Death Claims J. A. York, Prominent Asheboro Citizen

Death Ensued Monday Morning From Effects of A Heart Attack Suffered Sat.

A Leading Citizen

Former Mayor Of Asheboro And Was Chairman Of Democratic Executive Committee.

J. A. York, prominent business, civic, religious and political leader, died at his home in Asheboro Monday morning at 10:30 o'clock. The direct cause of his death was a heart attack suffered at 3 o'clock Saturday morning.

Mr. York had suffered from complications of diseases for some time and had received treatment in a Greensboro hospital in the spring. He returned home, however, seemingly improved. In recent weeks he had been feeling unusually well and kept in close touch with his business as president of the Greensboro-Fayetteville bus line. He was at his office as usual Friday, but at 3 o'clock Saturday morning a feeling of nausea. A few moments later members of the household heard him fall in the bathroom and investigating found him unconscious. He rallied and Sunday was in a cheerful frame of mind, but physicians and relatives held no hope for his recovery. At midnight Sunday, he began to sink perceptibly and continued to do so until death came in the mid-morning Monday.

At the time of his death, Mr. York, in addition to his business affairs, was chairman of the Randolph County Democratic Executive Committee, having led his party through the 1932 campaign in a most successful manner. He had been mayor of the city of Asheboro, member of the city council at different times, a member of the Masonic order, member of the Kiwanis club, and veteran of the Spanish-American War. He was well and favorably known in Asheboro and Randolph county, where his counsel and advice were often sought in matters of public importance. Unassuming in manner, soft in speech, he lived among his fellow men in such a manner as to gain public confidence and esteem. His concern, aside from his family and business interests, was in the welfare of the county and county in which he lived and served.

James Adolphus York was born February 20, 1878, near Central Falls, a son of the late E. L. and Rebecca Hackett York. He was first married to Miss Mattie Howell, daughter of J. W. Howell, of Randleman, and to this union was born one daughter, Miss Marguerite York, a teacher in the Liberty high school. His second marriage was to Miss Treva Rush, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Z. F. Rush, of Asheboro. To this union were born the following children, James and Gordon York, both of Asheboro, and associated with their father in the Greensboro-Fayetteville bus line, and Miss Helen York, student of Women's college of the University of North Carolina, Greensboro. His wife died several years ago. He leaves also four brothers, E. O., Frank and George L. York, of Central Falls, and Ernest York, of Lexington; and four sisters, Mrs. Henry G. Pugh, Asheboro; Mrs. J. C. Wood, Mrs. T. C. Wood and Mrs. Claude Herndon, all of Charlotte.

Funeral was held at the First Methodist church, of which Mr. York was a member, Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock, with Rev. R. S. Truesdale, D. D., in charge. Burial followed in the Asheboro cemetery. Among the many out-of-town visitors attending the funeral and burial services were: L. T. Harrington, W. L. Smith, W. R. Tate, all of the Fayetteville Bus Station; Wilson Rong, Mr. Bowden and Mr. Gilmer, of the Winston-Salem Bus line; Raymond Erhardt and J. W. McNeill, of Raleigh; Harold Cooley, of Nashville; Carl Hill, of High Point.

New York Colored Man Observes Many Changes In City

Henry Baldwin, a respected colored citizen who left Asheboro 37 years ago and went to New York to live, has been in the state for several weeks on account of his health. He came to Asheboro two weeks ago, and has enjoyed meeting his old friends and visiting the scenes of his childhood. Henry notes the many changes in the town among which are the new court house, which stands where he used to help "Uncle" Jesse Lytle in the barn lot of Col. McAlister, the brick residence occupied by Mr. Mills' family is on the old Bull's Grove church site where he went to school in 1881 to Elmer Meade, a white teacher who came down from New York. He has a card on which he has a postage stamp and picture of his teacher with his autograph. Henry missed the old wells in the town, too, as his father, Atlas Baldwin, was a well digger, and he assisted him in cleaning out wells. He also misses his old white friends, of whom he speaks affectionately, as well as the old residence, old court house and places of business. His memory of Asheboro as a citizenship was that 400 people lived here.

Says Ward Failed Comply With Law Governing Primary

Stanley Winborne, North Carolina's utilities commissioner, is protesting the candidacy of W. L. Ward, Randolph county Republican leader, for the Republican nomination for the same office. Mr. Winborne charges that Mr. Ward failed to meet the law's requirements in filing notice of his candidacy with the state board of elections. The board will meet Saturday to consider the protest. Calvin Zimmerman, of Raleigh, has also filed as G. O. P. candidate for nomination for public utilities commissioner. Winborne will have opposition for the nomination from E. C. Macon, of Asheville. Since the only contest for state offices in the Republican household in the state is that between Ward and Zimmerman, the Republicans will be entitled to a judge of election in the primaries in the counties in which there is no Republican primary; and this has been suggested as a likely reason that two filed for the same place.

John Moffitt Hurt When Team Mules Stages A Runaway

There was much excitement around the noon hour Tuesday near the local school building, when a team of mules ran away and John Moffitt was painfully injured. Mr. Moffitt, who works on the farm of Claude Wingham, two miles east of Asheboro, had driven to the McDowell fertilizer building and was waiting for a load of fertilizer when the mules became frightened at a passing train. Although Mr. Moffitt was holding the bridles of the mules, they became unmanageable and ran away, dragging Mr. Moffitt and the wagon running over him. His injuries were at first thought serious and he was taken to the hospital but after a few hours' treatment was able to return home. The runaway team disregarded roads and ran on the school grounds, finally stopping at the playground swings, where John Miller McDowell caught them and drove them back to the fertilizer building. The school children had a real fright and many of them the first sight of a runaway team.
