Japs Send Stiff Note To Hull; No Promise To Quit

Britain Gets Reply

Washington Will Not Move Envoys When Warned By Tokyo.

Tokyo, Sept. 30.—(AP)—The Japanese government today answered a firm American protest against the "unwarranted" bombing of Nanking with the declaration the air raids to destroy the base of resistance at the Chinese capital were necessary.

The short Japanese reply, to the United States' note of September 22 was presented to Ambassador Joseph Grew and forwarded to the state department in Washington.

Washington, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Official circles today received without surprise the Japanese reply to Secretary Hull's protest of bombing of Chinese non-combatants.

Although no formal comment was forthcoming immediately some disappointment was known to be felt over the lack of any specific promise by Japan to halt such air raids.

There was a disposition in some quarters to regard the issue as closed for the moment.

Even so, it was understood the United States had no intention of "cooperating" with Japan's military to the extent of moving diplomats in China every time the Japanese warn that foreigners risk grave personal danger unless they seek safety elsewhere.

Japan Accuses Soviet Of Directing Chinese Warfare by Telephone

Chinese Communists Join National Army in Great Northern Movement.

Have 200,000 Troops

Halt Jap Drive; Every Known War Weapon Used By Invaders.

Shanghai, Sept. 30.—(AP)—200,000 more Chinese communistic troops were ordered to the north China front today to end the relentless advance of the Japanese army as the Chinese outside Shanghai continued to hold their positions and showed no signs of weakening.

Communist forces in Kiangsi were mustered to join the National troops—their old enemies—as the Chinese advanced through east Hopen, almost to the border of Shanghai which as seen only light infrequent attacks from the Japanese armies.

With the offensive in central and north China being pushed vigorously, Japanese sources declared their information indicated that the commander-in-chief of the Soviet Russian Siberian force was advancing the Chinese army.

The Japanese "Big push" against the Chinese defensive line northwest of Shanghai was fought to a standstill. Japan hurled every weapon it could muster against the Chinese but were unable to smash through.

At midday, after more than 24 hours of desperate fighting, a Japanese spokesman admitted only minor gains had been made. He claimed slight advances at further points, near Kiangsi, had made possible another general offensive.

The Domer (Japanese) news agency, reported from Nanking the Russian marshal was directing the Chinese resistance by telephone from his Siberian headquarters.

The dispatch declared the roads across the province of Sinkiang was choked with trucks bringing munitions and further military supplies into China from Soviet Russia.

The Soviet ambassador, meanwhile, raced aboard a special plane to Moscow for a conference which observers said will have a vital bearing on Russia's future course in the undeclared Sino-Japanese war. He was expected to reach Moscow today.
