Partial Law Declared As Japanese Hunt Chinese Slayer Of Comrade Chinese Silent

Japan Determined To Wipe Out Hostile Agitation; Prepare For Force

Japan's encroachment in China rapidly growing into a serious threat to the independence of China and to the interests of other nations in that country. Japan yesterday took over the policing of large portion of the international settlement in Shanghai, declared martial law, and announced that her marines would assume independent measures to protect Japanese citizens instead of operating jointly with other powers as is customary. The immediate cause of this action was the shooting of three Japanese marines, one of whom died. Friction between Chinese and the Japanese armed forces has been flaring up more and more recently, and during the last month Japanese have been killed, while any number of "incidents" occurred. Japan has taken opportunity of each incident to move more troops into China, saying they are necessary to protect her interests if anti-Japanese agitation is to be kept under control. At every forward step Japan takes the natives are more incensed and are provoked to fresh outbreaks. Japan stated Wednesday that she would take over every strategic point in China in order to protect her interests in anti-Japanese agitation did not cease, and her action in Shanghai appears to be a prelude to further moves.

City & County Teachers To Meet In Conference Asheboro On Saturday

First Meeting Of Randolph County Teachers Called This Session

County Supt. Bulla Will Be In Charge

County Schools Off With Good Start, According To Superintendent

T. Fletcher Bulla, county superintendent of schools, has announced that a meeting of teachers of the county system will be held in the Asheboro high school auditorium at 10 o'clock Saturday morning. This is the first meeting of the county teachers during the new session, although a meeting of principals was held shortly before the opening of the schools. There will be no formal program. Superintendent Bulla will have charge of the session, which will be devoted chiefly to the discussion of routine school matters. The matter of extension courses will also be brought up. Reginald Turner, city superintendent, said that some of the teachers in the city system would probably attend this meeting also. Mr. Bulla expressed himself as being highly delighted with the manner in which the schools are progressing this fall. They have got into good working order with fewer problems than he had anticipated and fewer than usual, and these difficulties have been ironed out with a minimum of trouble. Attendance figures all over the county are particularly good, though Mr. Bulla could give out no exact figures, all schools not having sent in reports. The new schools are full and are operating satisfactorily. Attendance at Coleridge is especially large, and citizens there are already considering a request for an addition to their school building. Mr. Bulla hopes that the county will be granted about four additional teachers because of the increased attendance. The schools must have been open for two weeks before these requests may be made, and it takes some little time for them to be approved and for the added teachers to be assigned. The book rental system is working very well and is immensely popular with the children and their parents. The number of school texts rented this fall is about a third larger than last year, while the sales have dropped. Mr. Bulla said that he expected this tendency to continue to manifest itself since the cost of renting the books is only one third that of buying them. Some few books cannot be supplied just now because of publishers' shortages, but in general the school children are well supplied.

Local Grocery Stores Change From Covington-Prevost To Prevost Stores Of Asheboro

For fifteen years, the grocery store, known in recent years as Covington-Prevost store, has served Asheboro and Randolph county folk—and from the same location. This first store, for there are now more, is located at the intersection of Fayetteville and Trade streets.

In this location, J. W. Prevost has done grocery business for the past fifteen years. Coming to Asheboro from Worthville fifteen years ago as the first of September, Mr. Prevost has continued to serve the public. W. C. Covington, also a well known merchant of the town and county has been associated in business with Mr. Prevost until recently, the management changed. On September 16th J. W. Prevost purchased the entire business from H. M. Robins, receiver for the firm for the past several months. The purchase included more than just the one store, for about six years ago a second store was opened by the company. This was the Peoples' Store, across the railroad track on Sunset avenue. And, a year later, C. and P. Food Store was opened in North Asheboro. The three stores have operated continuously since they were opened and will continue to operate under the new management. The only difference in the stores, that will be observed by the public, will be the change in name to Prevost Stores and the improvements planned by J. W. Prevost, manager of the three grocery stores. It is Mr. Prevost's plan to carry a varied line of fresh and canned groceries and meats and serve the people of this section better than in the past fifteen years, during which time he has made many staunch friends for himself and for his business.

