Barbecue And Rally All Set For Saturday Noon

Speakers In Line, Band Ready, Shoots Dead, In Lieu Of Big Event October 27

Randolph Citizens And Friends Are Invited

Sponsored By Young Democratic Club Who Find Cooperation In Plenty For Plans

After week's of preparation, the Young Democrats of Randolph announce that all is in readiness for the barbecue and rally on Saturday, October 27th. This event will be staged at the county fair grounds two miles south of Asheboro and the gates will be open to every citizen of the county and friends who are sufficiently interested to attend. Ed Cranford and Frank McCrary have acted as co-chairmen of the arrangement committee for the barbecue and these members of the Young Democratic Club, the organization sponsoring the barbecue, are delighted with the cooperation received on all sides from Democrats in the county.

At 11:00 o'clock all county officers are asked to meet at the court house and go in a group to the fair grounds. Transportation will be provided for those who find this plan inconvenient. The speaking will start promptly at 11:30 o'clock and will run according to schedule with a number of short political views given. The principal address, however, will be given by the Honorable Clyde Hoey, of Shelby. Mr. Hoey is a great favorite throughout the state as a politician and known as the party's "silver-tongued orator."

Those in charge of the event are expecting around 5,000 people and are preparing sufficient barbecue and "fixings" for such a sizeable crowd. The barbecue will be prepared again.

No boy who weighs more than 115 pounds is eligible for membership on this team.

The first regular game to be played by the midgets will be with Liberty on the home field Wednesday afternoon, November 31, at four o'clock.

Memorial Hospital Greatly Damaged By Fire Sunday

House Vacant For Past Five Years Due To Ill Health of Owner, Dr. Hayworth

English Showplace

Built Many Years Ago By The Late Captain Fisher Who Came From England

Sunday morning at quite an early hour, between 3:30 and 4:00 o'clock, the Asheboro fire siren announced the burning of one of Asheboro's most interesting places, Memorial Hospital. This hospital, owned and operated for many years by Dr. C. A. Hayworth as the only hospital in Randolph county, was closed some five years ago on account of ill health of Dr. Hayworth and has been unoccupied since that time. An exact estimate of the equipment has not been assembled completely as yet, but a great many pieces of furniture are considered a total loss. Part of the X-ray machine and operating room furnishings were saved from damage. When the fire was discovered the entire back part of the building appeared to be ablaze at the time. The flames spread rapidly, destroying the sections formerly occupied by the hospital kitchen and back ward and demolishing the roof, which fell in.

C. Rush, fire chief, expressed the belief that the blaze started from a lighted cigarette or match dropped by someone prowling around or in the building.

This house was formerly known as the Fisher home, built and occupied by Captain Fisher, who came here

Hon. Clyde Hoey, of Shelby, known throughout North Carolina as "silver-tongued orator," who will be principal speaker at barbecue-rally on Saturday.

Loflins In New Home
The beautiful new home at the end of Sunset Avenue belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Curry Loflin is completed and occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Loflin. The home of stone and wood, is quite charming, home-like and hospitable in structure and character.

Changes Made In Registration Are Herewith Stated

People Are Requested To Note Changes And Abide By Them To Eliminate Confusion

My attention has been called to the misunderstanding regarding the transfer of voters from one township to another and from one ward or voting precinct to another.

According to the election laws, a voter who moves from one township to another and is entitled to register and vote in the township to which he has last moved, does not have to obtain a transfer from the registrar at his old voting place.

But if a voter moves from one ward to another or from one voting precinct to another in the same township, he must have a transfer from the voting ward or precinct in which he was last registered and last voted.

For instance, voters moving from one ward to another or from one voting precinct to another in the following townships must have a transfer from his old ward or voting precinct: Asheboro (4 wards, North, East, South and West Asheboro; Liberty township (2 voting precincts, north and south Liberty; Trinity, (2 voting precincts, North and South Trinity; Columbia (3 voting precincts, East and West Rameuse and Staley; Randleman, (2 voting precincts, East and West Randleman); Franklinville (3 voting precincts, Franklinville, Central Falls and Cedar Falls); Cedar Grove (2 voting precincts, East and West Cedar Grove).

Voters moving from either of the above named townships or any ward thereof into another township, does not have to obtain a transfer from the registrar, but only if moving from one ward or precinct to another in the same township.

E. H. CRANFORD, Chairman Randolph County Board of Elections.

Dr. and Mrs. Sykes Home Finished
The handsome colonial home of Dr. and Mrs. E. P. Sykes on Worth street is finished and they have moved in within the past week. This is one of the several handsome new homes of Asheboro recently made ready for occupancy.

Old Hickory Cafe To Celebrate Fifteenth Anniversary Sunday

Improvements Within & Without Cafe Add To Good Looks Of Business Block

There is going to be a birthday party in Asheboro Sunday, October 28th. Saturday is the Old Hickory Cafe's fifteenth anniversary, and Manager Reid Hannah has extended an invitation to the friends of the cafe throughout the county, and to many scattered around the state, asking them to come and enjoy a specially prepared anniversary dinner on Sunday.

Old Hickory Cafe is all set for the occasion. The cafe has been bedecked with an attractive, new plate glass front, bringing the entire front of the building out even with the street. And work is underway on a new interior dressing up.

Fifteen years is a long time and you would never recognize this grown up Old Hickory Cafe as the same one that Reid Hannah and Eugene Chisholm came back from overseas fifteen years ago to open up in the building now occupied by Rose's 5 and 10 cent store. Nor would you recognize it as the same adolescent child that left its birthplace to come to live at its present home on Fayetteville street in 1928.

