a close at the First M. E. church a few days ago. The results were very gratifying. The church has been greatly helped by the services. Sixteen were received into the church last Sunday morning and for several reasons quite a number who had planned to join could not be present for the service and they will be received next Sunday morning. Fifty-five have been received into the church to date this year.

The Sunday school will meet Sunday at 9:45 a. m. Any who are not in Sunday school elsewhere are invited to join us.

The pastor will preach at 11:00 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. on the subjects: "The Lamp on the Stand" and "The Heart behind the Deed" respectively. Special music will be rendered by the choir.

The third Annual Young People's Meeting for all of the churches of Randolph county will meet here Tuesday at 10:00 a. m.

The Mid-week Service will be held Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. "Building Christian Character" will be the subject for consideration.

Suggested Asheboro Needs Swimming Pool

Among other suggestions along the line of needs in Asheboro and vicinity is a swimming pool. Our attention has been called to the fact that hundreds of people go to Ritters and other convenient lakes for swimming and bathing and that one near Asheboro would not only be more convenient but would be good investment. Since Dogwood Acres development is promising to be a popular section, this might be a logical place for a swimming pool, pleasure park and picnic grounds combined. Dogwood will soon be in bloom, drive by and think about our suggestion.

Two Negroes Lose Lives In Accident On High Point Road

And Mrs. Claude Isley Is Arrested As Result Of Mishap—Several Were Injured.

Mrs. Claude Isley, of Seagrove, was given her freedom Wednesday morning under $2,500 bond after having been in jail since Sunday morning on charge of manslaughter, following an automobile accident near Coble's filling station on the Asheboro-High Point highway shortly after midnight Saturday.

In the accident a negro boy, Fred Peeler, of High Point, was killed outright, and another negro, Claude Ingram, also of High Point, so badly hurt that he died Monday morning. Others injured in the accident were: Bill Garner, young white man of Randleman, and Sarah Craven, white girl of Cedar Falls, all in the car with Mrs. Isley; and Thornevil Ingram and J. B. Miller, negroes, of High Point.

The accident occurred when the Ford sedan in which the negroes were riding sideswiped a new Chevrolet coach after passing another automobile. Seven negroes, it is reported, were riding in the car, though three of them escaped the scene before officers arrived.

Garner and the Craven girl were riding in the car with Mrs. Isley. There are conflicting reports as to the driver of this car. Garner's left arm was so badly mangled that it had to be amputated above the elbow, while the Craven girl was bruised and knocked unconscious when the two cars hit. The injured were taken to a hospital in High Point for treatment. Mrs. Isley was taken to High Point jail and later brought to Asheboro.

Both of the cars were demolished. They were discovered about 100 yards apart, the Chevrolet headed down a deep embankment on the right hand side of the road and the Ford on its side on the left hand. The Chevrolet, it was reported, had been traveling towards Asheboro and the Ford towards High Point.

Junior Order Will Endeavor To Enroll Youths In Councils

April, May and June have been designated as the time for an "Enlist the Youth Campaign". Planned by the state council officers of the Junior Order in honor of the 12 young men who founded the order 77 years ago, Charles W. Snyder, of Winston-Salem, chief organizer for the Juniors, and his corps of workers are busily engaged in visiting councils of the state in the interest of increasing membership.

It was on May 17, 1853, that 12 young men under 21 years of age met in the old Concord schoolhouse in Philadelphia and organized the first council of the Junior Order. Since then the order has spread to every section of the Union and North Carolina has a membership of more than 52,000, given it the distinction of being the strongest fraternal order in the state.

Medals are being offered every man under 21 years of age who joins the order during the three months period and similar medals will be presented every member securing a new member. Mr. Snyder is calling upon council to secure 12 new members or more.

Indications are that the administration of Charles E. Hamilton, of Monroe, state councilor, will be one of the most successful in the history of the state organization from the standpoint of gains in membership.

Tax Listers Busy In Randolph County

The tax listers in the various townships are busy this month listing taxes and taking the farm census. Those who wish to avoid the rush should meet the list taker at the first opportunity and list their property. As has been stated previously, property is listed this year as of April 1st ownership, instead of May 1st, as formerly. The list taker in Asheboro township will be at the court house all this week for the purpose of listing property. Those who wait until the last day will be caught in the usual rush.

