M. E. Missionary Society Holds Meeting And Is Entertained By Mt. Vernon Church

Trinity, Sept. 4.—The Woman's Missionary Society of the M. E. church held the monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. J. L. Phillips, Tuesday afternoon. The president, Mrs. J. W. Meredith, presided, and Miss Bess Johnson had charge of the program. A very enthusiastic and interesting meeting was held after which a social hour was enjoyed and refreshments served by Miss Carrie Phillips and Mrs. D. R. Younts. The society was invited to Mt. Vernon church Wednesday afternoon where they rendered a program and were entertained by the missionary society of that church.

Mrs. Annie Brower and family of High Point spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Younts and family here.

Miss Gladys Bullock has returned to her home at Durham after spending several days with Mr. and Mrs. R. Bullock here.

A second mass meeting of citizens of Trinity and Archdale was held in the high school auditorium, Friday night in regard to the recent proposed water and sewer system for this district. Geo. B. Craven presided and discussions held were to further the proposed plan recently presented. An effort is being made to secure the support of fifty two per cent of the citizens of the district and many signed the petition to support the plan drafted at this meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. John Payne, accompanied by Misses Elma Johnson and Willie Womack of Madison, spent last week end in Blowing Rock and Asheville. While in Asheville they were the guests of H. E. Johnson and family.

McCrary Family Of Indiana Pays Visit To Asheboro Friends

P. P. McCrary, In 91st Year, Remarkably Active And Makes Long Trip By Automobile

Mr. and Mrs. William Hicks, of Kokomo, Ind., and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ray, of Gary, Ind., together with their friends, Mr. and Mrs. Purn Herring, of Kokomo, Ind., made an automobile trip here to pay a short visit to our townsman, D. B. McCrary. Mrs. Hicks and Mrs. Day are cousins of Mr. McCrary.

Their grandfather, H. P. McCrary, of Kingman, Ind., was a brother of the late W. F. McCrary, of Randolph county, and he is an uncle of our D. B. McCrary.

H. P. McCrary went west many years ago. He is now 91 years old and his granddaughters reported him to be in good health at present. He lives within a few blocks of the center of the town of Kingman, Ind., and walks down town every day, and reads his paper. He still enjoys playing cards and passes a lot of time in this manner with his friends. He is considered.

Kiwanis Club Has Solicitor Coggin As Guest Speaker

Points Out Number Of Court Cases On Docket For Drunken Driving

The Kiwanis club members, with their wives and sweethearts, met Tuesday evening at the city pond, for their monthly meeting. The ladies of the Charlotte church served the supper which was heartily enjoyed by all participants. In spite of the threatening weather, many were present and did justice to the bountiful meal.

I. C. Moser introduced Charles Coggin, solicitor of this district and guest speaker for the evening, who paid tribute to the Kiwanis spirit and called attention to the opportunities for rendering service available to the club.

Mr. Coggin mentioned especially the ever increasing problem the American people have in motor traffic and the tremendous loss in human life and property damage caused daily by careless and improper driving. He stressed the appalling fact that automobiles killed more people in North Carolina last year than the state lost in the world war.

The speaker mentioned that there were twenty-nine cases up before the present court for drunken driving and fifteen other cases simply for reckless driving. The rain caused him to cut his talk short but he closed by stating that two very important things should be observed by motorists. First, always keep the car under complete control so that, in case of emergency, the car could be stopped quickly. Second, see that the car is in proper condition and equipped at all times.

President E. H. Morris mentioned that the ban has been lifted on children's meetings now and that the club's scout activities are to be resumed immediately.

Superior Court Is In Midst Of Busy Term In Randolph

Three Murder Cases Slated Criminal Docket That Will Be Tried This Week

Docket Is Heavy

Judge John Clement Presiding, With Solicitor Charles Coggin Prosecuting

Randolph county superior court for the trial of criminal cases, commenced in Asheboro on Monday with Judge John Clement presiding. Judge Clement, in his charge to the jury, stressed law enforcement and explained carefully the duty of the jurors.

Charles Coggin, solicitor in this district, is prosecuting the docket in an able and efficient manner. The docket is considerably cluttered with whiskey cases, driving cars while drunk and the like. There are three murder cases, however, on the docket, including that of Roby Spencer which was taken up on Wednesday afternoon but not disposed of. The other two murder charges are: state vs. Harvin Harris and state vs. Amos Kearns.

