

Allen's New Store Opens Saturday; Near Post Office

Saturday marks the return of the Allen Stores Company to Asheboro. The company, several months ago, was compelled to cease serving its patrons due to the fact that the quarters they occupied had been leased to another firm.

The company's local store is now in the new C. C. Cranford building, located on Church street, just around the corner from the United States post office building. The building is one of the most modern and attractive in Asheboro.

Mr. Cranford, when informed the Allen company was leaving the city due to the lack of store quarters, made a trade with the company one morning and the same evening had laborers on the location turning ground. The building was erected in remarkable time.

The Allen company has gone to great expense to place a modern attractive store in the city. It is equipped with the latest modern shelving, counters and ice units, including a meat counter and display section. A specially constructed sanitary vegetable rack is one of the features of equipment. Vegetables in this rack are constantly moistened with a modern watering unit.

The company has forwarded several carloads of new stock direct from the warehouses for the opening day. Patrons failing to find ample parking space in front of the store may use the specially built parking place in rear of the building. These patrons will be offered curb service. J. T. Lyles, manager of the store prior to its closing, has been returned to Asheboro to conduct the new business.

The upper floor of the building will house the 6th North Carolina highway department. D. B. McCrary, chairman of the district and his staff expect to move into the new building about September 1.

Miss Emogene Cranford has returned home after a two week's visit with her aunt, Mrs. Bom Thornburg of Greensboro.

The Bells of Duke

The record is in receipt of an announcement from Duke university, at Durham, that on next Sunday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock, Anton Breese, world-famous bell master, will give a special carillon recital on the Duke campus in compliment to Governor Hoey and Mrs. Hoey. After the recital there will be an informal gathering for friends of the university attending the recital in the grove adjoining Page auditorium, at which the Governor, Mrs. Hoey and Mr. Breese will be present.

The Durham Herald a few days ago published a timely and fitting editorial expressing appreciation and thanks to Mr. Breese and the university for the splendid carillon concerts being given at the institution—". . . beautifully played music twice each week . . ." offering ". . . an opportunity few communities would shun or treat with indifference."

In further appreciation of hearing genius perform upon a rare and magnificent instrument, the Herald says: "Donations from George G. Allen and Judge W. R. Perkins, of New York, made the carillon possible. The Duke campus would not be half so majestic without it. When the bells ring, they seem to take Duke and the audience away from the world of reality for the moment, and place them in that other world where all music lovers find themselves expressed thought on a beautiful instrument. Truly it is a transformation."

It has been this writer's good Mr. Breese make music with the bells of the Duke carillon. He is an artist of rare and cultivated talent; one who richly reserves rating as a leader amongst musicians, in general, and carilloners, in particular. The concerts he has been giving during the past several months at Duke have contributed materially and greatly to the enjoyment of music-lovers in this part of the country, and to the state's cultural life generally.

Bears Act Like Pigs Gaylord, Mich. (AP)—Officials of the Pigeon river CCC camp report that bears are "muscling in" on the pigs.

Despite popular theories that black bears like fresh pork, the CCC officials report that bears have invaded pig pens in the neighborhood and cuffed the porkers aside to take their places at the trough.

Information On Social Security The Editor and State Office Answers Questions.

As another service to its readers The Daily Courier each week will give authoritative answers to questions on the social security law. By special arrangement with Mr. W. L. O'Brien, Jr., manager of the social security board office at 826 Guilford building in Greensboro, the social security board has consented to pass on the accuracy of answers to questions on social security, which may be asked by employers, employees, and others, through The Daily Courier. Address inquiries to the Editor, The Daily Courier, Asheboro, N. C. Answers will be given here in the order in which questions are received. This is an informational service and is not legal advice or service. In keeping with social security board policy names will not be published.—Editor.

Question: How many forms of taxes are there in the District of Columbia under the social security act?

Answer: There are four separate and distinct taxes; (1) an income tax on employes, which is now one percent on the first $3,000 earned; (2) an excise tax on employers of one or more. This is one percent at the present time on the first $3,000. The federal tax on employes of eight or more, for the year 1937, is two percent of total wages. There is also a tax imposed by the District of Columbia unemployment compensation board of two percent, based on total wages. The federal tax just mentioned allows an employer of eight or more to deduct 90 percent of the amount he has paid to the District of Columbia.

Question: In filling out my application for a social security account number I gave my correct age, with the understanding that this information would be kept secret from my employer. Now I hear that the board will turn over the records to the employers if they request them to do so. Is this true?

Answer: This is not true. The age of any individual who has filed an application SS-5 will not be revealed by the social security board. Question: Will I be able to draw benefits when I become 65 if I continue to work?

Answer: Under the terms of the social security act, you will not be paid benefits as long as you continue working in an employment that is not specifically exempted from the act, but when you retire from active employment you will receive a monthly annuity.

Question: My father is now 67 and out of work. Will he be able to draw old-age benefits from the government?

Answer: No, since he is beyond the age requirement of 65, he cannot qualify.

Italy's Queen Helps Germans

Kassel, Germany (AP)—To the initiative of Queen Elena of Italy, Germany owes its first hospital for special treatment of inflammation of the brain (encephalitis) recently opened here.

Queen Elena had been told her daughter Giovanna, queen of Bulgaria, of a cure discovered by a Bulgarian herbalist. She had clinics opened in Rome, Milan and Turin.

A visit to her elder daughter Mafalda, who lives here as wife of the provincial governor Prince Philip of Hesse, resulted in two German experts being sent to Italy to study the remedy. A new clinic, named for Elena, is getting medical supplies free from Italy until Germany can produce them.
