NEWS CONDENSED OF State and Nation

50,000 CITIZENS TO BE EMPLOYED

Winston-Salem, June 10.—George W. Coan, Jr., newly appointed works progress administrator of the federal works administration, plans to put 50,000 North Carolinians to work as an objective of the federal works administration. Coan said he would seek to ascertain as soon as possible the type of work that would furnish the maximum amount of work for the greatest number of employables, and expected to make a detailed study of projects under way and being considered.

AID IN ADVERTISING IS EMPHASIZED

Chicago, June 11.—At the meeting of the Advertising Federation of America held recently in Chicago, the point was made by the president, Chester H. Lang, that advertising, by creating dissatisfaction with inconvenience, discomfort, disease and insecurity, can lead America to new levels of prosperity and happiness.

PUBLIC SHOULD HAVE PRIVILEGE OF SEEING

Washington, June 12.—The House of Representatives has handed down a somewhat unanimous decision that when a person plunks down the price of a cocktail or highball, he should have the privilege of watching the mixing. This decision, if passed by the Senate, will apply to the District of Columbia bartenders.

HAILSTONES FALL IN MIAMI ON JUNE 10TH

Miami, June 10.—It has been six years since hailstones fell in Miami, according to official record from the state of Florida. On June 10th, however, small hailstones fell at the weather observatory bureau for three minutes.

Oxford Orphanage Singing Class To Appear Here Soon

Under the auspices of the local Masonic Lodge, the Oxford Orphanage singing class will make its annual visit to Asheboro, Friday, June 21, in the school auditorium. Those who have seen the program say that it is better this year than ever before. It consists of playlets, dances, trios, etc.

A full evening of fun and entertainment is in store for those attending. There will be no admission charges, a silver offering will be taken at the door. There are fourteen children in the group.

Attendance Race Of Kiwanis Club Is Won By Tigers

Davis Cranford and H. T. Jackson are welcomed as new members of Kiwanis Club.

The Kiwanis Club held a well attended and lively meeting at the usual time and place, Tuesday evening. A profitable hour of good fellowship was enjoyed while considering the community service which the club is sponsoring.

Dr. B. M. Weston of Asheboro and Mr. Allen Craven of Ramseur were visitors at this meeting and Davis Cranford and H. T. Jackson were welcomed as new members. E. V. Hobbs introduced them into Kiwanis and presented them with their identification buttons.

The barber's baseball club challenged the Kiwanis for a ball game next Monday afternoon and the challenge was accepted. The game will be played at 5:30 and an amusing game is promised.

The amateur contest staged for a six week period ended with the Tigers having a slight point lead. The Cubs are to give them a fried chicken dinner at the City Pond next Tuesday evening. If the weather should be bad, arrangements will be made to have it elsewhere. All members will please bear in mind this meeting is to be at six o'clock in order to complete the program before dark.

Scout master Hinton L. Pierce announced that Chief Hackney is to be in Asheboro this Thursday evening and show moving pictures of the recent state scout jamboree held at Chapel Hill where about twenty Asheboro scouts were in attendance. This picture is to be shown at the Asheboro Baptist church at six o'clock. Both troop committees and the parents of the scouts are expected to attend and all others who can be invited to see these pictures showing scout activities.

John Neely and Herman Cranford had charge of the program and they introduced the Willard String Band which rendered an enjoyable program.

Russell Back Again

H. J. Russell, who only five years ago successfully started the sale of home sites in Dogwood Acres in Asheboro again to put on a sale for the owners. It will pay the public to watch the Courier for Mr. Russell's interesting announcements.

Beloved Minister Dies Tuesday In Eastern Carolina

Rev. Elliott Garr Lowdermilk, Native Randolph Man, Dies, After Long Illness.

Widely Known Man

Charter Member of Asheboro M. P. Church; Prominently Connected In This Section.

Rev. Elliott Garr Lowdermilk, 77, one of the oldest and most beloved ministers of the Methodist Protestant conference, died in Washington, N. C., early Tuesday morning, following an illness of several weeks.

Rev. Mr. Lowdermilk grew up near Asheboro and attended Oak Ridge Military Institute and old Yakin academy. He began his ministry in the Methodist Protestant church in 1896 continuing until 1931 when he applied for the superannuation relationship on account of declining health.

He was united in marriage with Miss Nannie Causey in 1903. His wife, a sister, Mrs. Charles F. Smith, of Asheboro, a brother, John O. Lowdermilk, of Arlington, Ariz., and many other relatives of this section survive.

