2nd Anniversary Of Social Security

1937, the fund accumulated by North Carolina had reached nearly $6,000,000.

"To properly register and keep a wage record of eligible workers under the federal old-age benefits provision of the act, nearly 32,000,000 account numbers have been issued. Of these some 633,000 are in the state of North Carolina. By this means a retirement income is assured these workers when they reach 65 after December 31, 1941, or a lump-sum payment in the event of death or the attainment of age 65 prior to that date. Such lump sums are now being paid. To assist in the preparation and filing of claims and to carry on the work of assigning account numbers, there have been established throughout the country over 200 field offices of the social security board of which seven are located in North Carolina, and it is contemplated that others may be required.

"Although from a humanitarian and sociological point of view, interest centers in the relief afforded those in distress, it is probable that indirect benefits will be broadly distributed. Thus it may be reasonable to expect that the burden of supporting the indigent by private or local methods may be decreased, and in the case of industrial communities subject to factory shut-downs, unemployment compensation payments will retain considerable purchasing power in the hands of the unemployed.

"In the short space of 2 years, the entire social security program has gotten well under way. Its benefits have already been brought to hundreds of thousands of homes throughout the country. While imperfection will no doubt be corrected in the light of experience gained, its broad principles have become definitely established and will continue as an integral part of our American system."

Paris Exposition Gives Models Blank Expression

By Alice Maxwell
Paris (AP)—Tomorrow's modernism is on view in the forms and the frocks that fill the Pavillon de L'elegance where top-notch dress-makers of the French capital are staging their own big show, in the midst of the Exposition.

The forms are made of plaster in bisque pink. They are elongated mannequins that strike unusual attitudes, some reclining, others standing with raised arms. They have no features just rough plaster faces. Coiffures, however, are coiled and curled to the last plaster hair.

Nudism Enters
Only two or three mannequins are allotted each exhibitor. All are costumed for evening.

The reclining forms have wide-skirted frocks spread over the floor like Gargantuans fans.

The slim upright figures are wrapped around and around with sculptured draperies that are finished in scarf-like ends that sweep the ground.

Nudish, too, plays its part.

Schiarpelli's plaster model wears a coverlet of flowers—and leaves her pink frock; straw hat and red sandals on a plaster chair nearby.

The bisque-pink limbs of Laurvin's reclining mannequin are plainly visible through a petticoatless skirt of champagne-colored chiffon that is weighted with embroidery of gold and silver nails.

One of Vionnet's mannequins is dusted with gold from top to toe and is robed magnificently in a stiff white gown Queen Elizabeth would have been delighted to wear. The skirt, which stands out in Elizabethan style, is cut into an open pattern like lace. Its bodice is twisted and draped. The entire garment is fashioned of a heavy fabric washed over with thin white plaster flaked with gold.

Three Blue Goddesses
Worth's three goddesses are specialists in blue. One wears a sculptured gown of blue crepe. Another is dressed in a white gown draped with a lovely shawl of blue transparent velvet. The third which holds a mass of blue flowers in her arms reclines in a dress of blue lace over chiffon, the wide skirt spread flat over the ground.

Alix takes the palm for skirt width. Her dress of rainbow-colored chiffon in fifty to sixty yards around them. Its layers and layers of different-colored flounces billow over the Exposition floor.

Big lacquer white plumes are mounted flat and stiff over white mousseline in a glamorous gown designed by Patou.

Glorified Stripes
Maggy Rouff treats her two figures to glorified stripes in three fabrics. Light blue, purple and gold spiral around one plaster mannequin while cerise, light blue and gold panel the other. In each the gold lame girdle extends one end over the head, like an Indian Sari, and drapes from there to the ground.

Molyneux's models are black tulle and silver lame, one full and the other a sheath. The sheath frock has a silver lame cape and a headress of three black parade plumes.

Paradise plumes are also used by Worth who introduces them in a bracelet of blue stones.

Lelong has "twins", both dressed in white organdie. Decollete bodices are wrapped with pink satin ribbon that finishes on two long sash ends.

Chanel's mannequin's are ribbon-minded, too. One is dressed in pink tulle "garnished" with purple moire ribbon. Another wears a black tulle gown ribboned with green and black moire.

Vivid Gaugin pink highlights Lucile Paray's exhibits. One gold net model opens over a pink petticoat. Another gown of flowered chiffon is draped and sashed with pink crepe.

Queer Slants

By The Staff
Now that the Eagles have a three day rest—this column has decided to take advantage of the lull and forget baseball for the time being. Let's talk about something—men and mice and church for instance.

It just seems good to lay-off baseball, we have had our hands and ears full—thanks to linger's broadcast at the gym. press wires and Rupert Trol-

Which reminds us of that double play and the other double plays and McFadden's hurling. When we think of Rupt—we naturally think of the Eagles.

