 Named To Honor Sergeant Allison Page, A Deceased World War Veteran

 General McClosky Speaks; Entertains Family Of Honored N. C. Soldier

"Camp Page" in honor of the late Sergeant Allison Martin Page, 47th Company, 5th Regiment, United States Marine Corps, former resident of Moore county, North Carolina, who was killed in action in the Belleau Wood defensive action, June 25th, 1918. In speaking before the ceremony, General Manas McCloskey, commanding officer of Fort Bragg and Camp Page, said, "I was commanding officer of the Twelfth Regiment of Field Artillery that did all of the artillery work for the 5th Regiment of Chateau-Thierry and Belleau Wood. Allison Page was a member of that Regiment of Marines. The German high command at that time was making what, in their estimation, was to be the last determined 'push' towards Paris. The sign posts at our front lines read 'Paris-72 kilometers' or only 45 miles away. Between the Germans and Paris lay only a thin line of worn-out French poilus and the unexpected Second Division of American troops which had been rushed to the gap by motor lorry. For seventy-two hours that line of American Infantry and Marines occupied positions in shallow 'fox holes' while my regiment of artillery kept a solid curtain of fire between them and the German lines. We stopped only to swab the bores of our guns, or to replace one that had blown up. The German troops who succeeded in penetrating that barrage met first the rifle and machine gun fire of the Marines and then the Marines themselves in hand-to-hand combat. They were stopped and finally driven back. It was during the counter-offensive against the German positions that Allison Martin Page made the supreme sacrifice for his country. As we pay our humble tribute to the memory of Allison Page here today, I stand before you knowing that you will carry on the spirit exemplified by him in order that it may not perish from the face of the earth but will be carried on throughout future generations—love of God, love of country and love of home. I repeat again my firm conviction that America is the greatest nation in the world today to live up to the Golden Rule, 'Peace on earth, goodwill to men'. You young men, if this nation is to live up to its manifest destiny, must live the life of the true Christian; not the man who endures persecution and repays blows with soft speech, but the militant Christian who is willing to fight for his faith for his ideals. I say to you and to all the youth of this nation, 'Fight evil as you would fight disease. Live Christian lives, but defend your ideals'. It is only through such practices that our tribute to Allison Martin Page may be real and not a mere figure of speech."

Fredric March and Donald Woods battle over a lady in Warner Bros.' remarkable picturization of Hervey Allen's best selling novel "Anthony Adverse" which opens at the Sunset Theatre on Monday. This picture, with the biggest cast and the greatest number of scenes on record, is declared to be Hollywood's outstanding film achievement.

Red in 2nd Battalion, Winston Turbville of Matthews; medals were awarded to the Best Basic in each Battery in this order—Battery "A", Alfred W. Arrington of Troy; Battery "B", Jesse B. Fletcher of Kershaw, S. C.; Battery "C", William N. Everett of Rockingham; Battery "D", Edwin A. Hubbard of Sanford; Battery "E", Abran H. Rose, Smithfield; and Battery "F", Tom V. Goode of Statesville.

Following the presentation of awards for achievement in military activities, the medals and wards for athletic achievement were given to those outstanding athletes whose names were published this week.

The ceremony was brought to a close by a brief address and benediction given by Reverend Doctor Wallace of Lumberton, departmental chaplain of the Veterans of Foreign Wars for North Carolina.

Aid For Natives Of Alaska Sought By U. S. Senator

American Firms Bring Own Employees; Natives Cannot Find Employment

Liquor Problem

Indians, Aleuts, Eskimos Each A Distinct Group; Complicating Problem

United States Senator Elmer Thomas of Oklahoma, chairman of the Senate's committee on Indian Affairs, will take steps when congress meets to come to the aid of the Alaska natives. He has but recently returned from a trip through this northern territory and his findings indicate the need of immediate federal aid to save these people from themselves and from annihilation at the hands of the whites who are coming to Alaska in ever growing numbers.

Two Major Problems
 The two major problems which he intends to bring before the Senate for legislation are liquor control and employment of Indians, Aleuts and Eskimos, the three groups comprising the native population, as distinct from the transplanted whites.

Senator Thomas declared the territorial district attorney at Nome testified there is no law against selling or giving intoxicants to natives. The latter's interpretation of existing law held that congressional repeal of prohibition also repealed the territory's prohibition, although natives had been barred from drinking even prior to the Volstead Act.

