

First Snowfall Of Season Indicates A Cold Winter

Nov. 18th, Date Of Earliest Snow Recalled By J. T. Brittain, Dean Of Bar

R. R. Ross Recalls Interesting Event

Snow Fell In November In Early 80's At Fayetteville

The usual howl of delight emitted from childish throats at the first snowfall of the season was accompanied by an accompaniment of surprise from the grown-ups when feathery flakes fluttered down in Asheboro Wednesday morning. Much to the disgust of the school children the clouds broke away and the sun peeped at them instead of the coveted snow.

No one recalled a snowfall so early in the season as on November 14th, so, remembering the slogan, "when in doubt, see your lawyer," John T. Brittain, dean of the local bar, was interviewed. The earliest snow recalled by this older citizen of Randolph, who has a distinctly historic turn of mind as well, was on the evening of November 18th in the year 1886. The snow continued to fall until the morning of November 19th and the snow was five inches deep. The snow remained on the ground all day of the 19th, but by nightfall of the 20th, the earth was again bare of its white blanket.

That year in 1886 must have been an unusually hard and cold time for Mr. Brittain also recalls a killing frost on the last Sunday morning of September, which was the 26th. The frost killed everything left out-of-doors.

With the weather beginning to stage a show this early in the season, Mr. Brittain prophesies the hardest winter since 1876 and 1877. It will be recalled by some who read an account of the prophesy of the Seminole Indians released to the press in August, that they saw all indications of the coldest winter for many years. And, it's hard to fool an Indian about the weather.

R. R. Ross, who will celebrate his 84th birthday the last day of this month recalls that one November during the early 80's, there was a snow sufficiently heavy to break down the roofs of sheds in Fayetteville. Mr. Ross was at Fayetteville attending the Fair and does not recall the exact date, but it was early in the month, as he remembers, probably in 1882.

Farmers coming to Asheboro with produce on Wednesday morning did not recall snow having fallen this early in the season, and while the exact date of the earliest was not ret- all agreed it was later than this date. Great loads of wood were hauled through the streets, trucks of coal and loads of kindling-wood shortly thereafter this snow flurry—all reminding us of Tot's "Good-bye to Summer."

Mr. and Mrs. Julian Celebrate Golden Anniversary Sun.

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Julian celebrated their golden wedding anniversary on Sunday at their home at Millboro. The celebration was in the character of a wedding dinner, served at noon. A huge wedding cake centered the table around which seven of the eight children gathered on this occasion.

Mrs. Roy Coble, who resides in Michigan, was the only daughter absent at this time. The other children present were C. E. Julian and W. P. Julian, of Millboro; C. M. Julian, of Worthville; Mrs. E. C. Dorsett, of High Point; Mrs. Kemp Plummer, of Millboro; C. C. Julian, of Greensboro and Mrs. Rufus Routh, of Asheboro. There was also twenty-one grandchildren present, which completes the list save two children of Mrs. Coble, in Michigan.

Mrs. Julian, who is 69, was the former Miss Mary Ellen Redding, of this county. Mr. Julian is 71. Two charming fireside chairs for the couple were presented by the eight children and were flanked about by many individual gifts from the grandchildren.

C. Of C. Staging Membership Drive During This Week

Mrs. Rufus Routh, A Daughter Of Couple, Attends Celebration

The Asheboro Chamber of Commerce is this week staging their annual membership drive. A group of twenty business men of the town went out dispo- style, two and two, giving new members the opportunity to come in and collecting dues from old members. The committee was also selling tickets for the annual banquet held by this organization every February.

Membership dues for this organization come somewhat easy for so- many as the benefits of a wide- scope organization of this nature in a town. Dr. O. L. Prussell, local dentist, is president of the Asheboro Chamber of Commerce with J. H. Taylor, secretary.

House Burns While Family Is Away On Sunday Eve Visit

The two-story frame house belonging to Vester Trotter, located six miles west of Asheboro on Highway 90, was completely destroyed by fire on Sunday afternoon. The family was away from home at the time on a neighborhood visit and the exact origin of the fire is unknown. It is thought that the fire started up stairs, perhaps from a defective fuse. The family had just purchased their winter supply of clothing and staple groceries, which were completely destroyed. Neighbors, seeing flames, saved a few articles of furniture. It was only by valiant work that the woods were prevented from burning also. There was no insurance whatever on the house or furniture.

Football Fans To Witness Interesting Fracas On Friday

High School Eleven To Meet Alumni Team At Lindley Field

Underwood Coach Proceeds To Go Toward Depleted School Athletic Association Fund

Football fans who drive 75 miles or more, to witness football games will find ample entertainment in their home town. On Friday afternoon at 3:30 on the Lindley Field, Coach Hart Campbell's fast traveling high school eleven will bump into a team of Alumni, composed of former high school luminaries.

