

C. Delegation Leads In Passing Agriculture Bill

Defeat Attempts Of Republicans To Pare Agriculture Appropriation

$927,000,000 Bill

Lindsay Warren Speaker Pro Tem; Hancock And Umstead Also Active

The North Carolina delegation in the house of representatives played a major part in the passage of the agriculture appropriation bill Friday, though half of the Tarheel members were absent. Although all efforts to increase the amount recommended by the agriculture committee were defeated, the North Carolina representatives led in turning back the stamps of Republican members against the agricultural appropriations in accordance with the president's economy plea.

By designation of Speaker W. B. Bankhead, who was out of the city, Rep. Lindsay C. Warren was in full charge as speaker pro tempore and also directed floor strategy, as Rep. Sam Rayburn, the majority leader, was absent. Most of the actual presiding was done by Rep. Frank Hancock, who served as chairman of the committee of the whole during consideration of the bill. Because of the deafness of Rep. Clarence Cannon of Missouri, chairman of the sub-committee handling the bill, the defense of the bill on the floor fell in large part to Rep. W. B. Umstead, another member of the sub-committee.

The huge $927,000,000 bill, containing funds for roads and other non-agricultural matters, was passed unscratched except for one minor amendment, which was offered by Rep. South, Texas Democrat, and which increased the fund for wool marketing studies from $26,000 to $50,000.

The Republican attack was divided into three main assaults, two sponsored by Rep. Taber, of New York and one by Rep. Dirksen of Illinois.

Mr. Dirksen sought to pare the fund for soil conservation from $22,000,000 to $15,000,000 and Mr. Taber wanted to reduce the figure for the domestic allotment act from $500,000,000 to $440,000,000. Both of these assaults were repelled by Rep. Umstead.

When Mr. Hancock, who was accredited by Lewis Deschler, house parliamentarian, with a "swell job," relinquished the chair and Mr. Warren assumed it, both North Carolinians were given a round of applause.

Reginald Turner Gets Tip Award

The winner of the news tip for the period ending today was Reginald Turner. Mr. Turner will receive two tickets to "Personal Property," starring Robert Taylor and Jean Harlow, at the Sunset Theatre, Monday or Tuesday. The winner of the contest for Tuesday's paper will be awarded two tickets to the Carolina theatre to see Jack Holt in "North of Nome" either Wednesday or Thursday.

MILLARD ALLRED REMAINS VERY ILL IN RICHMOND

Millard Allred, who has been ill for several months and who was recently taken to Richmond for a brain operation by Dr. Colman, remains critically ill. Mr. Allred has not regained consciousness since the operation and little hope is held for a permanent recovery. Mrs. Allred is at his bedside and her sister, Mrs. L. M. Cranford of Asheboro has been with her for a few days.

Who's Who With Asheboro Shoppers

With the advent of the warm, summer weather which has prevailed in this section during the past week, shoppers have thronged the streets and stores of Asheboro. The Courier's rambling photographer had little trouble in snapping the picture for this week's "Who's Who With Asheboro Shoppers" without the person knowing he was being photographed.

All that is necessary for him to receive two tickets to see his choice of any program at the Carolina theatre is to come to this office and identify himself. Another of these photographs of busy Asheboro shoppers will be presented next Sunday—watch for it. Your photograph may appear next.

GAS BOMBS ROUT MAINE STRIKERS

Sixteen hundred militiamen were called out by Governor Barrows to police Auburn, Me., following disorders in which tear gas barrages routed strikers who came into conflict with regular police officers. A group of strikers and sympathizers are seen above in flight from exploding tear gas bombs. The rioting climaxed the 28-day strike of shoe workers and brought about the arrest of six C. I. O. leaders.

Gain Fresh Inspiration At The Courier Cooking School

Name Members To Textbook Board

R. Gregg Cherry of Gastonia, speaker of 1937 house of representatives, and Reginald L. Harris of Roxboro, speaker of the house in 1933, have been appointed by Governor Hoey to the state textbook commission, which will handle free and rental school textbooks. Both served on the purchase and rental textbook commission, which the new body succeeds under a 1937 law providing free texts for elementary pupils and rentals for high school children.