And Mrs. Eagle McFadden—didn't know Bob was pitching until the third inning. Bet relief work slowed up a bit. Everybody then commenced to call her up. Will Bob get a good steak dinner when he returns—or will he get a good steak dinner?

The carnival still goes on—got away from the Eagles for a rest. The little rain last night just cooled things off a bit. Wish Bob Penny would do something for that cold.

Reminds us of Norris' cold arm during that next-to-the last game. Same thing might do both some good. But we can't be hot and cold forever. Not in this world anyway.

oGt a surprise last night. Bought a couple of bottled soft drinks and was soaked five cents, one nickel, and a half a dime deposit on each bottle. No more there say we.

According to Ben Smith the boys have changed from that well known "Coke" of N. C. to buttermilk. Alright for ball players but don't sound so good way-back here.

Bill has gone back to farming. Mrs. Bill told him not to come to lunch unless he decides to do a little gardening. Several men refused Bill's offer to walk into the home first, as invited guests.

Bill has got to finish his farming before we help eat that corn. By the way, the Eagles didn't show signs of corn on their feet in that base running the other day.

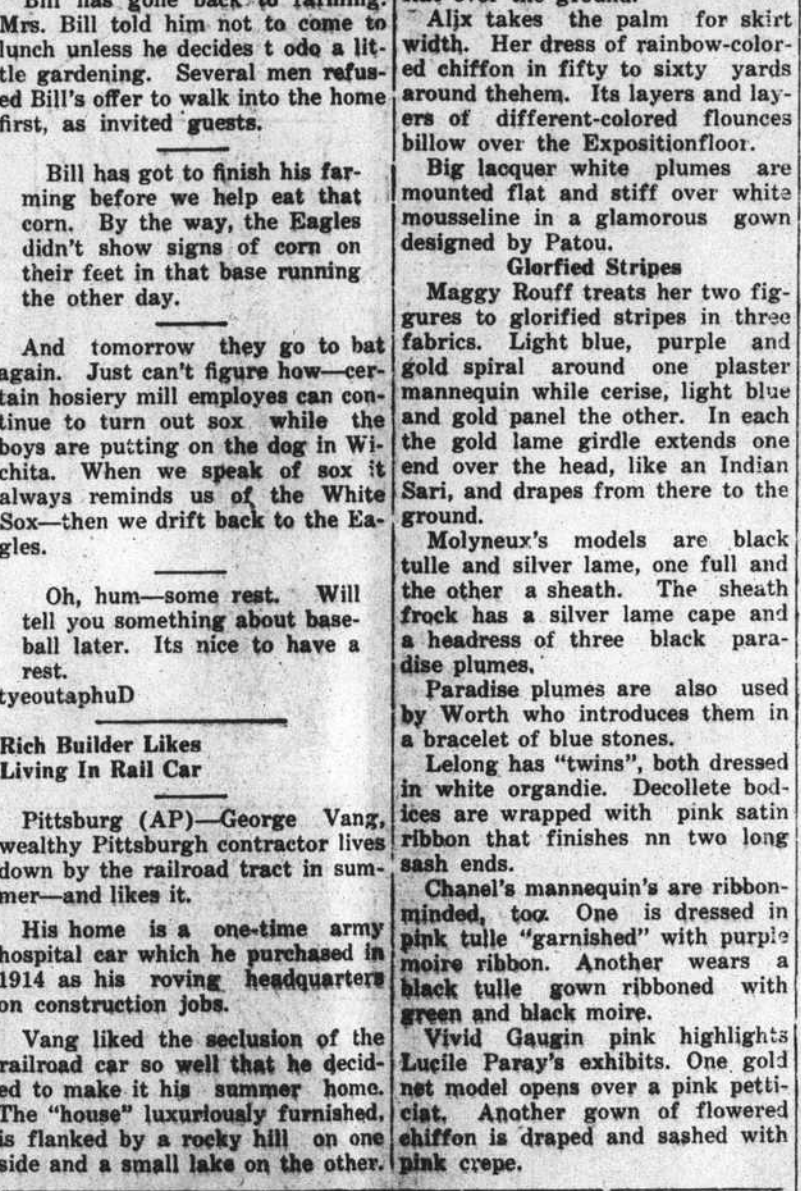

And tomorrow they go to bat again. Just can't figure how—certain hosiery mill employes can continue to turn out sock while the boys are putting on the dog in Wichita. When we speak of sock it always reminds us of the White Sox—then we drift back to the Eagles.

Oh, hum—some rest. Will tell you something about baseball later. Its nice to have a rest.

Ski Champion Wins Air Laurels

Baden, Germany (AP)—Christel Cranz, world ski-champion and German heroine of the last Winter Olympics, has passed her B-test as a glider-flyer. The customary greeting of a great deal of noise produced on a tin canisters, gasoline cans and oil drums, with a liberal addition of lusty voices was accorded to Christel. In addition she had a "victory flag" of gunny sacking, a bunch of raptly picked field flowers and a "B" artistically constructed of evergreen.