The deceased was licensed to preach by the North Carolina Methodist Protestant conference at Davis Chapel, April 11, 1936, and had for 35 years been actively engaged in the ministry. He served churches at Winston-Salem, Gibsonville, Liberty, Asheville, Concord, Randleman, Shelby, Reidsville, Siler City, Brown Summit, and several other places.

For two years he was superintendent of the Methodist Protestant Children's home in High Point. He taught school for some time in Randolph county before entering the ministry and was a charter member of the Asheboro Methodist Protestant church.

Funeral service was held at Mount Pleasant Methodist Protestant church at Kimesville, Wednesday afternoon, at 3:30 o'clock with Dr. R. M. Andrews, president of the Methodist Protestant conference, assisted by other ministers, in charge. A large number of friends and relatives from this county and other places attended the rites.

Two Democrats Of North Carolina Out For State Secretary

M. R. Dunnagan and Thad Eure, Would Have Position Now Held By Stacy Wade.

Both Prominent

Qualification and Announcements From Both Candidates Are Published.

From Raleigh and from Wirtcon make announcements to this newspaper on Monday from two well known political aspirants—Mike Dunnagan and Thad Eure. They would both have the post as secretary of state, now held by Hon. Stacy Wade. Their announcements follow:

Mike Dunnagan
"It is my present purpose to ask the Democrats of North Carolina to nominate and elect me Secretary of State. I have talked over this ambition with party leaders and workers for more than a year. Many of them encourage it and promise their support. I am making this statement now to prevent uncertainty and to let my friends and Democrats of the State know my intention."

"Macon Rush Dunnagan is a native of Yadkinville, finishing High school and teaching two years in Yadkin county. He practically worked his way through the University of North Carolina, waiting on table and managing the former University Inn. He was secretary, treasurer and president of the Dialectic Literary Society and business manager of "The University Magazine." Since graduation he has been secretary-treasurer of U. N. C. Alumni association of Forsyth, Mecklenburg and Durham counties.

He started his newspaper work as reporter, later city editor, of the Winston-Salem Journal, later being city editor of the Charlotte Observer, manager of the Charlotte Observer.

Seagrove Meeting
Members of the Seagrove Grange No. 816 will meet at the school building Saturday evening, June 15th, at six o'clock.

The young people will enjoy a ball game, after which the ladies will serve a picnic supper. The regular business meeting will be held at 8 o'clock.

Negro Meetings
For Negroes, there will be the annual state farmers' conference at A. & T. College, Greensboro, August 15-16, and the northeastern farmers' meeting at Bricks School, Edgecombe County, August 7-8. The 4-H short course for colored boys and girls will be at A. & T. College either the last week in August or the first week in September. Four meetings for Negroes will also be held at branch station farms as follows: Tobacco Branch Station, July 26; Upper Coastal Plain Station, August 9; Piedmont Station, August 23; Coastal Plain Station, September 12.

North Carolinians Enjoy An Unusual Treat Tuesday Eve

(EDITORIAL)

An unusual treat was enjoyed by North Carolinians assembled from "Murphy to Manteo" Tuesday evening at the state University at Chapel Hill when the graduating exercise was held in Kenan Stadium. Unusual was the setting in the amphitheatre at sunset when for the first time in the one hundred and forty years of history of the university, a woman made the commencement address. Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, wife of the President of the United States, was this speaker who was introduced by Ambassador Josephus Daniels, a favorite son of North Carolina.

Mrs. Roosevelt's magnetism and simple sincerity held the large audience in perfect silence through an address of more than forty-five minutes. Her challenge to the youth of the state and of the graduating class, whom she definitely addressed, was a blanket inspiration. In advising the members of the class of 1935 to "think out new ways of doing things" rather than waiting for trails to be blazed and made safe for them, she sent out a mighty challenge to the youth of the land. She urged the young people not to be satisfied with conditions as they are—to go out in the world and make conditions better.

Her wonderful flair and accomplishment of knowing and loving people ran spontaneously through Mrs. Roosevelt's address. She advised the class to "know your whole community"—not a small clique, but all kinds of folk as she stressed community service. Mrs. Roosevelt's measure of success of a person is not in personal achievement, but in service to human beings. The first lady did not advise these young men and women to go out and serve in any half-hearted fashion, but rather to know and love people of all kinds in this country of ours. The undercurrent of the whole address was service.

Coupled with service was courage—courage to be misunderstood in motive and to be willing to pay the price in disappointments in people and to be misunderstood. "But," she advised, "be certain your stand is right and have courage not to be swayed." She further pointed out that we must pay the price in taxes and in other civic measures, as we go forward, concluding with an appeal not to be satisfied with things as they are. "These are difficult times. We are more prosperous and hopeful than a few years ago. But we, who look at realities—and you graduates must look at realities—we cannot say we are satisfied with our country, or things as they exist today."

