is constructed upon scientific principles, and distributes the heat evenly in every part of the barn. To prove gaged for this season. Over 300 men have engaged in N.C., S. C., and the this fact conclusively, five thermometers may be hung up, one in each corner and one in the center of the Larn, and they will register the same degree of heat.

The Invention consists of an extra Pipe filled full of +mall holes, and runping around and on top of the old Flue, taking cold air from the right, left and center of the barn : The cold air being the heaviest falls to the bottom of the barn, and at once becomes heated and lighted, then rises to the top of the barn, taking a certain quantity of hot, dead, damp air as it arises, passing out through top of barn through ventilators, thus producing a constant circulation of hot, dry, fresh air, and a constant ovaparation, and saving at least twentyfour hours time.

Orders are coming in so rapidly that farmers are urged to make an early application for the number of
