A Record Number Of Poppies Sold Here Saturday

Over Twelve Hundred Poppies Sold By Loyal Auxiliary Workers And Helpers.
Raise $150.14
High School Girls Assist In Sale; Auxiliary Extends Thanks To The Public.
"Forget-them not: As years go by, our remembrance they rely. They are the maimed Death did deny, its solace—crippled, blind they try To find on earth the peace they know in Flanders' Fields."

The people of Asheboro remember. On their way to work last Saturday morning, May 26th, they were offered little red poppies to wear in memory of the World War dead. They were also offered an opportunity to contribute to the welfare of the War's living victims. All day Saturday members of the American Legion Auxiliary, assisted by a number of High school girls were on the streets with baskets of poppies and with coin boxes to receive contributions in exchange for the memorial flowers. No price was fixed for the poppy. The amount dropped into the box of the poppy seller was a donation to relieve the suffering caused by the war—for the ones for whom War is not yet over.

The purpose of the Auxiliary's poppy program is to place the symbol of heroic sacrifices above the heart of every true American, giving at the same time an opportunity to serve the war's living victims. The custom of wearing poppies in memory of the World War dead is fifteen years old this year and is generally observed throughout the English speaking world. In the United States the women of the American Legion Auxiliary have developed a program for the raising of money to bring aid to those who have lost health and strength in the Nation's services. Nearly ten million Americans wear the American Legion and American Legion Auxiliary poppy each year on "Poppy Day," the Saturday before Memorial Day, and contribute nearly one million dollars for the relief of the war disabled, the widows and fatherless children. Over twelve hundred of these little red flowers were worn in Asheboro last Saturday, and $150.14 was contributed for the funds of the local American Legion Auxiliary to be used in giving aid to disabled veterans, their families and families of the dead for whom no other aid is available.

The American Legion and American Legion Auxiliary wish to thank The Sunset Theatre, Hudson-Bell, Asheboro Printing Company, Randolph Tribune, Asheboro Courier, Old Hickory Cafe and all other places of business as well as every individual who helped in any way to make possible the organization for this poppy sale. The co-operation was splendid and it helped greatly in making for Asheboro the most successful "Poppy Day" in its history. The high school girls assisting in the sale were: Elizabeth Henley, Mary Sue Hayward, Dot Cranford, Helen Bulla, Maxine Cole, Linnie Brown, Pauline Ellis, Frances Frazier, Virginia Cross, Ann G. Ross and Mildred Parks. Donald Chisholm, who has always been a faithful worker on "Poppy Day" assisted Headquarters in promoting sales. Members of the Auxiliary are especially grateful to their enthusiastic members and gold star mother, Mrs. L. C. Phillips, for her efficient work in the Post Office District.

Memorial Service Sunday, June 3, At Mt. Pleasant Church

A memorial service and community singing will be held Sunday June 3, beginning at 11 o'clock a. m., and lasting throughout the day at Mt. Pleasant (locally known as Kivett's) church, located on old highway 60, three miles south of Liberty. The public is invited to attend and to bring a well filled basket for a dinner which will be served picnic style. Rev. W. J. Byrum, the pastor, will preach at eleven o'clock, with some special singing. Flowers will be distributed on the graves in the cemetery. In the afternoon, beginning at 1:30, a song service will be held. Rev. Fred R. Love and Rev. T. F. Andrew will make short memorial talks. Several good singers and quartets are expected to take part. R. P. Smith, of Liberty, will be in charge of the program.

Large Number Candidates To Choose From In Primary On Next Saturday

The primary Saturday will be the first in the history of Randolph as relates the selection of nominees of both the Democratic and Republican parties for the fall election. It will not be the first for state and district offices, but will be the first Congressional race since Randolph was made a part of the fourth district along with Chatham, Wake, Franklin, Nash and Vance counties.

A candidate to be nominated by his party must have a majority of all the votes cast for candidates for the particular office which he seeks, unless the next high man elects not to make the run-off in a second primary. On the Democratic county ticket, four men are seeking nomination for member of the state house of representatives. These are J. D. Ross, J. F. Burkhead, Henry L. Ingram and A. C. Lowdermilk. For Clerk Superior Court, there are two candidates, Clarence J. Lovett and W. C. Hammond. For Coroner, Dr. W. L. Lambert and Dr. L. M. Fox are seeking the Democratic nomination. The name of Sheriff C. E. King, who is a candidate to succeed himself, does not appear on the ticket since he has no opposition within his party.

Cooly Declares Self In Accord With New Deal

In Speech Delivered In Asheboro Saturday To Assemblage In Court House.

Bids For Votes
Declared He Had Worked And Spoken For Party; Is Asking People For Support.

