INDEX TO NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.
W. T. WEAVER—Shoes.
A. H. JONES—Groceries.
J. D. BREVARD & Co.—Dissolution.

Cool Sparkling Soda at Pelham's.
Floor Matting at Howell's.

Whitlock's advertisement will be changed in to-morrow, (Sunday's) issue. Look out for it.

Now is the time for the numerous Fourth of July orators to get before a mirror and gesticulate like a crank, as he rehearses his address.

Dr. H. B. Weaver, of Weaverville, has been elected physician for the convicts on the Spartanburg & Asheville Railroad. A good selection.

Citizens having occasion to use Haywood street, will be pleased to notice the great improvement at the Presbyterian Parsonage, in the new fence now being put up.

The beautiful drive from the Court House to Pearson's Bridge, via Haywood Street and Male Academy, is just now extensively patronized by our numerous city visitors.

Mr. J. J. Mackey reports from Weaverville, that excepting the wheat crop, injured past recovery, that the country generally gives promise of a more than ordinary yield. This must be encouraging to not a few of our readers.

The city is filling up with summer visitors, who come to enjoy our bracing climate and pure water. No where has nature been more lavish in the bestowal of her gifts than in Asheville. The air is free from all humidity, and is dry and invigorating, while the water is unsurpassed.

Judge Gudgeon.
The Newbern Journal of Thursday says: "Judge Gudgeon passed up the road yesterday to Waynesville, for his home, which is his first visit there since the middle of February, when he came to the third district to hold the spring term of the courts."
His Honor has had hard work, but returns looking well and in good condition for the arduous duties of the position he fills with such universal satisfaction to all who have causes before him.

Don't Borrow.
Reader! have you borrowed this paper of your neighbor? If so, put it down and go straightway and subscribe for one yourself. You would rather sponge upon your neighbor and borrow his. Why don't you borrow the baker's loaf, or the butcher's steak or roast? You might as well do either as to borrow a newspaper. There would be no newspapers to borrow, if all men were like you; for the printers could not afford to print papers for the benefit of the borrowers, and would have to close their offices and go out of business altogether.

A Good Man Gone.
Rev. W. W. Bays, who is on a visit to Knoxville, sent us the following card yesterday:

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., June 19.
Capt. Joseph Jaques, of this place died last night in the sixtieth year of his age. He came from England in his boyhood, was eminently successful in life. He was a man of large heart, great benevolence, and in some respects the best friend I have ever found aside from my own family. I feel that in his death one of the real props of life has been removed. Truly in the midst of life we are in death. As a flower of the field so he flourisheth.

Died.
The Marion Bugle says: In Marion, N. C., at the residence of her son-in-law J. G. Neal, Mrs. Henderson Weaver, aged 72 years, minus 11 days.
Her death was caused by a fall, two weeks previous, which resulted in blood poisoning.

Home Pride and Enterprise.

For any town to grow and prosper there must be unity of purpose, concert of action and an unselfish willingness, on the part of rich and poor, to do something to add to the general comfort, convenience and benefit. To live in a community and be constant beneficiaries of everything that adds to its prosperity, and like a sponge constantly taking in and giving out nothing, is a purposeless and valueless citizenship. The town would halt and limp along the road of advancement if such a policy is pursued by its inhabitants. He is the most useful citizen who is willing to sacrifice something for the good of others and aid to some extent enterprises that have for their object the promotion of the public weal. No man can isolate himself and say he has no use for his neighbor. Mutual dependence make a bond of mutual interests, and with general prosperity comes individual success. There are many things that are indispensable to the well-being of a town—churches, hotels, schools, stores and newspapers. We have all these. It remains to be seen what the people of Asheville will make out of them.

City Council Last Night.
A special meeting of the City Council was held last night. Mayor Ed. J. Aston, Aldermen Scott, Rankin, Gorenflo, Murray and Girdwood, present.

A proposition was submitted to the authorities in regard to City Cemetery. Referred to a committee composed of Aldermen Scott and Rankin.

A proposition was also submitted from the property holders on Beaverdam Street, offering to give all the land necessary for widening the same.

The committee appointed at last meeting to confer with the county authorities in regard to purchasing the old Jail lot for a Market House site, was instructed to complete arrangements for closing the trade for the property.

NEWS SUMMARY.

The public debt of the United States is being paid off at the rate of one hundred dollars per minute.

General Grant in a recent talk said he had read and seen a good deal but he never knew a grander man than General Robert E. Lee. Good for Grant.

The child that died at Gretna, opposite New Orleans, caught the disease from a ship moored at the wharf and that came from a yellow fever post.

Mr. Blaine has volunteered to stump the State of Ohio in advocacy of Mr. Foraker's election as Governor. It is not stated whether Brother Burchard will accompany him, but the procession would be conspicuously incomplete without the presence of that r-r-reverend politician.