Cop Guesses Wrong

Alliance, Neb. (AP)—Patrolman L. E. Pilkington noticed a ladder leaning against a theatre building and scented a robbery. He removed the ladder, waiting patiently in the belief he had trapped burglars on the roof.

Next day, J. E. Hughes, theater manager, reported the theft of a ladder which he said had been leaning against his building more than two years.

Happily Confirmed for High Court

The thrilling secret which the wife of Senator Hugo L. Black shared with him for 12 hours before his nomination to the U. S. Supreme Court was announced was no longer a secret but a cause for unconcealed happiness when this picture was made after Senator Black's nomination was confirmed. The new justice-to-be and Mrs. Black are shown in the capitol as friends offered congratulations.

Portugal's Action Against Czechs, Red Flag to Europe

London, Aug. 20.—(P)—Portugal's one-sided severance of diplomatic relations with Czechoslovakia became a red flag today for the suspicions of all Europe.

Czechs, in Praha, their capital, asked if Germany is working behind the scenes to make their strategic, hemmed-in country a future Rhineland in a coming struggle between the two great political camps, Fascism and Communism.

Authoritarian Portugal blamed a third party—presumably Soviet—to fail to fill an order for machine Russia—for influencing the Czechs gush, official reason for the breach, Nazi Germany and Fascist Italy emphasized.

Within 24 hours, however, other capitals of Europe had supplanted Portugal's expressed motive for deeper causes—militant interest in the Spanish war and the often-expressed theory that Germany is preparing to attack Czechoslovakia.

Swamped With Orders
Czechoslovakia authorities explained their armament industry had been unable to supply Portugal with new Bren machine guns because it had been swamped with Czechoslovakian and other previously-placed orders. Then Praha's suspicions turned to Germany's and Portugal's friendship for insurgent Generalissimo Francisco Franco in Spain.

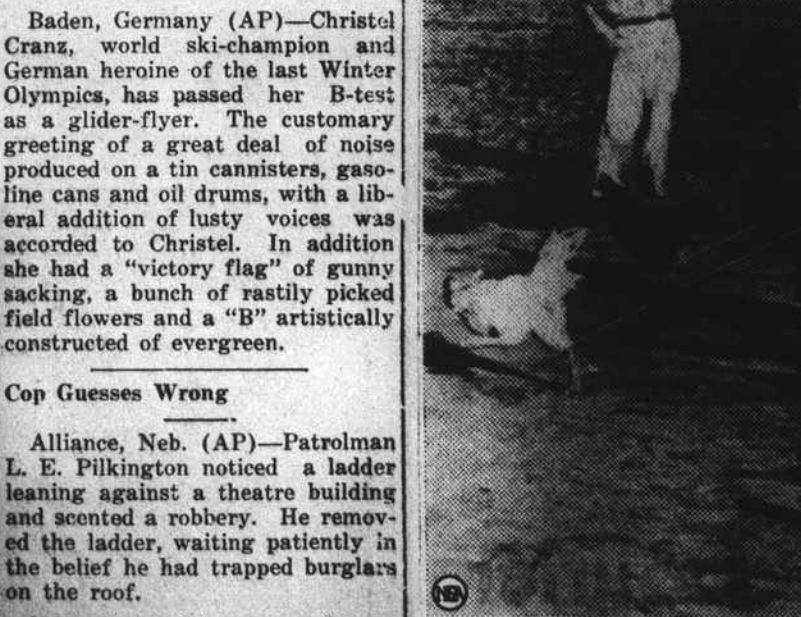

Bluntly, Praha questioned Lisbon motives for this unprecedented action and sought to discover whether Germany inspired the move as a prelude to pouncing on the Czechs.

Toes Tap Gaily in Bombed City

Fear for the safety of Teresa Rudolph, above, Chicago professional dancer, was expressed by her mother following the disastrous air raid upon the international settlement in Shanghai. Miss Rudolph has been appearing in floor shows of several of the large Shanghai hotels which were damaged in the air attack.

ROUSING ROOSTER RACE

There have been horse, dog, turtle, frog, and flea races, but it remained for members of the Johnson county, Ia., Farm Bureau to introduce rooster racing at their Iowa City picnic. The object was to drive the rooster with a string attached to one leg without getting ahead of the bird.

Yank Leads War Planes of China

The bloody battle of Shanghai has developed into a test of the air strength of China and Japan, and an American pilot, Julius Barr, is guiding the fate of the Chinese squadron. Barr, above, former Yankee commercial airman, is Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's chief pilot, and is directing the aerial warfare against the Nipponese planes.

The menace to American lives in the conflict between Chinese and Japanese forces at Shanghai, brought Secretary of State Cordell Hull to the White House for a conference with President Roosevelt and other officials to map out steps to be taken to protect U. S. nationals and property.
