Bank Of Coleridge Locates Its Home Office, Ramseur

Discontinues Institution At Coleridge And Moves In Entirety To Ramseur.

Is Strong Bank

One Of Most Liquid Banks In State; Ramseur People Pleas-ed Over The Move.

The Bank of Coleridge, of Coleridge, has been moved to Ramseur and the office at Coleridge discon-tinued. Garland W. Allen, cashier, is in charge of the bank. The Coleridge bank opened branch in Ramseur on April 2nd, with Mr. Allen in charge, leaving Miss Scotten in charge of the Coleridge office. However, at a recent meeting of the board of directors it was deemed the best interests of the bank to move it in entirety to Ram-seur for a broader field of business. This bank has enjoyed a steady growth from its beginning only a few years ago, and while it was never one of the large banks of the state, it was one of the most liquid and after the national banking holimy experienced no difficulty in reopening when the ban was lifted. Since opening a branch at Ramseur, deposits in the bank have increased by approximately $88,000, and assets likewise have increased. The bank is now—as are all banks in operation entirely liquid. It has deposits of $138,103.57, with loans totaling $54,-332.87. Cash on hand and due from approved depository banks amount to $128,348.67, to which should be added $34,438.36 in North Carolina bonds and notes and $1,200 in government notes. The bank has a capital and surplus of $30,000. Total assets of the institution amount to $168,451.03.

Ramseur people have been quickly responsive to the services offered by the Bank of Coleridge, as is attested in the healthy growth of deposits since the bank opened a branch there. Prior to opening of the Ramseur branch, the Coleridge bank served a wide clientele of people in Ramseur and vicinity, and the institution is not a new one to the community.

Branch Office Is Opened For Sale Of License Plates

Motorists Can Now Obtain License Plate Service Without Any Inconvenience.

Randolph county motorists may now obtain the same service as formerly in obtaining state automobile license plates. A branch office of the Carolina Motor Club has been opened in the J. P. Garner, Inc., building on South Fayetteville street with Mrs. J. C. Senter in charge. Not only state license plates may be obtained here, but any service or information relative change or transfer of titles, etc., may be obtained from Mrs. Senter. The half-year license plates talion, 120 Infantry, composed of two are on sale now and may be had upon application to Mrs. Senter. Carolina Motor Club memberships may also be obtained at the same office.

This branch office will be open every day in the week and will afford the same service to motorists that Asheboro on Sunday morning, July was obtained in former years when 22. the club office was located at the Garner place and more later at the armory on church street. Since the office was discontinued early in the year, local motorists have had to go to High Point or Greensboro to obtain services offered by the Carolina Motor Club, and, since the number of license plates sold in Randolph is of no small moment, this was quite an inconvenience. Local motorists will welcome this new service.
