Relief Administrator To Check On Dispensation

Mr. Lloyd Would Have Authentic Reports from Every Section Receiving Aid

Randolph Receives $8,000 For August

Comparison is Made of Dispensation State Funds in This Section and Davidson

Randolph county is allotted $8,000 from Federal emergency relief funds for the month of August, according to local Director R. T. Lloyd. The division of this fund will be $6,000 for the work program now in progress and $2,000 for direct relief and rehabilitation. A part of this $2,000 goes into the canning program which will tend to lighten the relief load through the coming winter. Some of this fund necessarily goes into families who have no able-bodied persons working.

It is of interest to note how the relief allotment is distributed in other counties nearby. Davidson county is allotted $10,000 from Federal emergency relief funds for the months of August, according to announcement from Raleigh. This is slightly more than one one-hundredth of the total amount allotted to the counties for August, though Davidson stands tenth or eleventh in population.

When fund allotments are compared with populations by counties it appears evident that some almost purely agricultural counties have much heavier relief demands than does Davidson, which is one of the important industrial counties. On the other hand, some industrial counties draw much more heavily than Davidson. Guilford, for instance, on the basis of population, draws 2.55 times as heavily as Davidson, that county being allotted $71,900 and having 2.78 times as much population as Davidson county in the 1930 census.

The relief director in Davidson county has taken that county as a base and has compiled a rather interesting comparison of the relief work in the counties surrounding, which are only one step more remote from Randolph.

Cleveland county affords a contrast in the other direction, taking only $6,000 for relief and having 9,914 population, or little over one more than one percent of the population of the state but also has many textile plants in Shelby and Kings Mountain.

But there is Edgecombe, a fine farming county, which has only 28 more population than Davidson, with less of it urban, but takes $6,500 more relief money. Pamlico and Hyde, with no urban population to speak of, draw more than twice as heavily per capita as Davidson. New Hanover, which contains the city of Wilmington, has 4,355 fewer people than Davidson but draws 2.3 times as much relief money as this county. Moore, Scotland, Duplin, other eastern counties, average about twice as heavily as Davidson county. These are largely agricultural. Craven draws about twice as heavily per capita. Chatham more than one and a half times, but Randolph is about the same proportion. Carteret draws a little less than three times as much per capita and Dare in the same proportion.

L. M. Kearns Is Named Representative of U. S. B & L Association Here

Kearns, secretary-treasurer of the Randolph County Building & Loan Association will be the special representative of the United States Building and Loan League in its membership drive in this territory, it was announced today by Clarence T. The campaign for enlisting more building and loan associations in the unified program of the national organization will culminate at New Orleans when the national convention is held there October 24, 25 and 26. A silver loving cup will go to the individual bringing the largest number of associations into the membership ranks between now and that deadline.

Two Civic Clubs Of Asheboro Meet For Joint Outing Thurs.

Two civic organizations of Asheboro, the Kiwanis and Rotary clubs are enjoying an outing at Watkin's Lake, near Ramseur this evening and making plans that will doubtless be of profit to the further progress of the town and county as well. This is the first joint meeting that these clubs have ever held and it is expected that profit as well as pleasure will be the result of this meeting.

The two groups represent Asheboro's most active business men and men from practically every vocation who have a common interest and a common bond in the welfare of their town and county which is the underlying purpose of both organizations. Their programs for recent meetings have dealt largely with the discussion of plans for the benefit of Asheboro and Randolph county.

Two Asheboro Boys Receive Degrees At Wake Forest College

College Rounds Out 100 Years Service with Plans For Wider Progress

Wake Forest, Aug. 15.—Among the 31 Wake Forest College Summer school seniors who received degrees on Friday morning, August 10, are Ernest C. Swing and Waldo C. Cheek, both of Asheboro. Mr. Swing received the Bachelor of Science degree, and Mr. Cheek, the Bachelor of Arts degree.