Inspect Street Cleaning Machines

The city authorities are making a thorough survey of various types of street sweeping machines, following up the suggestion of the clean-up committee that such a machine would facilitate the cleaning of the streets of Asheboro and thus improve their appearance. On Wednesday Mayor Walter A. Bunch and C. C. Cranford inspected the street sweeper belonging to the city of Danville, Virginia, and the street cleaning machinery in Charlotte will be inspected soon.

The state highway commission has notified city officials that within the next few days it will establish a detour on E. Salisbury street. This detour will commence at the Carolina Power & Light sub-station and run around by the colored school, coming back to E. Salisbury street at N. Main street.

Commencement At Cedar Falls May 9

On Saturday evening, May 1st, at 8 o'clock there will be a full evening's entertainment by the children of the Cedar Falls school, in the school auditorium. This program consists of plays, drills, songs, dances and recitations. There will be no admission fee. Everyone is invited to come and enjoy the evening.

On Saturday evening, May 8th, in the school auditorium a play, "The Little Clodhopper," will be given by teachers and some adults of Cedar Falls. This play is directed by Mrs. Myrtle Cockman, one of the teachers, and there will be a small admission fee for the benefit of the school.

Shrubbery Placed At Two Buildings

One of the first evidences of the beautification program now being carried out in Asheboro is the placing of shrubbery at the Fayetteville street school and the new agricultural building, which was done Friday under the direction of members of the Homes and Gardens committee. The plants were donated by Rev. N. M. Harrison. At the school arbor vitae was set in front of each of the posts and spreading juniper placed at each entrance and at the corners of the building, the result improving the appearance greatly. Similar shrubs were put out in front of the agricultural building, removing the look of barrenness that always clings to a new brick building.

Practical Cooking Hints Shown On Screen At Carolina Theatre May 4-6

Stream lines are a familiar sight this season. But the latest news in Cooking School conventions, as discovered by The Courier has screen lines. All of which means that long lines of eager pupils will be going to school again May 4, 5 and 6, when this newspaper presents the much-discussed motion picture course in home economics in the Carolina Theatre.

Going to school in a theatre! It's a grand way to combine fun, inspiration, a neighborly reunion and valuable instruction, all in one free package. It's a grand way to get out of the rut that often threatens the best and most conscientious of home managers.

Just as fresh inspiration for the old job is one of the by-products of the familiar cooking school, which presents a lecturer in a model kitchen, so are new ideas and keen incentive born in the film class for homemakers, with its novel approach and modern setting.

The kitchens that passed the screen test for this picture had to meet the exacting requirements of nationally-known home economists, as well as Hollywood standards of charm, good taste and proportion. No "false front" camera beautiful kitchens satisfied these modern kitchens which actually reflect more scientific ingenuity and careful planning than any living room.

In these practical kitchens, stream lines is no idle phrase, for this simplified, sanitary, labor-saving equipment is keyed in style and purpose to a busy age.

Recognizing the demands of home experts, Hollywood signed all-star kitchens, with the all-star cast, adding a continual procession of close-ups, so that every seat in the Carolina Theatre is a good seat for this amazingly pictured household course.

The class isn't all work, for there is the constant play of sparkling humor, the appeal of tender romance, and the suspense of a coherent, intelligently-directed story, which dramatizes every-day happenings—the human sort of things that really do happen.

Binding the attractive story together is the romance of homemaking, a subject that holds the interest of every woman young and old. Even The Courier knows that all women—brides, business types and experienced housekeepers, respond to the fascination of looking in on another woman, when she is at work in the kitchen.

Particularly do they like it when they are allowed to sit quietly and watch her prepare some dish in which she specializes. They know that if they watch closely, while she measures and mixes and completes the entire cooking operation, this close-up personal study will be more helpful than hours of reading recipes and blind experimenting.

No only does every person in the audience share this close-up of each stage of the actual preparation, but the kitchen expert clearly explains her methods, so that the measurements on the free daily recipe sheets will make it possible to duplicate the featherly cake and flaky pastry.

Chatting in true neighborly style with her listeners in the Carolina Theatre, the presiding home manager will pass on her own discoveries in labor-saving short cuts. There will be dozens of helpful hints and suggestions. (Please turn to Page 4)

Ramseur Masons Attend Meeting

Many At Grand Lodge Session In Raleigh; Fellowcraft Degrees Conferred

Ramseur, April 24.—Several of the officers and members of Marietta lodge No. 444 attended a Grand Lodge session at Raleigh Tuesday night. On the preceding Saturday and Monday nights this lodge conferred the fellowcraft degree upon Brothers H. F. Brady and R. M. Hauss.

