

President Places Steel Situation In Perkins' Lap

Secretary of Labor Receives Petitions of Strikers; Showdown Halted.

73,000 Affected

"Labor Holiday" at Lansing As Motor Car Plants Cease Operations.

The proposed Federal intervention in the deadlocked steel strike was placed in the lap of Miss Perkins, Secretary of Labor last night. President Roosevelt, who received the plea for intervention from the steel strikers, immediately turned the matter over to the National Labor Relations Board and to Miss Perkins.

A showdown in the western area of the controversy involving three big independent steel producers and affecting 73,000 men was averted temporarily.

Governor Frank Murphy, Michigan, stepped into the "labor holiday" at Lansing. The United Automobile Workers of America called the demonstration. All motor car plants there suspended operations. Virtually all downtown stores were closed. Several thousand unionists and sympathizers joined in a protest against the arrest of pickets.

Including in the papers sent to Secretary Perkins by the President were appeals from steel strikers in two agencies in a day marked with new disputes and demonstrations and an endorsement of wage and hour legislation by John L. Lewis, chairman of the Committee for Industrial Organization.

As steel operations declined 15 points under average of a month ago, Senator Reid (R-N.H.) demanded a Senate investigation of reports that the Post Office had declined to deliver food to workmen in picketed mills in Ohio.

Judge Hayes Firm On Liquor Stand

Addresses Grand Jury To Serve Federal Court In Greensboro During Week.

Judge Johnson J. Hayes, well known jurist of this district who has lived for many years in Greensboro, made a ringing charge to the federal grand jury as that body prepared to serve the week in court there.

Addressing the grand jurors particularly and a well filled courtroom generally, Judge Hayes devoted a considerable portion of his message to the evils of liquor, to the effect of alcohol on the human system and the fallacy that legalized control will eliminate the boot-legal. The propaganda being spread, coupled with the increasing use of liquor and the new victims engulfed almost daily, combine to require that serious thought be given the subject. The court declared that the only way to be sure of avoiding becoming a victim of drink is to refrain from its use entirely.

The more the matter is considered in a sane manner, the more apt the people are to advocate and support full law enforcement. The tragedy of the evil should hold the attention of every serious-minded person, declared Judge Hayes.

Urging the fallacy of the argument for revenue from liquor, Judge Hayes pointed to the strides made by North Carolina in the past 30 years in public school and college education, in manufacturing in agriculture and in municipal and good roads development, the period following the enactment of legislation in education, in manufacturing, in agriculture and in all brought about without liquor revenue.

"It is time for the average citizen to think about these things, and become aroused to the true facts," Judge Hayes declared. The jurist felt that when men and women calmly weighed all the facts but one conclusion could be reached and that was to make the invidious drink as scarce as possible.

Hill, under the care of Dr. Dempsey Barnes, is not in a critical condition. The bullet, fired from a revolver, entered the fleshy part of his arm, about four inches below the shoulder.

The shooting, according to what meager details the Sheriff's department was able to obtain from Hill followed a wordy altercation at the home of Elwood Hinshaw who resides near Worthville. Giant Plane Has Been Found, Utah Bodies Buried Six Months Found; Five Men and Two Women Were Passengers.

After having been lost six months, a once-mighty air liner lost nearly six months, was found on June 6th near Alpine, Utah. The bodies of the occupants of the plane were buried in drifts 25 to 50 feet deep. The liner itself was so badly battered and torn that the "largest piece above the snow where it crashed was no bigger than a wash tub."

The discovery was made on Lake Hardy ridge, five miles up a tortuous mountain trail from this village in the Wasatch mountains 25 miles southeast of Salt Lake City. The ridge is 35 miles east of the regular airline course. The craft was lost in rain and fog.

Four men, natives of this region, walked upon signs of the tragedy almost simultaneously at 8 a.m. today. They announced they would seek to share the $1,000 reward offered by Western Air Express for the craft which vanished last December 15.

One report denied flatly by those who found the ship and also by airplane officials, was that the bodies had been found. Officials said it might be days before they could be uncovered.

A report the plane "exploded" before it crashed into the mountain peak—only about 20 feet from the highest pinnacle—was promptly discounted.

Congress Facing Summer Session; May Not Adjourn

President's Program Causes Discussion On Hill; Filibuster Hints.

Court Bill On Top

Other Proposals May Be Postponed; Income Tax Bill Up Tuesday.

President Roosevelt's enumeration of bills he would prefer enacted at this session of Congress only served to add to the already distant date for adjournment of this session. Members of the house and senate faced a full week of work as they swung into harness on Monday noon, determined to dispose of affairs of state as speedily as possible.

