

Diphtheria Can Now Be Prevented

Raleigh, Sept. 24.—"I am tired of treating diphtheria, not that I mind the work but because I hate to see little children suffer and die from the effects of a disease that 100 per cent preventable."

Thus, a prominent child specialist living in an eastern North Carolina town wrote Dr. J. C. Knox, Director of the Division of Epidemiology, State Board of Health. This physician, in his private practices, insists upon the immunization of all children under his care.

"I agree with him absolutely", Dr. Knox said "Diphtheria is one of our most serious childhood diseases and as this doctor points out, it is strictly preventable. By immunizing the child we not only insure it against suffering from this disease, but cut down the death rate as well."

In 1936, there were 192 deaths from diphtheria in North Carolina. These could have been prevented. Of those who died, approximately eighty-five per cent were under six years old. In some of our counties immunization against diphtheria is required before a child can enter school. This is a step in the right direction, and the requirement ought to be statewide, that is, every child should be made to present a certificate of immunization before entering school, but the fact still remains that a majority of those who contract the disease and die from it are of pre-school age. The age for immunization, therefore, should not be six years but six months. It is well to bear in mind that the earlier immunization is done the less discomfort is experienced and protection is afforded at the time of the child's greatest susceptibility.

Despite the fact that we have known about immunization since 1914, there were 2300 cases of diphtheria in North Carolina last year. All this suffering could have been prevented if parents had seen to it that these children were immunized. Immunization is attended by no danger and very little pain I heartily agree with the physician from whom I received the letter above referred to that parents should wake up to a full sense of their duty in accepting this 100 per cent guarantee against diphtheria."

Nabbed By Renegades

Bob Allen seems to have tangled with some tough hombies in this scene from his new Columbia Western drama, "Reckless Ranger", showing Saturday at the Carolina theatre. The unseemly fellow standing behind the tree is Bob Kortman, end facing Allen is Walter Miller, leader of a band of renegades. There appears to be a difference of opinion between Allen and the bandits, with the lawless gents winning the argument for the nonce.

Freshman Class of Local Schools Plan Initiation

Members of the freshman class at the local schools are having plenty of fun today. Initiation of this group by upper-classesmen has been the order of the day today, according to youthful reporters of the fun and frolic that has crept into the last day of school for this week.

It is rumored that on Monday morning the young gentlemen of this class will appear in school with trousers on wrong-side-out. It is further rumored that these same gentlemen will don hair-ribbons for their blond and raven tresses.

It is further alleged that the young ladies will be taken down a notch or so when they are forced to appear with their new fall school dresses wrong-side-out. Further details of the dress schedule were not available as part of the fun is the secretive angle of the initiation.

formal—until you find a green-coated monkey playing a fiddle. For a Chippendale room, there is a paper not too respectful of Chinese dignity; it shows a fine lady delighted at a juggler performing Poking gentle fun at the romantic Victorians, several papers display a fair damsel and a swooning poet; another scenic paper shows a pair, in Napoleonic costumes, bewildered by an ascendant balloon. An old huntin scene reveals a gentleman rider on the ground.

Even surrealism has come to wallpaper—very modern is the comedy of a surrealist bouquet composed of a piano keyboard, a clock in a sunflower and a guest towel. As lively, but more naive, in a modern woodland scene with a orange rabbit, two fawns, a squirrel and a fox.

The small repeat design papers which used to be quaint, are now sophisticated.

Papers for nurseries and children's baths are gay without restraint; there are a swashbuckling Puss-in-Boots and a mouse-driven chariot, and a red, green and blue circus. Wooden toy designs include three sailors and a hobby horse with front hooves in a puddle.

Third Term Issue Is Debated In Texas

Austin, Tex. (AP)—Texas, which never has elected anyone to a third-term as governor, may have two third-term candidates in the Democratic primary next summer.

Gov. James V. Allred so far has declined to squelch talk that he perhaps will seek renomination. Former Governor James E. Ferguson says that his wife, Mrs. Miriam A. "Ma" Ferguson, who was chief executive in 1925-26 and again in 1933-34, possibly could be persuaded to run again.

Texas chooses its governors every two years. Elisha M. Pease was in office three terms but received the third through appointment under martial law in Reconstruction days.

Ferguson sought the Democratic nomination in 1918 after being impeached early in his second term but was overwhelmingly defeated.

Magic Tricks For Surprise Guests

By Mrs. Alexander George (AP) Feature Service Writer Quick changes in the weather, the arrival of unexpected guests or squeezing in an extra engagement will give the hostess who has a few quick tricks up her sleeve a chance to shine.