On Monday, an effort was made to dispose of the jail cases, securing true

Winston-Salem Man Buys G. H. Black Farm And Plans Large Lake

Hughes Homecoming

Mrs. Weatherly Called Away On Account Of Illness Of Son-In-Law

Franklinville, Sept. 2.—W. D. Hughes, of Winston-Salem, has bought what is known as the G. H. Black farm, one mile south of Franklinville, and expects to improve and develop it in the near future. This is one of the best farms in this community, well watered, with two good dwellings and outbuildings. One project will be to build a 12 foot dam across York Creek, making a lake covering 25 acres of land which will be the largest artificial lake in Randolph county. The dam will be only a short distance from the bridge at Wrenn's shops.

Mrs. D. M. Weatherly was called to Rich Square, Tuesday, on account of the illness of her son-in-law, J. W. Peck, who is now critically ill in a Rocky Mount hospital.

B. C. Jones, who for some time has held a position with H. A. Page Motor Co., Asheboro, has taken charge of Franklinville Motor Co.

Town Board Votes Application Gov't PWA 45 Per Cent Loan For Proposed Community Building

At the town board meeting, Tuesday evening, the community building project was presented to the board members. The committees of the Chamber of Commerce tendered figures showing that $23,844 had been pledged from various organizations, business concerns and individuals.

The board unanimously agreed to file application to the federal government for the 45% PWA grant. If the project is approved the committee feels that the additional amount of approximately $4,000 needed can be raised in the community. So far, only the larger manufacturing concerns of the community have been solicited. The total cost of the project will be around $55,000.

The community is exceedingly grateful to the Woman's club for their pledge of $1,000 which they had originally intended to use in constructing a building for their organization.

Asheboro's New Postoffice

Asheboro Postoffice Is Moved To New Building On Sunset Avenue During This Week

New Building Commodious And Convenient Inside Despite Plain Exterior

History Recounted Of Various Moves

Postmaster Redding And Force Of Thirteen Assistants Well Pleased With Quarters

United States mail is now coming into the new post office where the citizens of Asheboro are now receiving service from this new building. While the style of the building is far from handsome and imposing, since the local post office force have moved into the new home, it has taken on a different mein and is fitting into the picture of business Asheboro a bit better. The inside of the building, however, is conceded to be quite convenient and entirely satisfactory.

The force today, headed by J. O. Redding, postmaster, includes, James Bunch, who has twenty-one years of service to his record; R. A. Briles; Mrs. Nita Burghard; R. S. Allred, Fred M. Kearns, G. S. Sugg; city carriers Gayle Hussey, Edgar Mabe; rural carriers—N. S. Andrews, for route two; J. J. Miller, route 3; and S. W. Stout; star route, Harrison Bean; Will Hughes, custodian.

The post office employees today, numbering thirteen, is far different from the days when the post office was in the old part of town nearby the Hayworth home on Old Main street at the rear of the Presbyterian manse lot. At this place, Mrs. Eugenia B. McCain was postmistress, and continued the place for several years after moving the office in 1902 to the lot now occupied by the Standard Drug Company. Mrs. McCain served

Commissioners Let Painting Contract For Court House

W. L. Thomas Is Low Bidder For Exterior Painting Job To Begin Monday

Foreclosures On

Recommend Paving Of Additional Stretch On Cox Road; An Unusually Busy Session

The board of Randolph county commissioners met in an unusually busy session on Monday, September 2nd, for the regular transaction of the county's business also in joint session with the board of education. The proceeding of the board of education to be recorded at another place in this newspaper.

The county commissioners attended to many details as well as several most important matters to the county. It was recommended by the body to the state highway commission that two miles of the Cox road beginning at the corporate limits of Asheboro be surfaced.

The contract for painting the outside of the county court house was let to W. L. Thomas, low bidder, according to the contract previously agreed upon. Mr. Thomas' bid was set at $235.00 and to finance the job until complete and accepted by the board. The work will commence on Monday.

It was decided by the group that the county accept the redemption of 1934 land sales until November 1st, 1935, without interest. It was the decision not to charge interest on the 1934 taxes sold on September 2nd.

The following resolution was passed in regard to starting foreclosure suits on delinquent tax payers for the year 1932:

"Whereas, that Chapter 75 Public Laws 1935 of North Carolina governing the foreclosure of land sale certificates provides: That counties holding land tax sales certificates for the year 1932 must start foreclosure proceedings on or before Dec. 1, 1935.

And Whereas, no provision has been made by this board to comply with this law, as it applies to Randolph county for the foreclosure of land sales tax certificates of the above mentioned year.