RATHER CUSS THAN BE CURSED, SAYS CRAVEN

According to Tuesday's High Point Enterprise, George Craven, municipal bond buyer, bond printer and newspaperman, of Trinity, here today said the report that he would be a candidate for the legislature in Randolph was put out without his knowledge and that while he deeply appreciates the compliment, he is not likely to make the race this year or next or ever. Mr. Craven, in and out of newspaper work for more than a quarter of a century, and who 20 years ago was news editor of the Greensboro Daily News, is now doing editorial work on the Thomasville News and Times, one of the liveliest weeklies in the state.

Two years ago his name was freely mentioned in Randolph as a possible candidate for the legislature but thus far he has consistently refused to enter politics, remarking today: "Why, if I were to be elected to a term in the legislature I would be forever barred from cussing out the boobs who go down there and enact such fool laws as those creating the State Sinking Fund commission, the County Government Advisory commission and the State Industrial commission, and there is a deal more fun in cussing than in being cussed."

FINE ROLE FOR LOWE IN "PAINTED ANGEL"

Edmund Lowe, hero of many a hard-boiled screen role, portrays one of his most vivid characters as leading man for Billie Dove in "The Painted Angel," the First National and Vitaphone picture coming to the Sunset Theatre Monday and Tuesday.

Lowe appears as a violinist in a New Orleans cafe whose arm is shot and paralyzed forever in a fight to protect the heroine (Billie). This polished actor has the opportunity to draw a clear-cut depiction of the saddened and crippled musician. Lowe himself says he believes it is one of the best things he has done for the talking screen.

Billie Dove portrays a night club owner and entertainer in "The Painted Angel," which is a screen version of Fannie Hurst's "Give This Little Girl a Hand." Millard Webb directed.

Training School At M. P. Church Very Satisfactory

Attendance Not So Large, But Quality Of Instruction Of The Highest Order.

25 Persons Attended

And Came From Asheboro, Siler City And Denton—School One Of Three In State.

The Leadership Training School, which has been in progress at the local Methodist Protestant Church since March 24, came to a close on Monday evening of this week. While the school was not as largely attended as some schools put on in this State yet it was very satisfactory. There were about twenty-five persons in the classes, these coming from Denton, Siler City and Asheboro. There were two classes of pupils, those who worked for credits, that is, did all the work assigned by the instructors, and the other class were those who did not care to work for credits but came and took part in the class room discussions and got as much as possible out of the course. Mrs. H. W. Maier, of Thomasville, conducted a class in Training Worship and the Devotional Life; Rev. F. L. Gibbs, of Durham, who was dean of the school, taught a class in the Principles of Teaching; and Rev. E. L. Ballard, of High Point, taught a class in the New Testament.

This school was one of three being carried on in this state at the same time, the other two being in Greensboro and Graham. The enrollment at Greensboro was about seventy-five and at Graham about 120. Of the three schools the largest enrollment from any pastoral charge was from Mt. Hermon circuit, a strictly rural charge near Graham, with a registration of 33.

Judge Shaw Asks Special Term Of Court For County

In Order To Clear Up Criminal And Civil Dockets—Solicitor Wants Term Also.

Regular Term Closed

Last Saturday—Several Stiff Sentences To Roads And Pen Meted Out By Judge.

Provided the recommendations of Judge Thomas J. Shaw and Solicitor Zeb V. Long are carried out, Randolph county will have at no late date a two weeks' special term of court for trial of cases on both the criminal and civil dockets. These dockets have again become congested despite the special terms of court which were held in the county last year for the purpose of clearing them.

Several cases were disposed of last week in criminal court, and Judge Shaw was not slow in imposing stiff road sentences in several instances. The longest sentences meted out by the judge were against Bunk Patterson and Joe Shoffner, who were found guilty of larceny, and sentenced to served ten years each in the State penitentiary at hard labor.

An unusual case was that against Joe Bronson, who was arrested in Trinity township on April 2nd on charge of larceny of grain, a wagon and a mule. Bronson was tried the next day, and after pleading guilty, was sentenced the next day to serve two years on the county roads.

Other cases tried included the following: State vs Russell Wicker, suspended sentence of three months on roads, conditioned on paying costs, and not driving a car within 8 months.