Col. Lamont said on Monday that the President would take a month's vacation on a fishing trip up in the Adirondacks. He will not go to Newport, now, nor is it likely that he will go out to the Soldiers' Home.

North Carolina Appointments.
WASHINGTON, June 18.—The president to-day appointed Samuel W. Shields postmaster at Morristown, Tennessee, vice Trent, resigned; W. F. Howard, collector of customs for the district of Beaufort, North Carolina, and John A. Richardson for the district of Pamlico, North Carolina.

THE TEACHERS' MEETING.

A Large Crowd—Enthusiasm—A Splendid Success—Permanent Location.

The Teachers' Assembly is succeeding even beyond the expectation of its friends. Over four hundred of the earnest, honest educators of the State, from the mountains to the sea, are in attendance. Several distinguished educators from other States are present giving their aid and counsel to the good work. Mr. Harrell, the indomitable Secretary, is full up to all the requirements of the occasion. Yesterday Prof. Bingham, of Bingham's School, presented an able paper upon State aid to the teachers of the State, followed by able discussion by Prof. Winston of the State University, Miss Pescud of the Nashville, (Tenn.) Normal Institute, Prof. Shafer, of the North Carolina Academy (Caharras Co.) and several of the Waynesville Academy, and others.

A feature of the day was a visitation from His Honor Mayor Aston, of this city, Hon. Thos. D. Johnston, President Atkins and other citizens of Asheville for the purpose of presenting to the Assembly the advantages of Asheville as a permanent place for the meeting of the Assembly. They were courteously heard by Messrs. Smith, Harrell and Starnes, of the committee on permanent location. The offers of our city are such it is believed the Assembly cannot overlook. Everything such an Assembly can wish was offered and guaranteed.

Mayor Aston, for himself and the city authorities invited the officers and committee on location to visit the city to-day as the guest of the city, and we trust all may accept, as arrangement have been made to meet them at the depot and "tender them the freedom of the city."

Our citizens are hereby notified that a large number of the teachers of the State are in the city and it is due the credit of the city that they be made to feel at home.

Important to Justices of the Peace.

By chapter 288 of the laws of 1885, it is enacted:

"1. That all appointments of justices of the peace by the general assembly shall be void, unless the persons so appointed shall qualify within three months thereafter.

"2. That all unfilled appointments occurring under the provision of the preceding section in the office of justice of the peace shall be filled for the term by the appointment of the Governor."

The election of justices by the late general assembly was on the 11th day of March last, and the three months in which they were required to qualify expired on the 11th day of the present month.

It is probable that the attention of the justices elect was not called to this inasmuch as the laws have but recently been published and, relying upon the provision in the Code which permitted their qualification at any time prior to the commencement of their terms, to-wit: the first Thursday in August next after their election—doubtless many of them have allowed the three months to elapse without qualifying, and the offices are now vacant.

The Governor has caused the matter to be examined by the Attorney-General, who has given an opinion that the Legislature had the authority to pass the act referred to, and that the Governor had the power and it was his duty to make appointments to fill the offices made vacant by the failure of the persons elected by the general assembly to qualify.

It is understood that his excellency will, in all instances, where they will qualify, unless some good reason be given to the contrary, when called upon, appoint the persons selected by the general assembly; and where the persons so selected decline to qualify, he will make appointments upon recommendation from trustworthy source. It is desirable that the county authorities throughout the State shall give the matter speedy attention.—News and Observer.

SENTENCE OF DEATH.

The Day Fixed for the Execution of Cluverius.

RICHMOND, VA., June 19.—In the Hustings court this morning Judge Atkin refused the motion in arrest of judgment in the Cluverius case and proceed to pass the sentence of death upon the prisoner, fixing the day for his execution the 20th of November. An appeal to the Supreme court was prayed and granted. Fears are entertained that the prisoner's efforts to obtain a new trial will be successful.

Dissolution.

The firm of J. D. Brevard, & Co., is this day dissolved by mutual consent, Mr. R. R. Porter having sold his interest to J. D. Brevard, Rev. A. D. Blackwood being a partner.—The new firm will collect and settle all claims for or against the old business.

J. D. BREVARD,
R. R. PORTER,
A. D. BLACKWOOD.

June 10, 1885.
Mr. Porter returns thanks to his friends for the liberal patronage he has heretofore received at their hands and commends the new firm to their generous consideration.

JUDSON COLLEGE!

CLOSING EXERCISES WEDNESDAY AND THURSDAY

An Immense Attendance—Fine Sermon—Literary Address—Award of Medals

AND MANY OTHER INCIDENTS.

