

Hold Exercises To Celebrate Founding Duke Endowment

The anniversary of the founding of the Duke Endowment was celebrated at several places throughout the state Sunday.

Among those participating in the exercises Sunday afternoon were Dr. Lingle, president of Davidson college, Judge William R. Perkins, vice chairman of the board of trustees of the Duke endowment; Dr. W. J. McGlothlin, president of Furman university; Dr. Robert Wilson, dean of the medical college of South Carolina; Rev. C. K. Proctor, superintendent of Oxford orphanage; and Clyde R. Hoey, of Shelby.

Among those from Duke University participating in the exercises were President W. P. Few, Dr. R. L. Flowers, Dean Justin Miller, Henry R. Jr., secretary of the Duke endowment; Dwire, A. C. Lee and A. H. Sands, board of trustees.

FRED KIRBY.

Fred Kirby, (above), radio star of WBT, will be on the stage of the Sunset Theatre Saturday afternoon and night.

Thirty seed pans were used by Moore county farmers in harvesting lespedeza seed this fall.

Deaths

Abraham Coble

Abraham Coble, 84, who died at his home on Julian, route one, Sunday morning, was buried Monday afternoon at Coble's church, near Burlington. Mr. Coble had been in ill health for sometime prior to his death. D. A. Coble, of Julian, route one, is his only surviving son. Three grandchildren and four great-grandchildren also survive.

J. R. Gordon

J. R. Gordon, 76, acting mayor of Hamlet, died Saturday at his home at Hamlet. He had been ill from bronchial pneumonia and heart trouble for a few days only. Mr. Gordon was a native of Wilmington, coming to Hamlet 25 years ago with the Seaboard Railway. He was well and favorably known in that section of the state.

Jesse Marcus Steed

Jesse Marcus Steed, 76, formerly of Randolph county, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. J. F. Grady, in Greensboro, last week, following an illness of two years. Mr. Steed had made his home in Greensboro for the past 20 years, having been in the contracting business until his retirement 10 years ago on account of declining health. A brief funeral service was conducted at the Grady residence Friday morning at 10:45 o'clock by the Rev. Raymond Lanier, pastor of Bessemer Baptist church, and burial rites being held at Union church, Worthville, Friday at noon.

Mrs. C. T. Hudson

Funeral services for Mrs. C. T. Hudson were held Monday afternoon at the Baptist church at Ramseur by Rev. H. M. Stroupe and Rev. J. Thomas Kenyon. Mrs. Hudson, who was 65 years old, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. E. Watson, near Greensboro Saturday. She is survived by three daughters, Mrs. W. A. Marley, of Ramseur; and Mrs. J. E. Watson and Miss Grace Hudson, of Greensboro; two sons, T. B. and Walter Hudson, of Ramseur; and a half-brother, Price Hugh, of Staley, route one.

Mrs. Hazel Brim

Mrs. Hazel Brim, 26, died at her home near Flag Springs, on November 29th, after a two weeks' illness. Mrs. Brim was a member of Flag Springs Methodist Protestant church, but funeral and burial services were conducted from Hullah Baptist church. Rev. F. R. Cooper conducted the services. A great many friends and floral tributes bespoke the high esteem in which Mrs. Brim was held in her community. Among the survivors are her husband and a small daughter, her parents, two brothers and five sisters.

Dr. J. C. Staley

Dr. J. C. Staley, who was born and reared in Liberty township, died at his home in Burlington Thursday of last week. After completing his education in the public schools of Randolph county Dr. Staley attended Wake Forest college, later going to Louisville Medical college at Louisville, Ky. He came back to Randolph county where he practiced medicine for nine years. He then taught school for a number of years before moving to Burlington, where he remained until his death. He was actively connected with the business, civic and religious life of his community. Dr. Staley is survived by his wife, Mrs. Belle Long Staley, of Burlington; two sisters, Miss Mary Staley, of Staley, and Mrs. E. S. Foust, of Newark, N. J.; and a nephew, P. A. Staley, of Greensboro.