Several hundred people gathered at the court house in Asheboro Saturday afternoon to hear Hon. Harold D. Cooley, candidate for congress from Nash, speak to the voters of Randolph. Mr. Cooley was introduced to the assemblage by J. P. Garner, of Asheboro.

The speech was started with a compliment to the long and splendid record of the late Congressman Edward P. Cooley, whose seat Mr. Cooley would fill in congress as a representative from the fourth district. The speaker expressed himself as being thoroughly in accord with the present administration and pleased with the New Deal headed by President Roosevelt and delighted that the government is again restored to the people.

Mr. Cooley stated that he did not ride upon any political machine nor was he under the control of any person nor corporation therefore he only asked the people to scrutinize the records of all the candidates and select the best qualified man to carry the spotless banner of Democracy through the campaign of November to victory. He further stated that he was not seeking a fee simple deed to the office nor did he desire it as an heir apparent, nor did he choose to buy the seat, explaining that kings, princes, nor crown princes had no place in the ranks of Democracy.

The speaker claimed to have done more work, traveled more miles and made more speeches for the Democratic party than all of the other candidates put together. He closed his brief but strong speech with a bid for votes in the primary, and pledged to return from Congress with clean hands and a pure heart in return for the trust of his constituents.

SAYS NRA HASTENING END OF CHILD LABOR

Des Moines, Iowa.—"The complete abolition of child labor is nearer than ever as a result of the National Recovery Administration," Miss Ruth Scandrett, of the national industrial division of the Federal Children's Bureau, told members of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers in session here. She warned that, while the Nation heartily approves the work of abolishing child labor as begun in the first NRA code and all others subsequently, the subject is of such vital importance as to warrant approval of the amendment to the Federal Constitution, to make perpetual the accomplishment of the past few months under the President's Recovery Program.

Hal Hammer Walker Graduates
Mrs. Wm. C. Hammer, Harriette Hammer Walker and Jane Page Walker attended the graduating ceremonies at Christ School, Arden, where Hal Hammer Walker was a member of the senior class. Hal H. Walker returned to his home in Asheboro for the summer months. He then expects to begin his pre-med work in the fall.

Questions Concerning Voting In The Primary Answered By Mr. Cranford

E. H. Cranford, chairman of the Randolph county board of elections, in a letter published herewith sets at rest some of the rumors and uncertainty as to the right of electors of the two major parties to vote in the primary. During the primary campaign there has been some uncertainty as to whether Republicans might participate in the Democratic primary by voting for one or more candidates for office, and also vote for members of their own party for other offices. Mr. Cranford states that, under the law, this cannot be done; that a Republican, if he votes in the primary, must vote for Republican nominees only, and Democrats for Democratic nominees only. His letter clarifying this and other points follows:

Answers To Questions On Primary.

From the numerous inquiries which come to me almost daily with respect to the right of Republican and Independent electors to vote in the primary election, it appears that there is still considerable misunderstanding about this subject, so I will attempt to answer some of the more important of these questions.

Can a voter, registered as an Independent, legally vote in a Democratic or Republican primary? Answer, No. When one registers as an Independent he thereby states that he is not a member of, or affiliated with, either of the two political parties holding primaries in the state this year. So long as he remains an Independent, he is not a member of either party and, therefore, the law confers upon him no right to participate in the selection of the nominees of either the Democratic or Republican parties. In the General Election an Independent voter, of course, can vote any way he so desires, but he cannot vote in a primary election.

Can a voter, registered as a Republican, legally vote part or all of the Democratic primary ticket in a primary election? Answer, No. When one is registered as a Republican and declares that he is a Republican at the time he goes to vote in the primary, he should be given only a Republican ballot, if the Republicans have a ballot in that primary, and if there is no Republican ballot in that primary, then he should not be allowed to vote in such primary. He has no right to be given the Democratic primary ballot. One cannot legally vote in the primary part of the Republican ticket and part of the Democratic ticket. Likewise a Democratic voter is not entitled to vote for any of the Republican candidates in the primary. In the primary the voter is assisting in the selection of the nominees of the party with which he is affiliated in good faith.

May a voter legally vote as a Democrat in the primary and as a Republican in the following general election? A person may change in his party affiliation and ask that the change be entered on the registration book. However, a voter who votes with one party in the primary and with another party in the general election may have his vote challenged on the ground that he does not affiliate with the political party in whose primary he proposes to vote and is not in good faith a member thereof, meaning that he does not in good faith intend to support the nominees of such party in the general election, and it would be the duty of the registrar and judges of election of the precinct to hear and decide the challenge.

Are markers allowed in primary elections? Answer, No. A voter may be accompanied into the election booth and assisted by any member of his family, or by any election official upon his own request, or by any other person requested by him. The law no longer requires the approval of the election officials, and a voter may call upon any one he wishes to assist him.

—E. H. CRANFORD,
Chairman Randolph County Board of Elections.
