McCallie School Honors Memory Of A Former Student

Millis Family Establish $25,000 Trust Fund For Scholarship In Memory Billy Millis.

The establishment of the Billy Millis Scholarship by Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Millis, of High Point, N. C., was announced late yesterday afternoon by the McCallie School, Chattanooga, Tenn. The scholarship covering complete expenses at the McCallie School has been given by Mr. and Mrs. Millis in memory of their son, Billy, killed in an automobile accident at Graham, May 5th. Young Millis graduated from McCallie in 1934 and was a freshman at the University of North Carolina at the time of his death. Millis was one of the most popular members of his class at McCallie, universally loved for his friendliness and sunny disposition. He was quartermaster-lieutenant in the McCallie Battalion and manager of the football team, and won a number of minor honors.

To qualify for the scholarship a boy must have good average scholarship; must possess a clean, honorable character expressing friendliness, unselfishness, and reverence; and must be financially unable, otherwise, to attend McCallie. The scholarship will be awarded to its recipient for the first two years of his preparatory school work and will cover his complete expenses at McCallie for the two years. A trust fund of $25,000 has been set aside by Mr. and Mrs. Millis to endow the scholarship.

Announcement of the ward was made at the Class Day Exercises of the Thirtieth Commencement of the McCallie School. The award is to be known as the Billy Millis scholarship rather than by the full name, William Brooks Millis, because of the associations connected with him. Immediately preceding the announcement a portrait of Billy Millis was presented to the school in his memory by his friend, Charles Lee Amos, Jr., of High Point, who made the presentation in person.

Home Coming Day Is Celebrated At Farmer On Sunday

Home Coming Day Is Observed In Connection With Opening Of New Methodist Church.

Afternoon Musicales
Many Old Friendships Renewed As Friends And Relatives Meet On This Occasion.

Home coming day at Farmer attracted a large number of former citizens of the community, and was an enjoyable occasion for all who came. Rev. Loy D. Thompson, Presiding Elder of Greensboro District, preached an excellent sermon at eleven o'clock. The opening prayer was offered by Rev. Clarence Russell of Sturgills. Mr. Russell spent his childhood in the community, and has many friends here who gave him a hearty welcome home. At the noon hour dinner was served in the grove near the church, and old friends and neighbors greeted one another again, as they partook of the bountiful food.

In the afternoon a musical program was given, and was enjoyed by the audience which filled the auditorium of the new church to capacity. Beside old hymns in the singing of which everybody joined, several special selections were rendered. Miss Frances Smith of Liberty played a charming violin solo, accompanied by Mrs. Stroud, also of Liberty. Mrs. Morrison of Greensboro granddaughter of

High Point College Graduates Class Of Thirty-Three Mon.

Miss Lucy Clyde Ross, of Asheboro, Member Of Class Receiving Diploma.

Ministers Officiate
Former Asheboro Pastor And Present Minister Of M. P. Church In Exercises.

Miss Lucy Clyde Ross, of Asheboro, was among the thirty-three students of High Point college who received her B. S. degree and diploma at the college finals on Monday. Miss Ross is a daughter of L. F. Ross, of Asheboro, and a grand daughter of the well known R. B. Ross, former postmaster of the town and sheriff of the county. Her grandfather is also a trustee of the college. She is not only an unusually brilliant young woman but was the winner of a beauty award about two years ago.

Dr. G. I. Humphreys, president of the college, was in charge of the ceremonies with Dr. J. E. Pritchard, editor of the M. P. church paper and a former pastor of Asheboro, pronouncing the invocation. Dr. S. W. Taylor, pastor of the Asheboro church at present, pronounced the benediction. The graduation address was given by Carl Goerch, editor of "The State" magazine, who discussed the individual viewpoint and its bearing upon one's success in life. Mr. Goerch told the graduating class that the happiness, success and benefits which one receives from his associations depend largely upon the individual viewpoint.