Commencement Of Jr. O. U. A. M. Home; Seven Graduates

Third Class to Graduate Since Orphanage Located At Lexington.

Lexington, June 8. — (Special)—Seven young people, representing four states, will receive their diplomas from the National Orphan's home of the Jr. O. U. A. M. Tuesday night, June 11, in the graduating exercises to be held in the Vance auditorium of the institution.

They are: Anne Lee Dunnagan of Durham; Pauline Chinn of Portsmouth, Ohio; Eva Baldwin of Salisbury; Wilma Barnes of Statesville; Charles Large of Knoxville, Tenn.; Leonard Lee of Hope Mills; and J. T. Stamper of Newcastle, Ind.

The commencement sermon will be preached Sunday evening, June 9, at the Vance auditorium by Rev. W. L. Hutchins of Concord. Clyde Erwin, State superintendent of education, will deliver the commencement address Tuesday night. Gurney P. Hood, commissioner of banks for North Carolina, will introduce him.

The class is the third to graduate from the local school since the orphanage was located here. According to W. M. Shuford, Superintendent, the school is closing a very successful year. It was operated under state supervision and the state teaching staff was supplemented by funds received from the Duke Endowment. The commencement marks the end of the seventh school term. In addition to an excellent commercial course, the school is now offering public school music, together with an efficient vocational guidance department. Plans are now being made to start on an orchestra.

Those present were: Mrs. O. P. Dix, Mrs. Ernest Moody, Mrs. C. N. Moody, Mrs. W. J. Jordan, Mrs. Ella May King, Mrs. Elsie McNeill, Mrs. W. F. Cates, Mrs. J. W. Powers, Mrs. Lillie Davis, Mrs. Trotter, Mrs. Farlow, Mrs. Powers, Mrs. Elsie Moody, Mrs. Sam Miller, Mrs. Blanche Brown, Mrs. W. F. Green, Miss Annie Heck Green, Mrs. Richard Caudle, Mrs. Fred Glass, Rev. O. P. Dix, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Pearce.

We may never see the immovable object and irresistible force meet up, we do hope to be around when the hole-in-one man is introduced to the thirteen-spade lady.

State Child Labor Law Provisions Are Clearly Set Forth By Labor Department

During the recent changes in alphabetical control of labor and other matters, information comes from Major Fletcher, from the state department of labor at Raleigh, relating to the present control of child labor conditions. Robert Lloyd, superintendent of welfare in Randolph, has supervision over child labor and makes public the following rules and regulations governing same from the office of Major Fletcher.

The following summary states the provisions of the State Child Labor Laws and the regulations set up by the Department of Labor governing child employment. Now that the industrial codes have been nullified, all district certificates are to be issued in strict accordance with the state regulations. The County Superintendent of Public Welfare is authorized agent of the Department of Labor to issue all employment certificates to children.

Employment Allowed: Children 14 and 15 years of age, both boys and girls, are allowed to work, after they have been issued an employment certificate, in any mill, factory, cannery, workshop, manufacturing establishment, laundry, bakery, mercantile establishment, office, hotel, restaurant,

We may never see the immovable object and irresistible force meet up, we do hope to be around when the hole-in-one man is introduced to the thirteen-spade lady.

Ramseur Churches Plan To Hold Big Memorial Service

Dr. Tate Attends The Alumni Meeting At The University Of North Carolina.

Building New Home

Kindergarten Class Enjoys Party Honoring Barbara Craven's Second Birthday.

Ramseur, June 11.—The geography of the central part of town is undergoing such a change that it will look like some other place when it is finished, which at the rate the construction (and destruction) forces are going will soon be realized.

This will be a splendid route through the town and to Coleridge. The distance is right much decreased and the survey works wonders with the old route, which must have been started years ago by some animal or a crooked trail-brazer.

A handsome residence is in course of construction in West Ramseur for Mr. and Mrs. George Kivett.

The Memorial service will be held next Sunday at the cemetery at 2:30 P. M. The pastors of Ramseur churches will make talks, fitting hymns will be sung and graves decorated. The work is being pushed this week by the town commissioners in an effort to make our city of the dead as sightly as possible.

Rev. and Mrs. L. D. Thompson spent some time with Rev. and Mrs. J. M. Barber Sunday, after which Brother Thompson held his third quarterly conference at Franklinville church.

Rev. Mr. Price, of Siler City, is preaching at the Baptist church this week in the evangelistic campaign that the pastor, Rev. H. M. Stroup, and his church are conducting.