All she has to do is survey the contents of the pantry and refrigerator—and, presto, she'll know exactly what to do!

She can work magic, for instance, with a left-over roast and some odds and ends of cooked vegetables. If the day is warm enough they'll go into a meat and vegetable salad—or a vegetable salad to accompany sliced meat. If it's chilly they're exactly the thing for a hot pie, hash, or creamed mixtures to top steaming home-made biscuits.

Side Dish Bother Gone

Grilled foods are favorites with quick-trick hostesses. They take a little planning, to be sure. But they can be served on short order. What's more, grilled combinations eliminate the bother of side dishes. Here are just a few suggestions: Quick trick No. 1: Tomato halves with crushed pineapple and then sprinkle them with cheese. Arrange them on a shallow pan, place sweet potato halves around them and add a few mounds of buttered green beans. Sprinkle the combination with butter and seasonings and then stick it into the oven to broil for fifteen minutes.

Stuffed Pineapple

Quick trick No. 2: Stuff pineapple slices with fish, prunes, dates, nuts. Place them in a shallow pan and surround them with sliced bananas and peach halves. Brush the tops with a third of a cup of brown sugar mixed with four tablespoons of melted butter and a third of a cup of orange juice. Let that combination broil for ten minutes—and watch the eyes of your family or guests light up when it's served on a hot platter!

Quick trick No. 3: Put six links of sausage in a shallow pan or on a grill. Surround them with half a cup of mushrooms, four slices of tomatoes and one cup of cooked cauliflower. Pour over the combination a seasoning made of chopped ripe olives added to about a fourth of a cup of French dressing. Boiling time: fifteen minutes.

Grilled Ham Slices

Quick trick No. 4: Grill slices of ham or lamb or por chops for ten minutes or so—until they are slightly browned. Top them with halves of cooked prunes and orange slices and surround them with halves of pears. Use a basting made of a third of a cup of orange juice, a fourth of a cup of lemon juice and one teaspoonful of cinnamon about every three minutes. Additional broiling time needed to brown the fruits: about ten minutes.

Kolacky and Lutefisk Honored in Minnesota

Minneapolis — (AP) — The "day" season is on in Minnesota in full blast.

Anything from kolacky, a Bohemian fruit-filled bun, to lutefisk as the piece de resistance is bringing town and country folk together to celebrate the harvest.

Sauerkraut days are feted at Springfield and Henderson, lutefisk at St. James. Askov has a celebration honoring the rutabagas, Tracy's box car day, Hopkins a raspberry day, Excelsior an apple day, Ortonville a sweet corn day and Montgomery a kolacky day.

Free feeds to the public are the main attractions in all instances. Marsala wine may be used in cooking light meats such as chicken and veal. It does not blend as well, however, with beef.

Million Dollar Bail Offered Avenging Garr Brothers

Mrs. Verna Garr Taylor

The aristocracy of Kentucky's beautiful Blue Grass country rallied to the aid of the three Garr brothers, shown above at left in jail, charged with assassinating on a Shelbyville, Ky., street Brig.-Gen. Henry H. Denhardt, the "iron man of Kentucky," a day before he was to have gone on trial a second time—charged with the murder of their sister, Mrs. Verna Garr Taylor, at right, pretty young widow and Denhardt's fiancée. The intense feeling which developed during and after Denhardt's mistrial, was believed to have led to the shooting. Shown above just after they surrendered peacefully the Garr brothers, left to right, are Jack, Dr. E. S. and Roy Garr. Wealthy friends offered to post bail as high as $1,000,000 for them.

Chicken Stews In Vogue, Deep River

Many People in Northern Section of County Enjoy This Type Gathering

High Point route 1, Sept. 24.—Chicken stews are very much in vogue in the Deep River section.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Campbell had a chicken stew at their tobacco barn Tuesday night. A large crowd was present coming from Greensboro, High Point and the surrounding community. All reported a delightful time. It was a kind of "get-together" while Mr. Campbell's parents were spending a week with him.

On Wednesday night another stew was given at the Deep River church which netted a nice profit to be put in the church treasury. A goodly crowd was also present here to eat more chicken.

Miss Helen Smith, of High Point spent Tuesday night with Misses Pauline and Frances Thornton.

The Jamestown class of 1936 held its reunion Tuesday evening with Miss Mary Frances Williams, one of its members. Most all the members were present to enjoy the gala occasion.