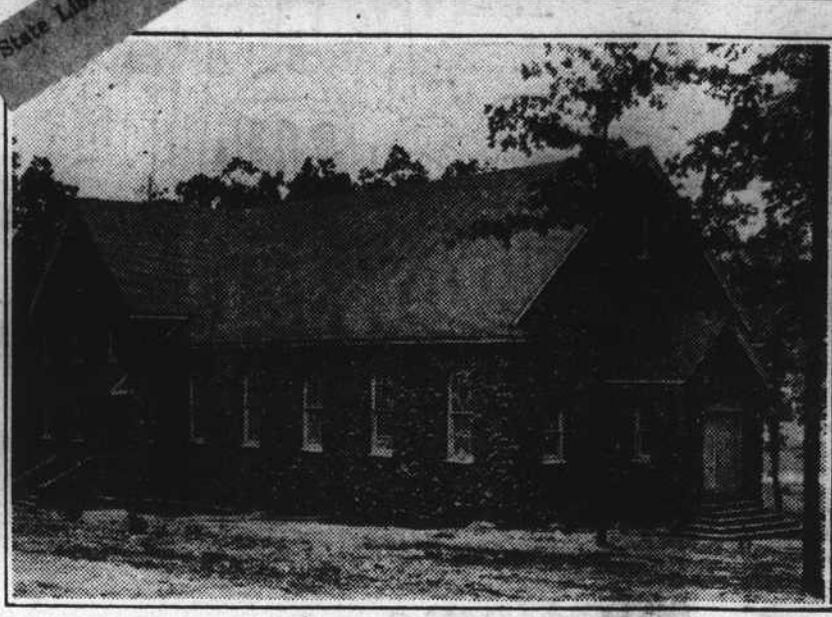

Mr. Goerch illustrated his remarks with a number of anecdotes which added spice to his brief but pointed address. The speaker was introduced by Dr. J. T. Burrus. Another interesting feature of the commencement exercises, also a surprise until the announcement was made by Mrs. Wrenn, was the donation of a library building as a memorial to the late M. J. Wrenn.

No definite figure has been announced as to the cost of the structure, and no announcement was made as to when the construction will start. It is understood that details will be worked out by the board of trustees. Members of the faculty of the college and members of the student body are elated over the presentation.

Asheboro's Population Now Necessitates More Change

For sometime Randolph citizens have called attention to the fact that this newspaper carries a census figure that is five years old. The caption in the corner of the front page of The Courier "5,021 people welcome you to Asheboro, 'center of North Carolina'" must, therefore, be changed due to the fast growth of the town. A conference with the city hall officials and some figuring on the part of Walter Yow, city clerk, estimates that Asheboro's population is now something more than 7,000 people. The census giving the town 5,021 citizens was taken in 1930. At that time the population of the town had not doubled since the census taken ten years before. Few towns of this section of the state can boast of a doubled population in ten years. But a doubled population without substantial growth does not mean a lot. Asheboro has seen a great many new industries and business concerns come up and enlarge during recent years. Textile plants,

Mr. and Mrs. Bingham Move To Mechanic, Where They Have Purchased A New Home.

Farmer, May 28.—The beautiful new church was formally opened to the public on Sunday when a host of former citizens of the community, with their children and grandchildren, were here for the occasion. Mrs. Nora Kearns, one of the oldest members of the church, came down from Greensboro for the day. She was accompanied by Miss Clyde Kearns, Mrs. Hendon Hoghead and children, Mrs. Harry Hames, and Lewis Kearns and family. Mrs. L. C. Elliott, a native of the community but for the past few years a resident of Thomasville, was present for the Home-Coming Day services. Mrs. Elliott was quite ill a few months ago and her many friends are glad to see her able to be present.

Miss Louise Kendall, of Guilford College, spent a few days with Mrs. Claude Dorsett, following their return from Allendale, S. C., where they visited. (Please turn to Page 4)

Survey Of Negro Folk In Randolph Now Being Drawn

Professor C. A. Barnett is making a study and survey of the economic and social welfare of the colored people of Randolph county during the vacation period. It is expected to show something of the progress of colored people along educational, religious, and agricultural and industrial lines. The stability of the race will also be revealed, as to whether or not, they are shifting, continuous moving people. It will further attempt to correlate home ownership and church relationship with good citizenship. As much as possible, and convenient, pictures of some of the leading colored people, their homes, or features of special interest, will appear in the write up. In making this survey Prof. Barrett intends to visit every section of the county, and asks for the legal cooperation of the people in this effort. The report will be published in book form, or made a special edition for the local papers, and is expected to be ready during the latter part of the summer. A favorable report may result in worthwhile publicity for Randolph county, and the inducement to worthy citizens taking up residence in the county making use of her abundant resources.

