As Trans-Atlantic Airliner Had First Accident

First mishap to a flying boat in the summer-long series of trans-Atlantic test flights for passenger service this autumn occurred when Imperial Airways' Cambria stove in her port pontoon against a submerged object at her Toronto terminus. The crew perches on the starboard wing to counter-balance the port wing, which is half submerged because of the leak in the pontoon.

Lazzeri Still Dangerous With Runners on Bases

Its risky business—counting out Tony Lazzeri. It has been done before. Tony has always bounced back stronger than ever. But even he cannot go on forever. He's pushing on to 34. He has served a dozen seasons with the New York Yankees.

He has slowed down woefully in the field, but he still is a dangerous man when there are runners on the bags. His thinking mechanism is as efficient as ever.

Lazzeri is rated one of the smartest ball players in the big show. After he decides he has had enough of the daily grind, he is going to make some club a mighty fine manager.

Colonel Jake Ruppert, owner of the Yankees, is a great admirer of the durable Tony. He likes the way Tony conducts himself on and off the field. It is quite likely that the good colonel would be happy to find a place in the Yankee system for Lazzeri, when his playing days are over.

That the colonel wishes Tony well is indicated by his offer to allow the veteran infielder to move to Cleveland if the managerial berth is open to him. The Yankees can use Tony. But the colonel will not let anything stand in Tony's way to future success.

Cleveland was hot after Lazzeri last summer. The Indians figured they would be getting a good second baseman as well as a capable leader. With Tony showing definite signs of slowing up, he may no longer appeal to the Indian chiefs.

At the present Lazzeri is nursing a badly bruised finger. Don Heffner is filling in at second. Heffner isn't likely to be a permanent replacement for Tony. He is too frail for the daily grind. The Yankees have an excellent prospect in Joe (Flash) Gordon of Newburg, but the youngster is not quite ready to step into a big league berth. He will be before long, however.

"Fake" Doctor Is Abroad in State

Raleigh, Sept. 9.—Dr. Carl V. Reynolds, State Health Officer, has been officially advised to ask the people of North Carolina to be on the lookout for one described as "a migratory foreigner of the Slavic type who thinks he possesses some natural intelligence" in the treatment of disease. It was further stated that "he may try to gain an audience for the purpose of discussing his cure for cancer, heart disease, trachoma, etc."

The man's name, according to Dr. Reynolds is John Vlazah. He is "dark, moderately bald, about five feet seven inches in height, right lateral, central incisor missing." He is 49 years old and his address is given as 2004 West Cherry Street, Milwaukee.

Further, Dr. Reynolds is informed, the man speaks broken English, does not enunciate distinctly. He says there are no germs in the human blood, but that there are three products in the blood which cause disease. He names these products as 'Spriderein', 'Gengerein', and 'Smesderien'. He does not develop his subject in sequence but makes many incoherent statements and mumblings.