This game will hark back to 1920 when Asheboro sent a team to the gridiron wars. "Red" Underwood, first quarterback of that team, is coaching the Alumni team and after a week's workout, is sending out some interesting reports from the results.

Among the stars that Coach Underwood will throw against the county champions are Odell and Davis Cranford, John Ward, Jiggs York, Tom Bowman, Hal Johnson, Stanton Pressnell, Feet Holder, Cy Cranford, Vance Kivett and a flock of others. Kelly Johnson, fullback of the early 20's will be in the game for a spell, and Coach Underwood claims that he will take to the field in an effort to out-smart Coach Campbell, who will call signals for the high school.

The biggest crowd of the season is expected to witness the fracas, and the depleted treasury of the school athletic association can use the proceeds to good advantage. There promises to be plenty of fun and the local interest centering around both teams will add charm and interest to the event.

Mrs. Russell Parks Again Heads Local Red Cross Roll Call

Pellagra, Child Welfare, Emergency Illness And The Like To Profit From Drive

Mrs. Russell Parks is again serving as chairman of the Red Cross Roll call for Randolph county and is planning her drive for membership for next week. Encouraged by last year's success at obtaining 500 members, Mrs. Parks hopes to increase that number in Randolph county this year. Mrs. Mary Camp Sprinkle, of High Point, national field representative for the Red Cross, was in Asheboro on Monday, planning with Mrs. Parks for this year's campaign.

Especially interesting is the point that the leaders of this work expect to make a special drive on pellagra in this county. The national organization is also majoring on pellagra control this year, according to Mrs. Sprinkle.

Mrs. Parks asks the cooperation of the people of Asheboro and of the county as a whole in this drive. She further states that the money retained in Randolph will be used for the following three major projects: emergency illness, children's aid, welfare.

Erosion Handbook Is Published For Land-Use Program

High Point, Nov. 13.—Soil Erosion control and land-use program as being conducted by the Soil Erosion Service in cooperation with the land-owners of the Deep River and Reedy Creek watersheds of Forsyth, Guilford and Randolph counties is the subject of a 32-page handbook just off the press.

Answers to pertinent questions regarding the benefits to be had from the government in helping landowners to prevent the serious washing of their lands are contained in the publication, as well as detailed information pertaining to the scope of the work. Also complete directions for seeding and use of crops for erosion control purposes are given.

Copies may be had by writing to the Soil Erosion Service, High Point, North Carolina.

Quiet Marriage At Ramseur Church Monday Evening

Miss Geneva Franklin And Rev. Fred R. Barber United In Marriage

Personal Mention

Sunday School Class And Missionary Society Meet During Past Week

Ramseur, Nov. 14.—A few friends of the Barber family witnessed an impressive and beautiful marriage ceremony Monday evening at the Ramseur Methodist church when Rev. Fred R. Barber and Miss Geneva Franklin were united in marriage. "I Love You Truly" was beautifully sung by Mrs. Jack Riehm, accompanied at the organ by Mrs. N. F. Phillips, who then played Lohengrin's wedding march as the officiating ministers, Rev. J. M. Barber, pastor of the Ramseur-Franklinville churches and Rev. E. L. Barber, pastor of First Presbyterian church of Aberdeen, both brothers of the groom, took their places at the altar at which the bride and groom presented themselves for the sacred vows. Rev. J. M. Barber, using the ring ceremony of the Methodist church, heard the vows after which Rev. E. L. Barber invoked God's richest blessings upon them. Mendellson's wedding march was played as a recessional.

The bride is the beautiful and accomplished daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin, of near Linville, while the groom is a young Methodist preacher, pastor of several churches in the Linville section. They will make their home there until the conference sends them to other fields.

The Mary Martha Sunday school class of the M. E. church met with Miss Vrtle Lambert for the November meeting. In the absence of the president, Miss Lucy Wylie presided over the meeting. Books for outside reading were exchanged and a committee appointed to plan programs for the year. Some study courses will be selected by the class for the year's class meetings. The hostess had prepared several interesting games after which she served refreshments. The following were present: Misses Lucy Wylie, Eugenia Green, Pattie Watkins, Edna Highfill, Katherine Riehm, Helen Dixon, Margaret Lane, Elifeta Curtis, Margaret Gant, Mesdames C. R. Curtis, Jask Riehm and J. P. Cox.

At a recent meeting of the Missionary Society of the Methodist church the following officers were:

Kiwanians Meet For First Time On Tuesday Eve

Two Local Men Bring Program From Education Committee Of Club

The Study of Kiwanis work, under the direction of the club's education committee, formed the program for the Kiwanis club meeting, held on Tuesday evening, which also marked the first gathering since the time of meeting has been changed from Thursday to Tuesday evening.