Charles W. Bain

Charles W. Bain, native of Randolph county, died in Greensboro Saturday at the age of 65. In early life he was married to Miss Sallie Wainwright, daughter of Marion Wainwright, also of Randleman township. They resided in Randleman a number of years, after which they moved to Greensboro where Mr. Bain was engaged in the grocery business in which he continued until his health caused him to give up his business a few weeks ago. He is survived by his wife and the following sons and daughters: Misses Annie Laurie and Margaret Bain, and Mrs. J. W. Sparrow, Greensboro, and Mrs. T. M. Adkins, Richmond, Va.; J. C. and C. H. Bain, Greensboro; also two brothers, J. W. and W. T. Bain, Greensboro; and one sister, Mrs. Annie V. Myrick, of Asheville. Mrs. Frances Bain Millikan, wife of J. M. Millikan, of Greensboro, was also a daughter of Mr. Bain. She died a number of years ago.

John Gray

John A. Gray, 71, retired blacksmith, widely known and popular throughout northern Randolph, died at his home at Trinity Sunday morning after being in failing health for a year and a half. He had been critically ill for only a few days. A brief funeral service was conducted from the home at one o'clock Monday by Rev. C. A. Wagoner, Methodist minister of Trinity, following which the body was taken to Bethany M. P. church, near Randleman, where services were in charge of Rev. D. R. Williams, a former pastor, and Rev. J. D. Williams, of Welch Memorial church, of High Point, of which the deceased was a member. Surviving the deceased are the widow, Mrs. Derrida Julian Gray, seven sons, Arthur, Clammey, Gervin, and Virgil, all of High Point; Clarence, of Lexington; Jesse, of Burlington, and Roland, of Trinity; three brothers and a sister, Monroe, Alexander and Benjamin and Miss Mary Gray, all of High Point. One daughter died several years ago.

Because of low prices, Anson county growers withheld their turkeys from the Thanksgiving market and are conditioning them for the Christmas demand.

The high school. It was stated that plans had been made to furnish the stage equipment for the school auditorium by aid and cooperation of friends and patrons, and it was further stated that they would be able to get at least a part now with prospects of more later. A sample curtain was displayed and a talk explaining terms on which the curtains could be obtained was made. Next Saturday evening students of Winston Art Studios, assisted by a group from Siler City, will give a free entertainment at the school auditorium at which time curtains will be on exhibition and presented to the school. John W. Clark and Prof. J. H. Mitchell will make speeches of acceptance. All patrons of the school and those contributing and advertising are requested to be present.

Notwithstanding the cold rain Saturday evening, several came out to hear the Stamps Trio of Greensboro, who presented a splendid program. By request, they will repeat this program Tuesday night this week.

Our Sunday schools are all making preparation for Christmas eve. The Holiness school will furnish a treat for the whole school. The Baptist school will have a tree, a treat for primary and junior grades and an entertainment. The M. E. church will have a tree, an entertainment and treat for children and on Christmas evening, a cantata, "Pilgrims of Faith," will be presented.

Rev. H. M. Stroup filled his appointments at Baptist church Sunday, preaching a sermon Sunday morning followed by a church conference. The following officers were elected for the coming year: Superintendent of Sunday school, W. A. Martin; assistant, S. C. Trogon; church treasurer, John W. Clark; financial secretary, Miss Nettie Moon; assistant, Mrs. J. H. Mitchell; deacons, John W. Clark and J. O. York.

John Q. Pugh, whose residence was destroyed by fire about a month ago, has commenced to build near the old location.

The Glee Club of Franklinville high school will give a musical concert at the school auditorium, Saturday evening, December 17.

Robert Hughes, of Greensboro, spent Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Hughes.

W. R. Maner and Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Craven were guests Sunday afternoon in the home of J. C. Maner.

Fred Patterson, of Greensboro, spent Sunday with homefolks.

Mr. and Mrs. Luther Johnson, of Asheboro, were guests Sunday in the home of C. C. Curtis.

Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Weatherly visited relatives at Jonesboro Saturday.

Miss Annie Woodell, of Ramseur, was a visitor here Sunday.

Mrs. Crissie McKinnon and Misses Lelia and Ethel McKinnon spent the week in High Point.