Both of these young men have made significant records while at Wake Forest. Mr. Swing was first-string man in both football and basketball last year in the Graham high school. Mr. Cheek, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Cheek, entered Wake Forest in the fall of 1931 and has completed his undergraduate work in three years and three summer schools. Next year he will enter the law school here.

With the graduation of this class Wake Forest rounded out her first 100 years of service. On September 10 she will begin the second century with present prospects pointing towards the most successful year in her history. With the Johnson Memorial medical building completed in 1931 and a new administration building dedicated last May, the plan for a greater Wake Forest will be given further impetus in the early fall when work will begin on a new $100,000 physical education-auditorium building.

Farmers Mutual Asso. Shows Decided Drop During Eight Months

A recent audit of the books of the Farmers Mutual Fire Insurance Association shows the Association to be in good condition financially. The association has only suffered approximately $300.00 in fire and wind losses for the past eight months, which is about one-seventh of the average annual losses for the past ten years. These reductions in fire losses is attributed to the fact that all policies in the county have been reduced and that the company strictly follows the policy of only paying three-fourth value of the buildings insured regardless of the amount it is insured for. The last annual meeting was held October 11th and it is expected the next annual meeting will be on or about October 11th, which is approximately 60 days off.

They carried well-filled baskets and a sumptuous dinner was served on a table in the yard, after which the time was spent in delightful social conversation. The Johnson reunion, held on the school grounds on Sunday was attended by a big crowd of the descendants of Harris Johnson, who lived near Farmer, and whose children and grandchildren to the fifth generation are scattered all over Randolph and adjoining counties. Miss Hope Hubbard spent last week at Guilford College attending the sessions of the Yearly meeting of Friends. Mrs. Fannie McDaniel, Mrs. Belle Hussey, Miss Leah Hammond, Madison Hammond and W. W.

Fair Catalogues Are Being Distributed In Randolph County

People Of This Section Are Beginning To Prepare for County Event Not Far Off.

People in Randolph are beginning to talk Randolph County Fair now-a-days and plan for exhibits. This Randolph county event is more than a Fair for there is always a homecoming feature to the occasion that draws folks who have wandered from the county to other states. People who live in the county meet and greet friends they probably do not see except at Fair-time thus it becomes a social occasion.

The social side is not the only drawing card to the Randolph County Fair, however, for neighboring counties realize and admit that the exhibits on display at this county fair are unusually fine. It is expected this year that there will be even better field and garden crops than usual on account of favorable weather. There are also a large number of added industries started up since last October in Asheboro and at other places in the county which will add interest to this section of the exhibit hall.

Stock raising in this section has also increased within the year and this department is expected to be increased in size and quality.

For those who go to the Fair just to be entertained, the management has provided a midway that will be all that could be desired in the way of entertainment. A contract has been signed with Best and Company Shows who will be on hand early and late.

W. A. Bunch, president of the Randolph Association, and C. L. Hayworth, secretary, announce that the catalogues are being mailed out this week and others may obtain them from one of the officers. The catalogues will enable those who are planning to cooperate and furnish exhibits to get lined up early and make this Fair the best ever!

North Carolina Spends Millions On Public Works

Ten Million Dollars Being Spent For Water Projects, Schools Water Works and the like

Randleman Shares Only Randolph Project Named Tabulated List Expenditures Made Public This Week

In press dispatches released Monday from Washington, the Randleman project for installing water sewerage was listed. The amount allowed is set down as $169,000 for this work which will reward a few loyal and persistent citizens of that town who have kept faith and worked while they waited. While the announcement came in the form of a telegram some fortnight ago, it looks like business indeed and in truth when project is included in the tabulated list.

The Public Works administration revealed today that $9,361,300 has been allocated to non-Federal projects in North Carolina, while additional millions have been set aside for Federal improvements through August 1. Added to this is the $9,667,303 apportioned to North Carolina for highway construction.

The State will share to a great extent in the $16,000,000 scenic highway which will connect the Shenandoah National Park in Virginia with the Great Smoky Mountains National Park in Western North Carolina and Eastern Tennessee.