Mrs. White, of Graham, is spending some time this week with her son, R. C. White and family.

Mrs. James Kerr, of Liberty, is spending some time with her sister, Mrs. J. E. Brady.

Miss Elizabeth Smith is receiving treatment at Randolph hospital this week.

Miss Georgia Marsh, of Liberty, visited Mr. and Mrs. N. F. Phillips one evening last week.

Dr. C. S. Tate is attending the alum-

Commencement Of University Of N. C. Ends Tuesday

The 140th commencement of the University of North Carolina began Sunday with the baccalaureate sermon to the class of 410 graduates by Dr. James H. Franklin, president of the Crozer Theological Seminary, of Chester Pennsylvania. Dr. Franklin urged the graduates to dedicate themselves to "sacred service" just as the great Galilean did, and to follow his precepts.

The sermon, a powerful utterance, was heard by an audience that overflowed Memorial Hall. In the afternoon the University band gave a concert under the Davie Poplar, after which followed a concert by the Morehead-Patterson Bell Chimes. The final event of Sunday was an oratorio by the Chapel Hill Club, in the Hill Hall, under the direction of Prof. H. Grady Miller, former Asheboro boy.

Monday was Alumni Day and was featured by the reminiscence session in Hill Music Hall. The Alumni Luncheon came at 1:00 o'clock, Ambassador Daniels, President Graham, and Dean House speaking. The closing program was held Tuesday evening in the Kenan Stadium with Mrs. Anna Eleanor Roosevelt, wife of the President of the United States, delivering the baccalaureate address. President Graham spoke briefly and Governor Ehringhaus presented the diplomas.

New Asheboro Postoffice Complete And Now Ready For Occupancy This Month

A Correction

In recording the proceedings of the Randolph county commissioners in the last issue of The Courier, a typographical error in the account set the maximum sum for the building fund at $175,000.00, when it should have been $173,000. The Courier regrets the error.

P. H. Morris Home Razed To Ground For Modern Edifice

This week a landmark of the town is being razed—the home of the late P. H. Morris on Worth street. The house is being torn down by the purchaser, Charlie Heath who plans to haul the material to Randleman where he will erect two houses.

The lot was purchased some time ago by John Clark who expects to build a home there in the future.

This Morris house was erected in the winter of 1889 and the family moved into the house in March of 1890. During this period, the W. H. Moring, Col. W. P. Wood, Col. J. E. Walker, Sam Bradshaw and Nathan Slack homes were built in various section of the town.

The Morris home was considered ideally modern in its day when Mr. Morris and his family moved into the house to make it a home. To-day it is bowing its head to a more modern structure that promises to be one of the many handsome homes of Asheboro.

Send Us News

For the past several weeks various items have been omitted from the columns of The Courier. Sometimes the reason was a lack of space, sometimes they reached us too late—but never were they omitted from choice. We want to publish the news of Randolph folk, so send it along by mail, telephone, or come by to tell us. Rural news should reach the office Tuesday morning and local news cannot be used after noon on Wednesdays. Tell us the news so we may publish it.

Baseball Team Is Organized By Men Of Franklinville

Franklinville Township Sunday School Convention Is Held At Giles' Chapel.

Celebrates Birthday

Orphanage Singing Class To Appear In Franklinville, Saturday Evening, June 22.

Franklinville, June 12.—Franklinville township Sunday school convention was held at Giles' chapel Sunday. It was profitable and well attended. Those taking part on the program were: Rev. John Q. Pugh, township president, E. C. Williamson, county president, J. G. Julian, Rev. H. V. Cox and R. D. Craven. One feature of the program was good singing, furnished by local choir, a quartet from Dover church, Moore county, and Cox quartet of near Ramseur. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year. Rev. John Q. Pugh, president, S. E. Trogdon, vice president, C. H. Julian, secretary and treasurer, J. H. Phillips, assistant secretary and treasurer. Superintendents: children's division, Miss Nettie Moon; young people's division, Fred Smith; adult division, W. H. Harrell; administrative division, A. L. Briles. Convention will be held next year at Baptist church, Central Falls.

Prof. J. Harvey Mitchell and Miss Esther Moon are attending summer school at Duke University, Durham. Dr. and Mrs. G. H. Sumner and son David, who have spent the past several months at Boston, Mass., where Dr. Sumner has been taking a special course at Harvard College, are (Please turn to page 8)

Trickett Tea Room Closed

The many people of Asheboro, as well as the traveling public, who have been served excellent food for a year at Trickett's Tea Room on Fayetteville street, will learn with regret that the tea room is closed. Miss Ruth Trickett, owner and manager of the tea room, will leave the end of this week for Greensboro where she has been persuaded to accept a position as hostess at the Greensboro Country Club. Asheboro loses Miss Trickett and her tea room with regret.