It was our good fortune to be present and witness the closing exercises at Judson College, Wednesday and Thursday night, Thursday and Thursday night, of this week. The attendance was quite large and the entire occasion the most enjoyable. The college building, which is a very large and substantial stone structure, situated on a beautiful hill, surrounded by a magnificent oak grove, is one of the most beautiful in the State. The exercises opened Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock by prayer from Rev. R. I. Vann, of Wake Forest College, after which the programme for the morning entertainment, which consisted of recitations, speeches, music and the annual sermon. The speeches and recitations by Messrs. C. H. Robinson, of Transylvania, and R. G. Buckner and J. P. Clifton, of Henderson county, D. P. Robinson, of South Carolina, representatives of the two literary societies, were interesting, well delivered and showed good training on the part of their instructors, while the recitations by Miss Gertrude Freeman and Miss Clemmie Buckner, of Henderson county, were also excellently rendered. The recitation "Book of Ages," sang and repeated by Miss Lottie Smith, daughter of the Chief of Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians, Janet Smith, of Swain county, was one of the most captivating and pleasing features of the programme. She has one of the sweetest voices we have ever listened to. Miss Rachael Blythe, who is also another very handsome Indian girl, has a soft, sweet voice and showed good musical training. The "Gypsy Girl" as sang by her and Miss Lottie, completely captured the large audience. The music class which was composed of a large number of young ladies, of good training, led by their accomplished teacher Miss Rosa D. Hines, made some very excellent music, after which the annual sermon by was delivered. His text was from the 3d chapter and 16th verse of Proverbs: "Length of days is in her right hand, and in her left hand riches and honor." He addressed his sermon more particularly to the young people. He wished to impress them with the present as well as the future value of the Christian religion, and argued that a pious man would live longer, all things being equal, than an ungodly man. He urged the putting away of the idea, entertained by many young people, that religion would destroy life and its pleasure. Piety would not only prolong life, but a man would succeed better if he was a Christian. He used the most convincing arguments to sustain his remarks. Religion teaches economy and forms the character. Give a young person, said he, piety, and he was ready for the battle of life. There are always places open for young men of character. Let a man carry that along with him as his stock in trade, and he would be respected and honored. And another great advantage it brought was, the blessings of God. It elevates one in society, and always recommends him among the pious. A Christian was respected by even those who were not pious, Christian people. Men honored and God respected them more because they were Christians. Mr. Carroll said if every one who was not a Christian, could realize the great blessings and benefits of the Christian religion, they would wish to lay aside sin, and take piety as a part of life's armor. He referred to the one good man in the accursed city of Sodom, how God spared the city on his account, and would not destroy it until he had left it—that as long as this pious man was in the city, God withheld his wrath. Mr. Carroll preached about forty minutes, and the sermon, which was most highly complimented, was listened to with marked interest.

The Calisthenic exercises Wednesday night were interesting and attracted quite a large audience. The children all showed superior training in this department, and reflected great credit upon their teacher, Miss S. E. Darden.

THURSDAY MORNING.

The exercises opened by prayer, by Rev. J. L. Carroll, of Asheville.

The orations by the representatives of the societies, and of the graduating class in the commercial department, were considerably over the average; in fact, some of them were highly creditable. Mr. H. D. Brown, of Henderson county, who represented the Ionian Society, took for his subject, "What the world owes to Science," and handled it very creditably. Mr. H. F. Griffin, of Anson county, representative of the Philolathean Society, taking as his subject, "The Greatness of our Country." He did himself great credit, and won much applause from the audience. He has a retentive memory, and a very fair delivery. Mr. H. A. Whittington, of Yancey county, also representative of the commercial department, taking for the subject of his speech: "Put money in your purse," spoke with great ease and grace, and won much hearty applause. He seemed to be perfectly at home, and delivered his speech in a pleasing and happy manner. The judges who had been selected, declared Mr. Whittington the winner of the Pearson medal.

Rev. J. B. Boone, the President, in a few very timely and appropriate remarks, presented diplomas to the graduates in the Commercial department: A. J. Barnett, Henderson county, H. A. Whittington, Yancey county, W. T. Hall, Macon county, O. L. Ingram, Macon county, B. F. Staton, Henderson county. The President then introduced of Wake Forest College, who addressed the Literary societies. He commenced by alluding to the complimentary manner in which he was introduced by the President, and got off a very rich joke, which completely waked up the audience with amusement. He said that he had some thing that he wished to tell the audience, but he thought some of them were doubt sleepy and tired, if so, go to sleep, says he, and may the Lord bless you.—He said that North Carolina was greatly behind in education, and that she was in much need of good school teachers; that the teachers in our common schools should be selected with more care, and that our common schools were too common, and thought they should be improved by having better teachers.