Old Hickory Cafe has grown up through careful supervision. It is a polite child, a thorough child, an efficient child. Through the influence of its guardians it has taken its place as an indispensable part of the community.

Old Hickory Cafe was baptized with home cooking, an early baptism that has never been forgotten. In fact the quality and tastiness of the cafe's home cooking has grown more excellent with the passing of years, and now Old Hickory Cafe has earned an enviable reputation that is respected by older cafes over the country and copied by younger eating houses here and there.

Old Hickory Cafe, adorned in splendid new raiment, anxiously but proudly announces its fifteenth anniversary.

Asheboro Baptists Invite S. S. Workers To Training School

Practical Program Of Instruction Planned For Course During Last Week Of Month.

A training school for Sunday school workers will be held at the Asheboro Baptist church in Asheboro the week of October 29th to November 2nd. This school is designed to teach more about administration in the Sunday school and the function of that body as a vital force in the community. The school is open to Sunday school workers of all denominations and those in charge of the school issue a cordial invitation to all interested workers to attend.

The course of study and the teachers for the course have been carefully selected with a view to practical needs of the Sunday school. There will be forty-five minute periods each evening, beginning at 7:00 p. m. Rev. O. P. Dix will have the topic, "True Functions of the Sunday School." Dr. H. T. Stevens will instruct concerning, "The Adult Department." Prof. S. C. Gretzer will have charge of "The Young People's Department; Working with Juniors," will be handled by Mrs. A. R. Presnell and "Working With Primaries," Mrs. H. T. Stevens.

Carolina Power Company Announce Rate Reduction

Recent Ruling Will Effect Cheaper Power For Middle-Man In North Carolina

$600,000 In Savings To All Customers

Domestic And Commercial Rate Will Be Materially Lessened By New Plan

Interesting to many people is the recent cut made by the Carolina Power Company the announcement of which was issued by Cleveland Thayer, head of the Asheboro office on Wednesday. Some two years ago, the company made a reduction that touched the big consumer of power and the smallest consumer—those who came under the minimum rate charge. This minimum flat rate was cut from $1.50 monthly to $1.00. The more recent cut will affect the domestic and commercial consumers—the masses of consumers, in fact. This, quite naturally, makes the announcement of wider interest than any previous statement concerning rate reduction.

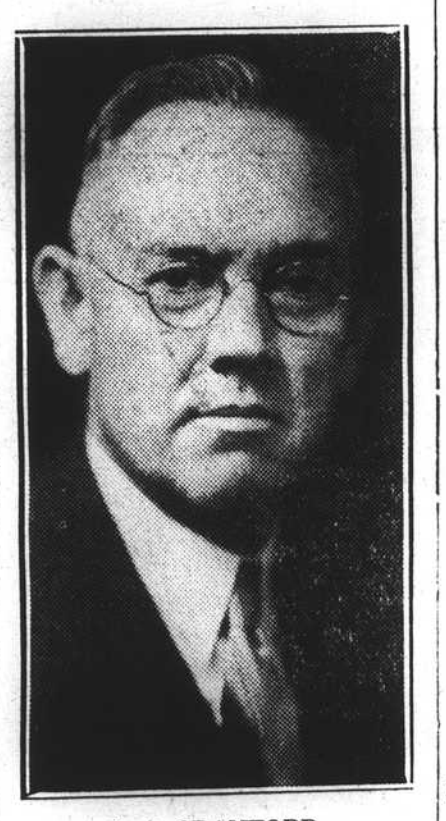

The detailed explanation from the local office follows:
Following negotiations with the Carolina Power & Light company, the North Carolina Commission has ordered into effect certain domestic and commercial lighting rate schedules of the inducement type which make available to company's customers in North Carolina $600,000 per annum of additional service with no additional cost to such customers. In addition, the commission has ordered immediate reductions in certain of the company's rates which will give certain consumers in North Carolina a rate reduction of $150,000 per annum. The reduction in rates of $150,000 together with the $600,000 of additional service with

October Taxes Are Subject To 1% Discount; Sheriff

Sheriff Carl E. King announces that the 1934 taxes are now due and reminds people that all taxes paid in October will be subject to a one per cent discount. The Sheriff also appeared before the special meeting of county commissioners Tuesday and requested that they agree not to charge interest on 1933 taxes unpaid for the next 60 days. This request was granted by the board agreeing that it would be a source of convenience to many people. Tobacco will be sold and election will be held on giving the farmers and business folks an opportunity to turn their attention toward the business of the county. The Sheriff urges, however, that all who can do so, take advantage of this October per cent plan.

School Makes Public Pupils' Names Making Honor & Attendance Rolls

Below are the names of students in the city schools meeting the requirements for the honor roll the first month of school. To make this honor roll a student this year must have no absences, no tardies, satisfactory conduct, and no grade on factory conduct, and no grade on studies less than B. These requirements are essentially the same as in other years, except for the fact that the B. grade may run as low as 85, while the old grade of 2 did so go below 90. In order to encourage good attendance, good conduct and punctuality the school administration and faculty have thought best to make this change.

The new system of grading, which is being introduced in the public schools throughout the state, makes 70 the passing mark, instead of 50, as formerly used in the Asheboro schools. This change has caused more failures than usual the first month of school, but Supt. Hilker and his faculty believe the new system will, in the end, be better for all concerned, as not enough effort has been put forth in some cases in the past.

The new report cards give details which show the parents the child's difficulties. For example, the elementary child is checked on health, physical education, initiative, self-reliance, courtesy and consideration, obedience, self-control and honesty; and the high school student receives checks on such attitudes and habits as the following, trustworthiness, respect for school property, care in use of materials, politeness, consideration and self-control in talking. Both are checked on study habits such as cooperation, neatness, etc.
