E. D. Frazier Will Contested; $25,000 Estate Involved

Providence Township Man's Relative Seek to Prove Signature.

Dead Three Years Sixty-three Cases Cited For July Term of Superior Court.

The authenticity of a signature, purporting to be that of E. D. Frazier, deceased, will be the main question in dispute during the hearing before Justice J. A. Rousseau...

According to the moving papers, and to evidence submitted at a previous trial, which ending in a disagreement by the jury, the signature, said to be Mr. Frazier's is the question in dispute.

Several relatives have joined hands in an attempt to prove the will, or rather the signature, a forgery.

Retrial of another case is also scheduled for the July term of court. It involves the action of J. C. Payne against Dr. O. A. Stanton.

Fifteen divorce cases are scheduled for the opening day's session along with the Payne action; another brought by Hardy H. Harris against N. C. English for damages caused in an automobile wreck...

Dates Are Set For World Conference

Second World Conference Of Friends Planned For First Week in September.

At least forty members of the Friends church in North Carolina are planning to attend the World Conference of Friends to be held in Philadelphia the first week in September.

The celebration is to be held at Indian camp park, a new park on the Sandhills project where a new lake, a large pavilion, 10 vacation cabins, and other recreational facilities have just been completed.

Columbia Mill at Ramseur Pays Bonus to all Employees

Ramseur, July 12.—The Columbia Mills here last week distributed a cash bonus among its two hundred and fifty employees.

While the management of the mills indicated they cared for little publicity merchants and residents generally here hailed the bonus with great fervor.

The management of the company would give no details relative to the amount of the bonus but it is understood it involves a substantial amount.

Arthur Cox who has been with the finishing department of the furniture plant here for a number of years has resigned to spend full time in the barber shop in which he has an interest.

Charlie Cox and family of Lexington spent the past week-end here with his brother Fletcher Cox and attended church at his old home church (M. E.) at which service his little girls sang.

Miss Edna Highfill left this week for a tour by bus and boat to Norfolk and New York city.

Sweltering Congressman Yearns for Shady Nooks

When the summer's heat boils down on Washington, the nation's lawmakers grow impatient for cooler climates and shady nooks, and Representative John J. O'Connor of New York, pictured sweltering in humid discomfort despite the fan and open collar, was among the first to rebel.

He proposed that under the "present intolerable weather conditions" the House adjourn quickly, regardless of the Senate tangle over the Supreme Court reorganization plan.

Wallace To Open Sandhill Project

Date Changed to July 30; Gov. Hoey and Other Notables to Attend.

The date for the public celebration and formal opening of the Sandhills land use project has been changed from the 16th of July to the 30th, Frank Eatman, the project manager and a member of the citizens' committee on arrangements has announced from the project headquarters at Hoffman.

The new date was set because it was found incongruous for Governor Clyde R. Hoey and other notables to attend on the previous date which had been only tentatively set.

The celebration will last all day, the committee announced. Inspection tours will start at 9 a. m. the public addresses at 11, barbecue dinner at 1, followed by further inspection of the project in the afternoon and a dance that night.

Group Of Local Bankers At Meet

Asheboro Men Attend Monday Evening Session at Chapel Hill.

Among the bankers of Asheboro who attended the state bankers conference in session for five days at Chapel Hill this week were: W. J. Armfield, Jr., J. D. Ross, E. N. Morgan and Sam Burrow from the Bank of Randolph; James Neely and Eldon Garner from the First National bank.

The five-day conference will be composed of discussions of various topics of importance to every-day banking. Addresses from outstanding men in the nation's banking circles will be a part of the program which will be chiefly business with social affairs entirely in the background.

Mrs. L. C. Phillips Praised In War Mothers News - Edition

Mrs. L. C. Phillips, Asheboro, who was the organizing president of the Randolph county chapter of the American War Mothers has received considerable commendation in a recent issue of the Concord Daily Tribune, which in connection with a special edition for the North Carolina organization points to Mrs. Phillips' work in this county.

In discussing the work of Mrs. Phillips and the successful program of the Randolph county organization the article states: "The Randolph chapter of War Mothers was organized February 6, 1922, with eighteen members.

"The first officers installed were: President, Mrs. L. C. Phillips; vice-president, Mrs. J. S. Lewis; secretary, Mrs. Louella Lovett; historian, Mrs. John T. Moffitt; treasurer, Mrs. J. C. Ingold.

"The object of this organization is to keep alive and develop the spirit that prompted world service; to maintain the ties of fellowship and to assist in any patriotic work; to inculcate a sense of individual obligation to community, state and nation; to affiliate the mothers, sons and daughters who served in the World War with Germany; and to keep sacred the tie that binds together the mothers who gave their own blood and energy for their country's honor and for world peace.