First Fall Meet Asheboro P-T. A. Monday, Sept. 28th

The first meeting of the Asheboro Parent-Teachers association will be held in the high school auditorium at 7:30 Monday evening, September 28th. Mrs. J. T. Pugh, chairman of the attendance committee, is inviting all parents and interested citizens to this meeting. The meeting will not last more than an hour and a large enthusiastic group is expected to be on hand. It will be an informal session and in part a social occasion, affording the parents their first opportunity to get acquainted with the teachers of their children.

Siler City Youth Instantly Killed While Riding Truck

Walter D. Clark, 21, of Siler City, was run over and killed Wednesday morning by a large trailer-truck in High Point. He was riding in the truck, driven by Carl L. Siler of Silk Hope, when, according to Siler, he noticed a spare tire in the trailer slipping off. He crawled back to catch it and evidently slipped and fell under the trailer. Siler heard him cry and stopped the truck as quickly as possible, but the front wheel of the trailer had already passed over Clark, crushing his head and chest. He was dead by the time he reached Clinic hospital, though rushed there immediately by an ambulance. The truck had just come from Baltimore with a load of wheat and had delivered it at the North State Milling company and was continuing to Siler City when the accident occurred. Siler was placed under a $500 bond on a charge of manslaughter, pending trial in city court September 30.

Sanford Tobacco Market Opens On Tuesday, Sept. 22

Excellent Average Sales For First Day; Buyers And Farmers Pleased

Four Warehouses Many People In Sanford For The Opening Of This Tobacco Season

Sanford, Sept. 24.—With breath abated growers and tobaccoists Tuesday morning awaited the opening of the tobacco auctioning season in Sanford at when the sales began, pleased smiles wreathed the faces of growers. Tobacco was high. With a medium break of 178,976 pounds, the floors of the warehouses were cleared at 4:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon with tobacco averaging $27.01 per hundred pounds. "The highest since 1934," one farmer on the Sanford market was heard to say. "Since 1934?" queried another. "The best since 1919." With one of the best sets of buyers on the market this year that Sanford has ever had, this high average of the opening day is expected to remain at the high mark—unless more of the common, dark leaf that pulled the average down Tuesday flood the market. The four large warehouses in Sanford have proven that they can market well over 200,000 pounds in one day and so, with opening break over, there is no fear here of a blocked market at any time this season. Many were in Sanford to watch the sales, rather than to sell. Satisfied with what they saw, they hurried home to bring their leaf to the market the following day. Good cutters were bringing the best prices at Sanford, ranging from forty to fifty cents a pound. Lugs were selling high also. Medium quality wrapper was bringing up to 65 and 70 cents a pound.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Rush, Mr. and Mrs. Zeb Rush, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Stokes of High Point, and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Rich of the Mechanic community were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Rush. On Saturday evening they gave a surprise shower to Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Henley, who were married in Danville, Va., on September 13th. Mrs. Henley was formerly Miss Nina Doby of Davidson.

Singer Convention Coleridge Township

The Coleridge township singing convention will be held at Pleasant Ridge Christian church, two miles south of Ramseur, Sunday, September 27. This convention had intended to meet September 20, but was postponed because of the funeral of R. Carson Cox, which was held on that day at Holly Springs Friends church. Rev. Mr. Apple of Elon college will preach at 11 o'clock in the morning. Singing will begin at 1 o'clock. Everyone is cordially invited to attend.

Program 16th Randolph Fair An Interesting Study Recorded Squad Personnel

Number Of North Carolinians Of State's Big Five Football Teams Duke Not Native

Percentage Of N. C. Has Good Chiefly Tar Heels

Houston A. Lawing brings up an interesting point in his sports column, "Firing At Random", in the Greensboro Record—just how many of the football luminaries on the squads of North Carolina's Big Five are native Tar Heels? Lawing has pored over the rosters of these teams and come up with some figures that may not be so welcome to the loyal supporters of some of them. It appears that Duke and State have a rather surprising out-of-state representation on their squads. Only 9 of the 47 players on the latter's roster hail from the good old North State, and only three of these are on what is considered the first team. Of Duke's 37 leading players just 7 are from North Carolina. The only one likely to be in the lineup when Duke meets Colgate Saturday is Elmore Hackney, a Durham boy. The University of North Carolina shows a good percentage of home state boys on the squad, 27 out of a total of 55. Considering probable starting lineups, however, the view is not so good, for only four North Carolinians are expected to be in at the opening. Davidson and Wake Forest are both largely composed of home talent. Davidson has 27 state re-