W. B. Dowell of Raleigh spent the week-end with E. B. Leonard and family. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Curtis spent Sunday with friends in High Point.

Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Highfill have built an addition to their home on Raleigh street, and made extensive improvements recently. Guy F. Lane has purchased and is now operating the business of the Rightsell Motor Company, near the school. Bill Burgess is operating the garage and repair shop in the rear of the building.

Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Webb and children spent the week-end with friends at High Point. Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Marley and sons visited Rev. J. M. Barber and family at Cooleemee last Sunday.

Wiley Brady of St. Louis, Mo., spent some time this week with his brothers, J. A. Brady and J. E. Brady of Ramseur.

Interest increases in the singing feature of the prayer service at the Methodist church each Wednesday night. Everybody is cordially invited to these services regardless of church affiliations. Come and sing with us songs, old and new.

Mr. and Mrs. Biggs of Wendell were visitors at the home of Dr. L. J. Bradwell Sunday.

Pat Brady of Reidsville was a visitor here last week.

Hold Funeral For Mrs. Sarah Hanner

Mrs. Sarah Catherine Hanner, 74, died Friday morning at her home near Liberty of a heart ailment after a week's illness. Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. C. P. Coble, Graham; four sons, Ernest Hanner of Greensboro, and C. E. Hanner, Arthur M. Hanner, and W. C. Hanner, all of Greensboro route four; two brothers, a sister, and 16 grandchildren.

Check County For Trace Of Malaria

C. H. Adkins, district supervisor of malaria control for the state board of health, was in the county Friday making a survey of various possible sources of malaria. He and J. A. Ferree, county sanitary officer, inspected 28 lakes and ponds, which were found to range from very good to very bad in sanitary condition. Mr. Ferree said that traces of malaria were already beginning to show up in Randolph county. One case has been reported to the county health department, but this is a carry-over from last year, the sanitary officer declared, as the malaria mosquitoes are not out yet.

R. G. Troser Of Greensboro Association Warns Members About Rackets

The merchants association of Asheboro held their first meeting since organization two months ago. This meeting, in the form of a dinner meet, was held for several—chiefly to receive the charter which was presented by state secretary, Willard L. Dowell. F. O. Strickland, a member of the board of directors, acted as toastmaster and presented the president, Roy Reeves who extended the welcome. Tagg Cox, secretary of the local group, introduced the several out-of-town members including, Mr. Dowell, of Raleigh; R. G. Troser and Mr. DeBose of Greensboro; Secretary Mitchell of the Burlington organization and several others. F. M. Strickland then introduced the members who, in turn, introduced their guests of the evening.

Secretary Dowell, in a rather spicy, but entirely informative speech as to the workings and benefits of the organization, captivated his audience, members and visitors. A brief glimpse of the activities of the organization, especially their work in the past legislature, was given with suggestions for practical benefits that may be derived from such an organization locally and in the state. Mr. Dowell closed his speech with the presentation of the charter to the local organization. The names of the following directors were on the charter: L. E. Reeves, W. P. Amos, Jr., F. M. Strickland, F. O. Yates, H. C. Jones, M. Leon Cranford, Bob Wilson and Lindsay Hobbs.

Mr. Troser was the only other after dinner speaker and his topic was "Rackets." Beginning his talk, he addressed the members as "Suckers"—proving his salutation with some very practical experiences worked by outside solicitors. His talk, as was that of Mr. Dowell, was well received by the members and guests who derived pleasure as well as profit therefrom.

Mrs. Miriam Burns varied the program with several piano selections which added to the evening's entertainment.

Husband Of Local Teacher Is Dead

Glynn H. Bishop, husband of the former Miss Juanita Taylor who recently resigned her position as commercial teacher in the Asheboro high school, died suddenly of a heart attack Friday in Bowling Green, Kentucky.