E. V. Hobbs and W. S. Long continued the program of the study of Kiwanis work begun at the last meeting.

Mr. Long brought an outline of the different committees of Kiwanis and enumerated some of the objectives and opportunities for community service under each heading. This program was under the auspices of the Kiwanis Education Committee and was given to keep fresh the varied opportunities for helpful community service which Kiwanis is organized to foster and encourage. He referred to the fact that business and education failed to properly function because sufficient consideration was not given to the value of human lives. He closed his talk with the quotation that "When we leave this world the only things we take with us are the helpful things we have done for humanity."

Mr. Hobbs followed with an impressive talk on the importance of the golden rule and pointed out accomplishments and helpful influences which proper observance of that rule would result in. He showed how that would yield right influences among boys and girls which lead them to right thinking and actions and are directly responsible for their development into useful citizens.

Mr. Kearns had as his guest at the meeting, E. O. Hunt of Winston-Salem who congratulated the club on the work being undertaken in the community. The attendance at this meeting was one of the largest of the entire year.

ERA Laundry Running Full Time In Asheboro

Game Warden Is Named For County And Takes Office

533 Cattle Arrive In This County

Are Transferred From Eastern Carolina Where Pastures Are Depleted

The ERA laundry, long-discussed as a probability for Asheboro, became a reality Friday, November 9th, and is now running full time with four twenty-four hour shifts and on until 11:30 on Saturday nights. Announcement was made sometime ago that a laundry would be a necessity when the ERA Cannery in Greensboro began running in full swing. The Cannery was started around a month ago and the uniforms for the workers have been handled at various private laundries. Orders on Friday, however, to Robert Lloyd, director of relief in Randolph, to start the Asheboro laundry.

Machinery formerly used by the Asheboro Laundry was already installed in the building and ready for work at short notice. The daily output of this plant is now 5,000 pieces or about 3,000 pounds. In addition to the uniforms for the Greensboro plant, the Asheboro Laundry will also take care of the uniforms used at the Cannery at Hamlet.

The combined laundry for these two plants will make a rather busy place of this Asheboro industry, which will, in turn, furnish work for a number of people already enrolled on relief rolls who desire work. As has already been explained, the employees of this plant must be already on the rolls of the Relief Department of the county, or eligible. All the workers needed for the Laundry at present are already employed. Mr. Lloyd will make a public statement if additional workers are needed.

Randolph county received 315 additional cattle from the drought areas within the past few days, which makes the total number of these cattle received in Randolph stand at 533. The latest shipment came to this section from New Bern when the summer grasses in that section died, making a shortage of forage. The plans, so far, has followed the change of cattle as the pastures were exhausted. It is not known at present whether Randolph will be allotted more cattle.

Asheboro Defeats Randleman Team In Game Friday

Several Outstanding Players On Both Teams Well Supported Makes Good Game

The Asheboro high school football team hit their stride last Friday, defeating Randleman, at Randleman, by a score of 22-0. The game was well played throughout, but Asheboro outclassed their rivals in blocking, tackling, running, etc. The whole team stood out, there being no individual stars.

On the second play of the game, Lamb, Randleman center, passed one over the head of Mintz, which rolled behind the goal line. Morgan knocked the ball out of bounds, which gave Asheboro two points. Randleman kicked out from their own 20 and after a few offensive plays, Bulls slid through his own tackle for 23 yards, missing a touchdown by three yards. On the next play he rammed it over for the first touchdown, giving Asheboro a lead of eight points. The try for extra point from placement was blocked.

In the second quarter Randleman passed frequently, and they were completed frequently, but not enough for a score. Ralph Bulla and Baxter Kearns carried the brunt of the burden in the first half, while the whole line stood out.

Randleman opened up with their passing attack in the third quarter, and nearly scored. Mintz threw one to Pugh, who was clear, which was good for 30 yards. Early in the fourth quarter, Baxter Kearns intercepted a pass and raced 40 yards for a score, and Shaw added the extra point. Then Ralph Bulla, who

Business Circle In 100% Attendance And Clear Debt

There was a hundred per cent attendance at the meeting of the Business Woman's Circle of the Asheboro Baptist church which met at the home of Mrs. May B. Hall on South Fayetteville street Thursday evening. The most interesting point of the meeting came out when it was announced that the circle was entirely out of debt, even though it had purchased a new stove, a rug and other articles for the new church. Miss Allie Spoon, conducted the devotions. The general topic of the meeting was "Clasping Hands With Our Southern Neighbors." After the program a miscellaneous shower was presented to Mrs. Thurman Brown, a recent bride, and member of the circle. The hostess served a salad course.