A total of $6,010,000 already has been allocated and the route has been determined as far as the Shenandoah Park to Blowing Rock.

In addition to the parkway, the PWA has allocated $2,219,285 for road and trail improvements in the Great Smoky Mountains Park, and North Carolina stands a good chance to share largely in that.

The PWA has allocated the War Department $1,555,000 for dredging the Morehead City harbor, and an allotment of $425,000 was made the Morehead City Port Authority for

One Vacancy In Teacher List For Asheboro School

"Hardrock" Simpson Well Known Runner Visits In Asheboro

"Hardrock" Simpson, widely known trans-continental runner, of Burlington, was a visitor in Asheboro this week at the home of Rev. R. C. Stubbins and Mrs. Stubbins, who are old acquaintances. Mr. Simpson won second place in the international long distance race between New York and San Francisco staged some three years ago. He was one of fifty, or more, entrants and was the only contestant from North Carolina.

At the time, there was wide comment upon the endurance and speed of Mr. Simpson who has been interested in track and like sports since he was six years old. He is now twenty-nine and equally as interested as in earlier days. When a mere boy, he ran errands for stores and places of business in Burlington and worked up his speed until he entered the professional field.

He is a graduate of Elon College and later served as athletic coach at that institution. During the summer when he is in Burlington he worked for local ice companies and Mr. Simpson considers this work most constructive constitutionally toward athletics.

Superintendent Hilker Plans for Health And Citizenship Program For Fall

Date For Opening Is Indefinite At Present

Work Progressing Class Rooms With Hope of Completion Before School Opens

Interest is beginning to focus around the Asheboro school opening as the time is just a month distant. Superintendent R. J. Hilker announces that the plan to open the Asheboro school is now in line with the date of the opening of the county schools, which is September 13th., but this will necessarily be determined definitely at a later date. On account of the work now in progress on several of the center class rooms, there is a bare possibility that the opening date may be delayed slightly, but those in charge of the work report satisfactory progress and are of the opinion that school work would not be hampered by the work necessary at that time.

Mr. Hilker plans to stress the health program in his fall and winter plans, feeling that child's progress in school is largely dependent upon this factor. Definite details will doubtless be announced concerning the plans in process of formation along the lines of child health and welfare. Citizenship will also be stressed both among the pupils and in the group teachers' meetings during the fall. This is the general topic chosen by the state school commission at Raleigh and will be taken up in the fall in the Asheboro school.

Mr. Hilker has no radical changes in mind at the present moment and hopes to get into routine work with both teachers and pupils as speedily after the opening of school as is possible. This idea has somewhat characterized Mr. Hilker's eight years as head of the Asheboro school which is, probably, a prime reason for his marked success. The school slips quickly into routine work and the wheels run smoothly and quietly.

Of interest also is the list of teachers which is complete except in the case of Miss Susie Thomas' fifth grade left vacant when she was married last month. This vacancy will be filled at an early date. The list follows:

High school—Miss Alma Lassiter, principal, Miss Cornelia Ayers, Hart Campbell, Miss Mary E. Clark, Miss Clara Gill, Mrs. J. G. Prevette, Miss Marna Lambert, Miss Mabel Robertson, J. James Sanderson. Grammar grades—Miss Rose Hamilton, Miss M. Louise Hunt, Miss Donna Lee Loflin, Mrs. John T. Moffitt, Miss Bertha Presnell, Miss Callie Vuncannon, Miss Georgia Warren, Miss Leona Wood, Miss Thyra Wright, Miss Sue Morgan. Primary grades—Miss Cora Mae Fox, Miss Lucy Leigh Lovett, Miss Catherine Moffitt, Miss Jean Osborne, Miss Enolia Presnell, Mrs. Bessie Rice, Miss Elizabeth Ross, Mrs. Sam Yow, Miss Katybell Cagle, Miss Ina Cockrell.