Young Democratic Club Of Randolph County Is Planning For Big Rally

Church Support Kiwanis Theme At Tuesday Meet

Dr. Cothran G. Smith Is Speaker For The Meeting; Dr. O'Brian Introduces

Attendance Drive Promotion Of Kiwanis Education Committee In Charge Of Next Meeting

Support of the church was the theme of Dr. C. G. Smith, guest speaker at the Kiwanis meeting Tuesday evening. Dr. Smith made a very interesting and pointed talk on the various ways in which members of the community should support their church and spoke of the many ways in which the churches here were being supported by the Kiwanis club and other civic organizations. In his discussion he very aptly brought out the fact that true support of the church was a man's work, requiring his most wholehearted efforts, and showed the fallacy in the procedure of the men who delegate church attendance and participation in religious activities to the women in their families as being feminine duties. The program was prepared by the committee on churches and spiritual aims, consisting of Rufus Hill, Erman Trogdon, Dr. George Salisbury, Rev. Howard Powell and Dr. L. R. O'Brian. Dr. O'Brian made a short talk, introducing Dr. Smith. The results of the attendance contest will be announced next week. Tuesday's meeting was the last which counted in the standings but the final tabulations must be checked before the decision can be announced. Both teams have been staging a hot fight for the honors, with an unofficial estimate placing Walter Craven's Nips one ahead of Dr. George Salisbury's Tucks. The election of officers will also take place at the next meeting. The nominating committee will select two candidates for each office and present their names to be voted upon by the members. The committee on promotion of Kiwanis education will have charge of the meeting next Tuesday. E. V. Hobbs is chairman of this body, which also includes I. C. Moser, Rev. Howard Powell, and Lee Kearns. Ed Morris, a former president, presided over the meeting in the absence of the president, Rufus Routh, and the vice president, Walter Craven, both of whom were attending the American Legion convention in Cleveland.

Church Support Kiwanis Theme At Tuesday Meet

Dr. Cothran G. Smith Is Speaker For The Meeting; Dr. O'Brian Introduces

Attendance Drive Promotion Of Kiwanis Education Committee In Charge Of Next Meeting

The program committee from the Young Democratic club of Randolph county met Tuesday evening and started definite plans for the Democratic barbecue and rally for Saturday, October 17th. Roy Cox, chairman of the committee for the program, is assisted by the following members: Mrs. H. L. Griffin, Mrs. R. P. Sykes, Mrs. J. W. Hanner, Miss Blanche Miller, Miss Kate Hammer, Arthur Ross, Jr., and J. V. Wilson. This committee is cooperating with the other committees from this organization to make this one of the biggest events ever staged by Democracy in Randolph county. Bob Wood, chairman of the Randolph Democratic club, is enthusiastic about the plans and pleased with the work of the committees. Senator Bob Reynolds of Asheville and Washington will be the chief speaker for the occasion, although speech-making will not be the chief event of the occasion. The plan is for brief speeches, and good old-time Democratic fellowship around the barbecue tables. Invitations will be extended also to Governor Ehringhaus, Chairman Wallace Winborne, Ed Butler of Morganton, chairman of N. C. Young Democrats, Mrs. J. D. Spillman of Greenville, state vice chairman; Hon. Clyde R. Hoey, candidate-elect for governor; Congressman Harold D. Cooley; Senator Josiah W. Bailey; Kerr Scott, candidate for head of department of agriculture; Bruce Ethridge of the conservation department; Capus Waynick of the highway department; Dr. Ralph McDonald and Sandy Graham, candidates for governor in the past primary and many other well known political figures in this section of the state.