Several legislators, speaking privately, said some portion of the program would have to be postponed if this session is not to run continuously into the next, beginning in January.

Of first importance, as an adjournment obstacle at least, was the president's bill for the reorganization of the supreme court.

Bitter-end oppositions have threatened to filibuster any compromise proposal to the point of physical exhaustion.

Other items of the list were the establishment of wage and hour standards for interstate industries, anti-tax dodging measures, reorganization of the executive branch of the government, helping farm owners, conservation of soil, water and power resources and the razing of slums and building of modern low-cost housing.

This list furnished the subject matter for essential portions of the week's program.

The senate and house labor committees, in joint session, will continue their hearings on the wage-hour bill, with John L. Lewis, leader of the Committee for Industrial Organization, as their principal witness.

A majority of the Senate judiciary committee, opposed to the reorganization bill, was at work on a report recommending that the Senate reject the measure.

A sub-committee of the Senate committee on agriculture contemplated a modified farm tenancy bill. Members said it would be completed in a few days.

Senator Robinson (D-Ark.) the majority leader was personally over-seeing the preparation of a revised government reorganization bill, intended to compose some of the disputes that problem has aroused.

On Tuesday, the House will consider the Senate-approved resolution to create a joint Congressional committee to investigate the stragglers by which citizens and corporations escape the payment of income taxes.

The Senate Interstate Commerce committee will resume its investigation of railroad financing on Tuesday. The treaties which resulted from the last winter's Pan-American conference were down on the Wednesday calendar of the foreign relations committee.

Commerce Bureau Awaits Approval

Will Seek Endorsement Of All Merchants; Points To Municipal Aid.

To Revise By-Laws

Road Surfacing Committee Reports; Will Meet City Council.

The Asheboro Chamber of Commerce at its regular monthly meeting yesterday voted to approve a plan for a new city directory.

The approval of the Chamber, however, is dependent upon the prior approval of the merchants in general. Members of the Chamber indicated an up-to-date city directory would be of great value to the city not only to merchants but to residents generally. It also, they said, would be of great value in determining the population of the city.

The Chamber appointed a special committee including C. C. Cranford, C. W. McCrary, and S. B. Steadman to revise the by-laws of the organization.

Examination Of State Domestic

Dr. Carl V. Reynolds Says Local Officers Will Not Be Compelled To Perform.

Raleigh, June 7.—The examination of domestic servants will not be generally thrust upon local health officers, Dr. Carl V. Reynolds, State Health Officer, made clear Tuesday night, when he released for publication extracts from a letter he had mailed these local officials, in connection with an act ratified March 22, 1937.

"At a recent meeting of the Executive Committee of the North Carolina State Board of Health," Dr. Reynolds wrote, "it was decided that the public health officer should examine, under this act, only such servants as are referred to the health department by private physicians, or certified to the health department by the welfare department, as indigent. All those cases who are able to pay private physicians for this service are to go to private physicians. However, the public health officers should cooperate with the private physician in following up work of contacts and in making Wasserman tests on all referred to them. This was the recommendation of the executive committee of your Board of Health."

"We realize," Dr. Reynolds continued, "that the examination of all domestic servants, if done by health department, would be a rather large order for any health department, and all of those patients who can afford to pay a private physician should go to his or her physician."

"A number of the health officers have made inquiry as to how much of this work they should do, and we trust the above action taken by the Executive Committee of the State Board of Health will serve to clarify your position as health officer," Dr. Reynolds concluded.

He was the son of H. L. Miller and the late Mrs. Julia Hill Miller. Surviving are his wife, the former Miss Viola Williams; two sons, William and Frank of Asheboro; three brothers, Lee, Lester and Gilbert Miller and seven sisters, Misses Frances, Wilma, Mildred, Juanita, Helen and Iris Miller and Mrs. T. J. Foster of Asheboro.

The funeral took place this afternoon at Tom's Creek Primitive Baptist church with Elders H. S. Williams, J. A. Eady and A. F. Nance officiating. Burial was in the church cemetery.

According to the report of the men with Miller when he was admitted to the local hospital, he had left the automobile in which the group were riding and, later, upon their return towards Cedar Falls, for him, they found him unconscious on the highway. They hastened him to the hospital where after a week's treatment it was decided to take him to Duke. Dr. Barnes, the attending physician, said it was apparent at the time that he had sustained a very severe spinal injury. He was paralyzed from the time of the accident until his death.

Miller was taken to the Randolph hospital by his brother, two cousins, and another man, suffering from injuries to his back, head and other parts of his body.

Dr. Tiffney Barnes, of this city, who handled the case at that time said it has never, officially, been ascertained the manner in which the man was hurt.