And Whereas, Lawrence T. Hammond, an attorney of Asheboro, N. C. has agreed to enter into contract with this board and Randolph county to do any and all things necessary as an attorney in starting and completing foreclosure suits on all land tax sales certificates for the year 1932. The consideration for the service to be as follows: For each foreclosure suit in the above action he shall re-

Fair Program Now Complete, Promises Interesting Week

School Children Will Be Admitted Free On Opening Day, Tuesday, September 24th

Fair officials announce that the program for Randolph county's big annual event is now complete and promises a week of varied entertainment and information. On Tuesday, the opening day, school children from all over Randolph will be admitted free to the fair grounds the first day of the fair. The opening hour is set for 10:00 a. m. and all school children will be admitted free.

On Wednesday, all exhibits will be judged except livestock. This year, according to those who know, there will be an unusually good livestock exhibit. Livestock will be judged on Thursday which is termed 4-H Club Day. On Friday, perhaps the largest crowds will gather, for that day has been set aside as the official home coming day. Old friendships will be renewed and former Randolphians will come back to their place of nativity for a gala day of celebration and reunion. An added attraction of that day will be an automobile given away by the fair. Saturday is everybody's day and that is enough said.

Federal Emergency Education Program Extended; Application Should Be Made Immediately

The Federal Emergency Education program which has aided thousands of college students and adults for the past several years has been extended so that it will aid public school students during this school year. The National Youth Administration is the agency that will have charge of student aid. Superintendent Reginald Turner, of the Asheboro schools, has received a letter from C. E. McIntosh, director of the North Carolina Youth Administration, in which the details concerning aid to certain students in the Asheboro schools are explained.

Pupils who are between the ages of 16 and 25 and who have not been attending school because of their economic circumstances will be eligible to apply for student aid if they are on the local relief rolls. Applications should be made to Supt. Reginald Turner on Friday or Saturday of this week. A pupil who wishes to apply for aid should first see the local officials of the E. R. A. office and get a note stating that he or she is on relief and hence eligible to apply for aid.

Pupils who are approved by the several officials of the Youth Administration will be paid a sum not greater than $6.00 monthly during the session of school. Such pupils may be assigned work to do in addition to their studies in order to earn the monthly checks which will be sent out by the North Carolina Youth Administration. Aid may be given a pupil regardless of his classification in school. He may be in either the elementary or the high school; however, his relief status as determined by the E. R. A. or the W. P. A. is essential to his application for aid.

It should be added that colored pupils may receive student aid if they are eligible. Colored pupils should make application to Principal C. A. Barrett of the Randolph County Training School.

School Building Fund Now Assured By Board Who Signs Federal Agreement

Superintendent Bulla, M. E. Johnson, C. M. Hayworth And I. C. Moser To Washington

Asheboro School Is Now Assured

Plans And Locations Will Probably Be Complete Within Two Months From Present

Superintendent T. Fletcher Bulla, of the county school system, met with the county board of education on Monday, September 2nd, and made definite plans for the school building program in Randolph county this fall. Mr. Bulla, with I. C. Moser, county attorney, and two members of the board of commissioners, M. E. Johnson and C. M. Hayworth, have recently returned from Washington where they went to complete the plans for the PWA funds. At the meeting on Monday, the agreements were properly signed and forwarded to Washington by way of Dr. H. G. Baity, state engineer for the PWA.

According to Superintendent Bulla, the details are not yet complete as to plans and specifications for the buildings, which must yet be finished. Locations must also be purchased, advertisements for bids must be made and other details necessary to getting the plans in motion. All work will be done by contract.

The amount of this PWA loan will total $200,000.00, with a 30 per cent grant from the government going with the 70 per cent loan which the county will repay yearly over a number of years—perhaps twenty-five—payments beginning in 1937. As it is doubtless known, the state of North Carolina pays the teachers and for the school buses while the counties furnish the buildings. The fund will be distributed as follows: Asheboro school, new building and equipment, $47,000.00; new buildings and equipment for Archdale, $20,000.00; the same for Coleridge, $33,000.00; New Market, same, $27,000.00; Tabernacle, same, $28,000.00; Ramseur, addition to building and equipment, $25,000.00; Staley, addition to building and equipment, $20,000.00.

Mr. Bulla further discussed the teacher situation and is quite pleased with the choices at the various schools in the county. The list is practically complete. Mr. Bulla wishes to call attention to the meeting for all Randolph county teachers to be held on Wednesday, September 11th, at the county court house at 9:30 a. m. At this time, Dr. J. Henry Highsmith will discuss the courses of study with the teachers also libraries and books. He further calls attention to the meeting for principals to be held in Greensboro on Sept. 5th to meet with other principals of the state to discuss the text book rental system and evolve the best plan for working this innovation.
