Dr. J. V. Hunter Dies Early This Morning At Home

Stricken Sunday in Sudden Attack Which Results In Death Today.

Prominent Physician

Ruling Elder of Presbyterian Church; Prominent in Civic And Social Life.

Dr. J. V. Hunter, resident of Asheboro since 1906, died at his nome on Worth street at 1 o'clock this morning after a brief illness. Dr. Hunter who was in his usual state of health, was stricken suddenly Sunday morning and suffered a paralytic stroke soon there after. From the beginning his condition was considered serious, resulting in his death this morning.

Dr. and Mrs. Hunter came to Asheboro from Mecklenburg county in 1906 and have been closely affiliated with the several phases of the town and county life ever since. Dr. Hunter was born at Mallard Creek, near Charlotte on January 6th, 1871. He was a son ofg Mr. and Mrs. Madison B. Hunter. Receiving his elementary education in the community schools, he attended Davidson college. For his professional work he attended Beevue in New York, Richmond Medical school and further medical work in Louisville, Ky. His first practice was in his native county of Mecklenburg, at Steele Creek.

It was in 1900 that he was married to Miss Bess Neely, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Neely also of Mecklenburg county. For six years they made their home in Waxhaw where Dr. Hunter was recognized as a promising physician and in 1906 he came to Randolph county where he has been an active practitioner.

Dr. Hunter's activities were not confined entirely to the practice of medicine. He had many other interests in the town and county. As a member of the Presbyterian church since young manhood, he was named one of the officers of the local church and continued a deacon until the time of his death. He was named ruling elder some twenty-five years ago, after the death of the late Colonel McAlister, who was one of the most widely known churchmen of his denomination. Not only in the business and social activities as well, often adding the right touch of humor and The sixth inning again saw the fun to make the occasion a success. In his work with other profes-sional men of the town and county,

Dr. Hunter was also a leader and was, for a number of years, president of the county medical society. He also served as county health officer for a time and was on the local hospital board, giving unstintingly of his time in this line of service.

Especially popular was Dr. Hunter with children and young people who responded to his treatment and friendliness readily.

Mrs. Hunter and two sons, John Hunter of Winston-Salem and Neey Hunter of Asheboro, survive as oes a brother, Rev. R. June Hunter of Gastonia.

Funeral service will be held at the Hunter home at the corner of Worth and Old Main streets at 11 o'clock Friday morning. Dr. Coth-ran G. Smith, pastor of the Asheboro Presbyterian church, will be in charge of the funeral service. Burial will follow in the local cem-
