There will be a tournament at Ray Bros. Rink, on Friday night, the 19th inst. Preparations are being made for a pleasant time to all who may attend.

The many friends of Mr. Ed Weddin, the popular manager of the express office in this city, will be glad to learn that he is rapidly recovering from his recent illness.

Owing to the absence of the coroner, Dr. W. D. Hilliard, from the city to-day, the jury in the Ingram drowning case did not make its report. The jury will meet tomorrow.

Arthur M. Field, jeweler, has an attractive advertisement in today's JOURNAL to which we invite the attention of the people of Asheville and surrounding county. Mr. Field has a large and handsome stock of everything in his line and sells at bottom prices.

The liverymen tell us that the building of the street railway has not injured their business, but on the other hand it has been a great benefit to them; that it has had the effect to run the carriages off the streets and that they are only sent out now on orders.

Prof. E. P. Mangum will teach a class during the summer months at the Orange Street Graded School building, commencing today. Prof. Mangum has been connected with the Asheville Graded School since it was first organized here and stands at the head as an educator. See his notice elsewhere.

We call attention to the advertisement of Messrs. J. H. Woody & Co., dealers in carriages, buggies, harness, etc., No. 68 South Main Street. This firm carries a large stock of vehicles and sells on the most reasonable terms. It is claimed that they have sold more vehicles in Asheville this year than have been sold by any other house in Western North Carolina. When you wish a first class article call on them.

Mr. Harry King, son of ex-United States Senator John P. King, of Augusta, Ga., has purchased a valuable lot on Merrimon avenue, and will erect a handsome residence upon the same.

Our people will remember that Peter Balew, of this city, was killed on the Powell Valley Railroad, in Tennessee last February by two negroes, and that one of the negroes was afterwards captured. Last week the negro was tried for the murder at Taswell, Tenn., and found guilty and sent to the penitentiary for ten years. The other negro is still at large.

A party, consisting of Misses Luddie and Ettie Harris, Bessie Fagg, Knaff and Weaver, and Messrs. F. M. Weaver, P. A. McElroy, J. N. Rogers and Mike Herndon, left this afternoon for a several days' trip to Caesar's Head. Mr. and Mrs. Jno. H. Weaver will chaperone the party.

Mr. A. H. Spear, a former resident of Asheville, but now of New York City, is stopping at Mr. Hunt's. Mr. Spear is representing the D. A. Woodhouse Manufacturing Company of New York. He left here about ten years ago, and says that he would hardly have known Asheville, so great had been the improvement during that time.

The Teachers' Institute.

The Buncombe County Teachers' Institute, which was in session in this city during last week, closed Saturday evening. The Institute was well attended and much interest manifested in the proceedings. County Superintendent John W. Starnes is finishing up the work today in giving certificates to the teachers.

"Egyptian Darkness."

We have heard of this article of darkness all life long, but never knew its full meaning until Saturday night last between nightfall and moonrising. It was dense cloudiness all around. A gentle shower was falling. The former obscured the stars and the latter silenced the lightning bug. On North Main street navigation was perilous indeed, hemmed in as one was by sewer excavations, street widening tribulations, electric street railway track-laying and pole-hole digging, and telephone pole-planting and wire stringing.

We do think that our city authorities ought to look after this matter and make some provision for street lighting, at least while all this work is going on. The Electric Light Company, or the Gas Company either, might, for a sufficient consideration, be induced to light the main thoroughfares, for a few nights only, till the streets get all right again. Or, in case this arrangement could not be made, we might go back to primitive practices and have link-boys scattered along the streets with torches to light the weary passenger's way. Of course, when the moon or stars are shining or the lightning bug at full play, there would be no need for such expedients.

City fathers, do think seriously about this matter and "come over and help us." Something must be done for us poor belated wayfarers.

Rusticating.

Alderman Pulliam and family, accompanied by Miss Minnie Bearden, have moved out to Gouche's Peak, and will sojourn there in a tent for a week or ten days. They are five miles out from the city, but their tent is conspicuous on that high prominence from many points in the city.

A Sad Affair.

About four o'clock this evening several of the little boys at the brick yard, rear of Mr. W. T. Reynolds were throwing dirt at each other when one of the boys, Willie Smith, colored, struck Mr. Walter Spears. Mr. Spears caught up a piece of brickbat and threw it at the boy, striking him on the head, inflicting a scalp wound three or four inches long and causing a small fracture of the skull. Dr. J. A. Burroughs, who was at once sent for, dressed the wound.

Machine Shops.

The brick building on the corner of Willow and Water streets, which is to be used by Messrs. J. H. Woody & Co., as a machine shop, has been completed and is now ready for the machinery, which has been ordered and expected to arrive in a few days. The firm hope to have the shops in full blast on or about the 1st of August. This is another one of the institutions that will pay well in our city.

Sanitation.

Asheville now has a complete system of sewerage, and it is the duty of the citizens to connect their premises with it. This is a very important matter and the only thing that will insure a good healthy sanitary condition of the city. Everybody should keep their premises in good order, and those that will not do so, should be looked after. We think that the sanitary condition of Asheville is of greater importance than almost any other question to be considered, and there should be someone who thoroughly understands sanitation to look after these matters. There is enough in this line to keep one person constantly busy if he does his duty. He would have but little time to look after other matters.

In our dealings with the public we realize that the most scrupulous care and honesty are paramount in importance. If these are virtues in all ordinary business transactions, they become sacred duties in Pharmacy, and without them no one can be a true Pharmacist. Every one must realize that the health, maybe the life, of those dealing with us depend upon them. Pharmacy is not a trade but a profession, and as such we confine ourselves to it alone. Hence it is our work, our constant study as well as our duty to shun adulterations and spoiled as well as inferior drugs. We assure ourselves of the purity of an article before it is made use of. I am ably assisted at the prescription counter by Mr. H. M. P. Clarke, an experienced prescriptionist.

If your prescriptions are left to our care you can positively depend upon the purity of every article used and that the best results will be exercised as to secure all.