Senator Thomas said in an interview here that he is going to urge legislation to isolate Alaskan natives from drink in much the same manner that American Indians are protected under federal control.

Three Distinct Groups
 "The Wheeler-Howard bill, passed two years ago," explained the committee chairman, "placed Alaskan natives in the same relationship to the Federal Government as the Indians of the states. These new wards embrace three distinct groups: the Indians of the south-east, the Aleuts of the central and Aleutian Island area, and the Eskimos of the north country. The natives make up 80,000 of the territory's entire 60,000 population, and they must earn their living in the four industries Alaska has—fishing, fur-trapping, mining and reinder.

"There has been a tendency for American corporations to send their own crews into Alaska and deny work to the natives. Something must be done to prevent these invaders from taking things out of Alaska without spending or hiring in return."

Senator Thomas cited instances where fisheries and dredge-miners had excluded native employees. As for fur-trapping, natives still had plenty of opportunity to bring in pelts, but the amount received in cash or trade was decided one-sidedly by American traders and dealers.

The Senator said congress was the only place where reform could take place, because its laws underlie Alaskan government and void all acts of the territorial legislature on identical subjects. He said he doubted whether the local law-makers could pass a prohibition law, as those who sold liquor and the natives who vote would oppose the movement.

He based his censure on testimony and his own observations during the month-long tour which took him and his associates to Juneau, Anchorage, Fairbanks, Nome, Teller, Keene Islands, Dutch Harbor, all through the Aleutians and the Bering Strait.

The group found that the trend to community living was not beneficial to the natives. Thousands are quartered in one-room homes in towns. Those who no longer fish and hunt for their food need instruction on the proper choice of canned goods' the committee found.

Rapid progress along many community fronts was reported by schoolteachers, their wives and school nurses, who form almost the only contact of the Federal Government with the routine life of the indigenous population. Native children sometimes are grouped in their own schools and sometimes attend school with white children.

with food for "500 starving Eskimos" as evidence of the necessity to begin immediately to give every Alaskan the opportunity to earn his own way in hunting, herding, fishing and mining unfettered by the squeeze tactics of objectionable corporations, which he blamed for the present plight of able-bodied men in a land of plenty.

Prices as follows:
 Heavy Hens ..... 14c
 Leghorn Hens ..... 10c
 Heavy breed chicks, 2 lbs. and up ..... 16c
 Leghorn chicks, 2 lbs. and up ..... 15c
 Stags ..... 12c
 Roosters ..... 8c

All hens that have gone into molt, that you do not intend to carry over should be sold now, as they will not lay again before winter. Also, by clearing out the cull hens you will have more room for taking care of the pullets. Be sure to watch out for lice and mites on poultry and try to get them cleared out before cool weather. Also keep plenty of fresh water before your pullets, as well as plenty of feed. With the price of eggs at the present time, you should get them into production as soon as possible. If you do not have housing room for them, it will pay you to build additional space. We will be glad to furnish building plans at any time.

Anthony Adverse Is Reputed To Be Marvelous Film
 Will Appear At Sunset On Monday And Tuesday, Sept. 14-15

Hervey Allen's monumental literary classic, "Anthony Adverse," brought to the screen with all its wealth of color and dramatic fire, has been booked by Manager Francis White for the Sunset Theatre where it will have its local premiere on Monday.

Fredric March has the stellar role, with beautiful and talented Olivia de Havilland playing the leading feminine role.

In order to give this sweeping panoramic story the magnificence and magnitude it merited, Warner Bros., the producers, are said to have spared neither time, nor effort, nor cost. In fact more than two years were spent in preparing the script, in research work to make perfect the atmospheric settings, and in the actual filming of the many and intricate scenes.

There never has been a cast to approach this one in size, and few that will equal it in talent. There are ninety eight principals with speaking parts, 2,550 bit players and extras, and nearly 3,000 artisans and technicians worked behind the cameras to make the picture letter perfect. More than 1,000 scenes were "shot" for the production on 131 mammoth sets.

The colorful and picturesque backgrounds are set in five countries on three continents. The scenes open in France, in the beautiful countryside and a great chateau, sweep through the Swiss and Italian Alps to the quaint city of Leghorn, Italy, then to Havana, Cuba, on to Africa and the great slave marts of other days, back to Italy and again to France to the court of Napoleon Bonaparte.