stores and handsome dwellings that can in no manner be classed as "mushroom growth" is Asheboro's record. Never in the history of the town or county has there been anything of this nature, rather substantial progress that means substantial prosperity. While Asheboro has seen new citizens come in recent years, they have been people who came live and let live. Some of these newcomers have erected and operated textile plants with their own textile mills. They have bought property, entered into our civic and social life along with the business of Asheboro and have joined hands with the life-long residents who are working for just such a substantial progress for Asheboro as now exists. Therefore The Courier gladly, and with considerable pride as well, changes the population figures on the front page and pledges anew the real purpose of a county newspaper—community service in all directions.

Mrs. N. F. Phillips, Musical Director, Holds Piano Recital At Home Friday Evening.

Ramseur, May 29.—A Government representative was here one night last week discussing the matter of Ramseur putting in water works with PWA or the new Work Relief funds. The outcome is not settled but citizens hope it will quickly materialize with the result of obtaining water in Ramseur. Ramseur will never make progress as a town until something of this kind is done. Little investment will ever be made here by anyone unless the use of water and the protection of water can be secured. While many people have private waterworks, (Please turn to Page 4)

Program Begun In Asheboro Against Itinerant Agents

Asheboro Business Men Launch Trade-At-Home Movement, Assisted By Courier.

Keep Money Here Advantages Of Trading With Home Industries And Dangers Of Peddlers Explained.

The Courier is cooperating with a large and representative group of merchants and business people of Asheboro launching a movement for trading with home folk. The program is built around a service that bans "peddlers" of all description who do not live within the limits of our town or county and who come into our borders only to take revenue away with them. While this was the prime idea in the beginning of the plans, it seems advisable to carry things a bit further and make the citizens of the town and county conscious of trading at home. "Bell-ringers" who travel from town to town, state to state and the like, selling their wares—sometimes sight—unseen bring nothing into a community and only take money away, leaving nothing in return. Their goods are not always displayed and a glib tongue is often the only requisite. Nerve to get into the house and take time for a slick line of trading is coupled with their glib tongue and does nothing but convince the housewife to spend money. The merchants of Asheboro display their goods—not samples, but have their wares fully on display where (Please turn to page 8)

Mrs. Wm. C. Hammer Is Patient At Hospital Following Auto Wreck

Mrs. Wm. C. Hammer, who was taken to Duke hospital following an automobile accident occurring in Virginia on Thursday, May 23rd, remains in a serious condition. Mrs. Hammer was returning from a missionary conference in company with Dr. George R. Brown, of Reidsville, and Mrs. Brown when the accident occurred. She was taken to a Martinsville hospital where first aid was given but was taken to Duke hospital in an ambulance on Friday where Dr. Shans, an eminent bone specialist and Dr. Elbert Persons, well known medical man, have charge of her case. There was an attempt made on Sunday to change the cast containing her broken left arm, but on account of serious chest and rib injuries, it was not advisable to give her sufficient anaesthetic to set the arm properly. Her condition today, however, warrants another attempt to set the broken bones and give the chest bruise attention. The operation will be performed under gas on Thursday morning.

The purpose of this organization is to further the cause of every phase of public welfare in the county so there will be more efficient work and no overlapping of work. Through this mutual understanding and consultation of heads of such organizations and departments as are combined in the organization, it will be possible to give more efficient service to the county's unfortunates. This organization is purely a welfare movement and is not connected with the Emergency Relief work in any way, dealing, as it does, with unemployables only. It will be recalled that in January 1935, this work was made entirely independent of the federal emergency work in the county. It will also be recalled by many that there was at that time no financial provision for this work since it reverted to the county after the change in relief plans. The newly organized council is sponsored by the county board of welfare composed of Mr. Lloyd, superintendent, E. H. Cranford, King Moore and Miss May McAllister. The superintendent and the board are grateful to the people of Randolph and to the organizations participating and cooperating with them in this work among unemployables and the county's unfortunates and they bespeak further cooperations by the citizens of Randolph.