"The chapter adopted the Randolph boys in Oteen hospital, and always remember them every holiday with some gift. There are five Randolph boys at Oteen at present. The sad part is that the boys are thinning out every year from disease and death.

"This organization stands ready to help the soldier's families in need.

"Every war mother in Randolph county is eligible to become a member of The Randolph Chapter of War Mothers.

"The chapter served suppers to the Randolph soldier boys on Armistice Day until the American Legion was organized. The last supper served the boys was in the Old Hickory Cafe, presided over by Reid Hannah and the late Eugene Chisholm, at the location of the old Rose's Five and Ten Cent Store. At this supper Dr. I. T. Mann of High Point, organized the American Legion.

Bailey Leads Attack Against Bill to Add New Court Justices

Says "Control" Is President's Wish

Classes "Docket Relief" As Subterfuge to Gain Increased Bench.

Court Is Safeguard

Senator O'Mahoney Joins In Bitter Attack; 44 Senators Oppose.

Washington.—Senator Josiah H. Bailey, senior senator from North Carolina, yesterday unleashed his big guns against the Supreme Court proposals of President Roosevelt.

The North Carolina senator in a two hour speech contended that a reform of the judiciary or relieving congested dockets was not the objective of the President.

Senator O'Mahoney, who signed the adverse report on the original bill, a document that promises to become widely known to fame, contributed to the discomfiture of Senator Key Pittman, president pro tem, and Senator Robinson, majority leader, calling these exalted gentlemen to order as a protest against the "gag" rules which he feels they have invoked, and then submitted the substitute to an analysis which his associate felt must prove very effective.

He taxed even the majority leader with ignorance with respect to the meaning and the implications of the bill, and launched upon a process of enlightenment. He expressed the utmost confidence that with the light turned into the very humorous dark places the bill would be blown out of the water within a couple of weeks, and he declared that the advocates of the measure had made little attempt either to explain or to defend its provisions.

Letters are arriving Opposition members assert with satisfaction that letters and telegrams reaching their offices are as pronounced in their expressions against the substitute, as they were against the original six-judge bill.

Senator Bailey addressed this closely attentive audience for two hours yesterday, and will probably occupy the floor the same length of time today.

Senator Bailey disclaimed, as have other Democratic members, any purpose to assail the President, personally, but like Senator O'Mahoney, who preceded him, and like the judiciary committee report, he subjected the pending proposal, sponsored by the President, to the most searching and caustic analysis, postulating, at the same time its manifest unconstitutionality as well as its essential immorality.

Hope For Earhart At Lowest Stage

Sixty-eight Planes Leave Carrier; Crew Hoping For Rescue.

Honolulu, July 13.—What may prove the last attempt to locate Amelia Earhart and her navigator, Fred J. Noonan, was scheduled to get under way today when a brood of 68 airplanes are unleashed from the aircraft carrier Lexington.

Approaching the northeastern border of the 265,000-mile search area which centers around Howland Island, the big ship turned from stern to stern for the greatest aerial search in history.

Sudden rail squalls last night made visibility so poor the planes were unable to leave the ship last night.

Other destroyers, the Cushing, Lamson and Drayton are refueling from the battleship Colorado, 375 miles east of Howland. They expect to continue their activities this afternoon.

Hope was at its lowest ebb everywhere among the far-flung searching units but the Lexington's crew seemed to feel that the great air armada would do everything possible to find the missing pair.

County Must Bear Welfare Expense

All Administrative Cost Of Department Must Be Raised Here.

Raleigh, July 12.—Nathan H. Yelton, director of the division of public assistance and secretary of the board of allotments and approval of the state board of charities and public welfare, has notified the county boards of welfare that it is mandatory that the budget for administrative expenses of the county welfare departments shall be sufficient to provide a staff that is adequate and qualified to properly administer the public assistance program.

"Each county will appropriate its proportionate part of this expense in addition to the cost of the administration of other regular activities of the department," Yelton said.

"The state board does not tell the county commissioners what salaries they shall pay any member of the welfare department staff," he continued, "except that the salaries of the case work supervisors, case workers and case aides must be within the salary range fixed by the state board of charities and public welfare for those who have the necessary qualifications.

"Salaries, travel and other expenses shown in notices sent to the county commissioners are taken from estimates furnished by the county boards of welfare, according to law, but the state board has found it necessary to increase or decrease the number of workers in a number of instances.

"Letters sent to the county commissioners with the notices stated that the state board had made no changes in the amount of the welfare superintendents' salaries, as submitted by the county boards of welfare, as the law gives the county commissioners full authority in that matter, subject to a minimum of $100 per month.

"The tax rates shown on the notices sent to the boards of commissioners are based on a probable collection of 80 per cent of the levy during the fiscal year, that being the state average."