Mr. Bishop and his wife's parents, Rev. and Mrs. Ben F. Taylor, had come to Asheboro Thursday to take Mrs. Bishop, who was ill, to her home in Bowling Green, and at that time he appeared to be in good health. His death occurred only a short time after his return to Bowling Green, according to press reports. He was 23 and a student at Bowling Green Business University.

Mr. Bishop was a roommate of J. B. Pugh of Asheboro at the business college.

Miss Taylor had been married for more than a year and though no formal announcement had been made she had recently informed Reginald Turner, city school superintendent, of the marriage. Mr. Turner stated that she was a very efficient and capable teacher and had done splendid work here, having resigned only after her health had become such that she could no longer continue with her classes. She was very well liked in Asheboro, and both her pupils and fellow teachers regretted her departure.

Mr. Turner is now attempting to secure a regular commercial teacher to finish out the year. Mrs. Harris Coffin is serving as a temporary substitute.

Lifelong County Resident Passes

William Leonard Staley, 79, of Sophia route one, died Thursday at the state hospital, following a long illness. He was the son of the late Martin and Mary Breedlove Staley, having been born and reared in Randolph county. He is survived by one son, Henry Staley, and one daughter, Miss Mamie Staley, both of the home. Funeral service will be held this morning at eleven o'clock from the Marlboro Friends church by Rev. Sam Nelson of Greensboro, assisted by Rev. B. B. Bulla, Friends minister of Archdale. Interment will follow in the church cemetery.

Governor Hoey Announces Choice For State Highway Head and Board; Other Important Heads Also Named

Cutlar Moore to Head North Carolina Liquor Committee

Saturday morning, Governor Hoey announced his choice for the long-discussed state liquor commission and while the Governor has been outspoken in his dry stand, he has chosen a middle-of-the-road man as chairman, a wet and a dry. In naming Cutlar Moore of Lumberton as chairman of the board, officials in Raleigh say he is as much of a middle man as could have been chosen. Mr. Moore will receive a salary of $6,000 per year for his duties. Moore, a former secretary of the State Democratic executive committee, resigned his party post last year to work in the Hoey campaign headquarters in Raleigh. In the recent session of the General Assembly, he was active as a lobbyist, receiving $2,000 in fees. Representative Frank Webb Williams of Elizabeth City, who in 1935 sponsored the wet Pasquotank act, and Thomas J. Murphy of Greensboro, a dry, were named associate commissioners, and will receive $25 a day each when engaged in official duties. Murphy, a lawyer, is former mayor of Greensboro and a former city manager of both Greensboro and High Point. Williams is a lumber dealer and farmer.

Frank L. Dunlap Is Highway Chief

Choice Comes As Surprise To Many Politicians Throughout North Carolina

Asheboro Man Is On District Board

Offers Waynick Important Position With Salary Equal To His Present Hire

The long-expected and much-discussed appointments that have been worrying Governor Clyde Hoey for the past several weeks and the people of North Carolina for an equal length of time, were announced late Saturday night by the Governor in a lengthy press release. Governor Hoey impressed upon the public in the dispatch the difficulty of his task in selecting important men over the state for important positions, such as the highway department, purchase and contract, etc. Governor Hoey mentioned the fact that the task was made more difficult by the circumstance of several good men who were on the eligible list and in receptive moods, especially for the highway head, has not resigned, present head, Capus Waynick, his friends were staunch supporters for his reappointment. Meanwhile, friends of George Coan, state WPA director, Frank L. Dunlap and H. B. Baity and others, were pressed upon the governor for his consideration.

The appointments of the new highway and public works commission are of more than ordinary interest to Randolph citizens this year in that D. B. McCrary, prominent citizen of the county, is named a board member from the sixth district of which Randolph is a part. Mr. McCrary, who has had the whole-hearted support of his many friends in this and other counties in the sixth district, was named as board member by the Governor in his Saturday night announcement.

In appointing Frank L. Dunlap, head of the commission to succeed Capus Waynick, present head, the governor made a clean sweep, and named an entirely new commission from head through the ten highway districts of North Carolina. Mr. Dunlap has been for some time assistant director of the budget. He has served two terms in the state senate, representing his home county of Anson, and was, during the Ehringhaus regime, director of personnel. Mr. Dunlap's appointment will probably be received with more cordiality by all camps than would any other man the governor could have named. So bitter has been the fight that the Waynick supporters would hardly have seen a good move made by George Coan, had he been named, and the other way around, Raleigh people, who know Mr. Dunlap best during his political activities of recent years, say that he is an excellent choice, as far as ability is concerned and the governor made it understood that he was considering ability, rather than political affiliation or pull. The salary for the next four years will be $7,500 per year.