He did not think that education ever made a man a fool, it may show him off better. He thought that the farmers as a class should be educated, that it was a mistaken idea to neglect the education of the young men of the country, who expected to follow the tilling of the soil. There were many men, he said stirring the hearts of the nation who ought to be tilling the soil and there were many tilling the soil who to-day ought to be stirring the hearts of the nation. His remarks throughout were mingled with eloquent words and amusing jokes. He referred to the ladies and to men as housekeepers. He said that a man as a housekeeper or as an ornament was a most complete failure. He thought women a great institution, and referred to her as a housekeeper, and said that they could not be excelled on fried chicken. Said that he could always preach better after eating fried chicken. Mr. Vann spoke about a half hour and we are confident nearly every one who heard him, was sorry when he stopped. At the conclusion of his speech Mr. Richmond Pearson, in behalf of the societies and the young ladies, presented him with a handsome bouquet. Mr. Pearson's remarks were very eloquent and pleasing to the audience. Mr. Vann replied in a happy style.

The Pearson medal given for the best oratory, was presented to Mr. H. A. Whittington by Rev. J. L. Carroll. In presenting the medal, Mr. Carroll referred to Mr. Richmond and the great interest that he had manifested in the improvement of the young men of the west and to his generous gifts to other noble works of charity.

Rev. J. E. Carter then awarded another very handsome gold medal to Miss Lottie Smith, of Swain county. This medal had also been kindly given by Mr. Pearson as a recognition of her musical accomplishments. Mr. Carter very feelingly thanked Mr. Pearson.

These generous gifts by Mr. Pearson will only show to the outside world what our own people know, that his heart and his pocket were ever ready to respond to every good work and enterprise.

We are compelled to cut our report short, but will have something to say of the concert Thursday night in next issue.

THE LAND OF THE SKY!

Its Beauties and Attractions as Seen by a Boston Lady.

(Written Expressly for the Advance.)

BOSTON, MASS., June 14, '85.

ED. ASHEVILLE ADVANCE:

The Americans are very well called a nation of travelers. Not roaming from place to place like the Arab, with no fixed abode, for the home and home life are sacred here, the excursionist starting from and returning to the home.

These little journeys for health, pleasure or profit, are to the daily life, what the many colored stones of mosaic are, to the background, forming upon it bright pictures, and by contrast, making it more beautiful.

No corner is too secluded for the footsteps of some tourist; no mountain peak is so isolated, but some modern Columbus would seek to discover all its hidden charms; and no sea coast is too desolate, or arctic field of ice too dreary, for the adventurous, free-born American to dare the journey of peril. Curs, coaches and steamers are crowded with eager throngs, traveling hither and thither, east, west, north and south.

When the southern gales are wafted over the continent, northward surges the tide of travel; and when the chill blasts from frozen regions strike the dwellers in the higher latitudes, the tide turns, as health and pleasure seekers, the summer birds, fit away in search of ever-blooming flowers, and lands where the frost king never comes. Between these two extremes of latitude lie many pleasant resorts, where in summer visitors come, to escape the atmosphere of the malarious swamps of the gulf States, and thither in winter dwellers of the far north resort, to avoid the long dreary winters of their homes.

Christian Reid in her charming book, "The Land of the Sky," has invested with a charm, many of the mountain resorts of Western North Carolina. Among them few can compare with Asheville for a health resort, or a residence. It is a city set upon many hills, encircled with hills or mountains, whose green summits seem to be only so many more possibilities for other cities and villages. It is in the midst of a fine fertile country, producing fruits and vegetables, that are beginning to be famous, outside of the boundaries of home. Here is cultivated the yellow leaf, delicate flavored tobacco, that makes the Durham manufactures so famous.—Growing luxuriantly on the hills in Buncombe and adjoining counties, it brings a little fortune into the pockets of the successful farmers.

Tourists throng the city during the summer months, who spend happy days in excursions to the hills around. Beaucatcher mountain is one object of interest, and parties climb there frequently to catch the first rays of the morning sun.

The hotels overflow, and the number of private boarding houses vie with each other in attentions to their guests.

Many people have been attracted thither by the accounts of the salubrious climate, equally removed from the enervating heat of the South, and the severe cold of the North; here, after having seen for themselves, they choose their abodes, and reside there, making the interests and prosperity of the town theirs.

A mountain Sanitarium for consumptives was for some years under the care of Dr. William Gleitsman. He has given it up; but the place still exists, with a corps of physicians who make this dreaded disease their study.

The French Broad river and its tributary, the Swannanoa, are in the immediate vicinity. The former is a beautiful river flowing between green banks or precipitous mountain walls, till it forces its way through the mountain chain, and hastens on to the great river of the west. The latter has retained its Indian name—meaning Nymph of Beauty—and is equally beautiful, with a charm all its own.

Asheville has a historical past, and a hopeful future, and a busy, thriving prosperous present, and can take rank with other cities of its size.