Mrs. Hammer To Return To Duke
Mrs. Wm. C. Hammer, who was brought home ten days ago from Duke hospital, Durham, has passed a fairly satisfactory week. She plans to return to that hospital Monday for further treatment and some additional bone work by Dr. Shands, who is in charge of her case.

Inside of New Office Is Comfortable And Modern Throughout From Basement Up.

Novel Features Interest Citizens

Definite Orders For Moving Not Received As Yet By Postmaster J. O. Redding.

Asheboro is about to move into her new postoffice. Carpenters, plasterers, painters and the like are clearing out and when a few remaining articles of furniture arrive, the force will move from the old stand-bag and baggage. The inside is ready for occupancy with the exception of a few light bulbs and a bit of brushing up in spots. It is indeed a source of pride—this interior. All sorts of convenient details were included in the inside plants from a vault for old records in the basement, which is located hard by a modern heating plant—to "peep-holes" for secret service men and inspectors.

These peep-holes are located in the rear of the main work room where they look, to the casual observer, like ventilators—but they are not. There is an outside, side entrance through the basement into a private office for the inspectors, which is not entered by any member of the local force. The inspectors can, from this office, go up a narrow staircase through the chimney and use the peep-holes to see what is going on in the Asheboro office.

The main lobby, facing Sunset avenue, is entered through a steel and glass cage to keep out winter cold and summer heat. The lobby is commodious, as are the other quarters, and attractive from the tile floor to the newly painted modern wall structure. Ample desks, or tables, will be provided for writing in the lobby. Windows for general delivery, parcel post and stamps stand in a row immediately in front of the entrance. A bit to the right is a steel case and lock window for registered mail. In this lock cage is a large safe of modern design and structure.

The exact date for moving from the old building into the new is not given as yet to Postmaster J. O. Redding, but he hopes to move during this month as another quarter of rent will begin in the old building on Fayetteville street. Definite notice will be posted in the postoffice as soon as Mr. Redding receives order from the department in order that patrons may secure boxes, keys and the like.

The present force will not be increased in the new quarters, it is understood. The force is composed of: J. O. Redding, postmaster; J. C. Bunch and R. B. Briles, and Mrs. Nita Burkhead, regular clerks; R. S. Allred, regular sub; Fred Kearns and Gorrell Sugg, temporary subs.

Orthopedic Work Is Discussed At Recent Meeting of Rotarians

Perhaps the most important work now in process by the Rotary club of Asheboro was the topic of discussion at the last meeting—that of work among the crippled children of Randolph county. N. M. Cranford, a member of the committee in charge of this work, introduced the speaker of the meeting, Dr. Thomas F. Wheelond, who has spent seventeen years in the state of Virginia. Dr. Wheelond discussed methods of holding clinics with the maximum results and made some very excellent suggestions for the work in this county.

Another interesting item of this meeting was the list of members who have achieved one hundred percent attendance since they joined: Corwith, Craven, Grimes, Holt, C. W. McCrary, Nassar, Page, J. D. Ross, L. F. Ross, J. M. Scarbore, Schaefer, Scott, C. G. Smith, D. C. Smith, Thayer, Truesdale, White and Wood.

L. F. Ross will have charge of the meeting held at noon on Friday of this week and another 100 percent attendance meeting is anticipated.

Guest of Moring Family

Mr. and Mrs. John Porter, of Charlotte, were in Asheboro Sunday and were guests of Mrs. Porter's father, W. H. Moring. Mr. and Mrs. Porter were enroute to Raleigh where they attended the commencement exercises at State College on Monday. Their son, William Moring Porter, was a member of the senior class, graduating in Construction Engineering. Mr. and Mrs. Porter were accompanied to Raleigh by Mr. Moring where they were joined by Mrs. Moring, who was returning from a visit to her sister, Mrs. John Bulla, in Washington, D. C. Mr. and Mrs. Moring also attended the graduating exercises seeing their grandson, William Moring Porter graduate with honors.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Fox Visit
Mr. and Mrs. Joe Fox plan to return to their home at Salisbury the end of this week after passing two weeks in Asheboro. Mr. Fox, a former teacher in the Asheboro school, is now with General Motors. Mrs. Fox was the former Miss Linnie Burkhead, and was a music teacher in Asheboro.

A modern food expert is one who can look at a calf and tell how many chicken sandwiches it will make.