Going down the line of board members, naming a new one for each of the ten districts, the governor's choice was: 1st district, Collin Barnes, Hertford, 6 year term; 2nd, Ernest V. Webb, Lenoir county, 4 year term; 3rd, Robert Grady Johnson, Pender county, 2 year term; 4th, T. Broddie Ward, Wilson county, 2 year term; 5th, Samuel M. Bason, Caswell county, 4 year term; 6th, D. B. McCrary, Randolph county, 6 year term; 7th, Thomas R. Wolfe, Stanly county, 2 year term; 8th, J. Gordon Hackett, Wilkes county, 4 year term; 9th, T. Max Watson, Rutherford county, 6 year term; 10th, E. L. McKee, Jackson county, 2 year term.

In appointing Mr. Dunlap, Governor Hoey paid a compliment to his ability, at the same time complimenting Mr. Waynick whom he said, had served faithfully and ably. He then, announced that he had offered the position as director of purchase and contract for the state of North Carolina to Mr. Waynick. This position carries a similar salary as the present highway position before the salary boost—that of $6,000. It was not known, however, whether Mr. Waynick would accept this position, as he has gone to the coast for the week-end. There is a rumor afloat that he will return to his old job, that of newspapering. He has made no statement at this time.

Other appointments made by the Governor were: 1st district, J. C. Edwards; conference; obituary; report of young people's work, Miss Nettie Moon; talk, "Our Youth for Christ," Miss Mary L. R. O'Brian; welcome, Mrs. Guy F. Lane; response, Mrs. W. A. Underwood; history of year's committees; benediction, Rev. H. M. Stroup. (Please turn to Page 8)

Place Marker To Union Institute

Erect Marker In Front Of Trinity High School Honoring Old College

Moved In 1892

The original site of Duke University was marked Thursday by the placing of a highway marker by the state historical commission in front of Trinity high school, which is located on the grounds where the old college stood. The marker commemorates the founding of old Union Institute, the first school established there, and honors Trinity college, as it was called for many years.

According to the marker Union Institute was established in 1839, but Burgess and other Randolph historians place the date a year or even two earlier. The first teacher was Dr. Brantley York, and the men most interested in the school at the time of its founding seem to have been Quakers.

In 1842 Braxton Craven, who had come as assistant the year before, was elevated to be head of the school upon the retirement of Dr. York. In 1851 it was chartered by the state legislature and the name changed to Normal college.

Upon the recommendation of Dr. Craven and largely through his personal efforts, the property of the Normal college was transferred to the Methodist Episcopal conference in 1858, and in 1859 it was re-chartered under the name of Trinity college. The college had struck its most prosperous period and was making strides until the war broke out, after which lean days descended upon the institution.

After the death of President Craven in 1882 Trinity was headed successfully by Rev. Marquis I. Wood, John Heitman, and John F. Crowell. It was while the latter was president, in 1892, that the college was moved to Durham. The final step came in 1924, when it became a part of Duke University, founded by James B. Duke, since which time its growth is known to all in the state.

Hold Third Annual Meeting Of Randolph Baptist W.M.U.

The third annual associational meeting of the Randolph Baptist W. M. U. will be held Wednesday, April 28, at the Ramseur Baptist church. The theme of the meeting is "Christ for the World."

This is the largest yearly meeting of the W. M. U., and a large attendance is expected. Opening at 10 o'clock, there will be sessions both morning and afternoon, with lunch served at 12:30. An especially fine program has been prepared, including reports from officers and committees; music, and addresses. Mrs. Charles Brown of Ramseur will have charge of the music. Following is the complete program: Morning Session Hymn; devotional (Asheboro church); scripture, Mrs. J. R. Hill; duet, Mrs. Dempsey Barnes and Mrs. Arthur Presnell; prayer, Rev. L. R. O'Brian; welcome, Mrs. Guy F. Lane; response, Mrs. W. A. Underwood; history of year's hymn, Mrs. George Wallace; Mar-
