INDEX TO NEW ADVERTISEMENTS. FRANK CARTER.—Property for Sale.

Watch out for the electric light about Friday.

Our campaign poet will come to the front again in a few days.

The county candidates speak at Upper Hoinny to-day.

The people's cause is gaining ground every hour.

Jarret Smith, Chief of the Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians, called to see us yesterday. He reports the red men all solid for Malone.

The political campaign is so warm that the trees are budding. There is a cherry tree in the southern portion of the city now in full bloom.

Mr. L. N. Ebbs, democratic candidate for Senator has joined his opponent Mr. Fox in the canvass. He was delayed some days on account of sickness in his family.

The officers of the First National Bank are well pleased with their new building which is a credit to Asheville and the builders, Messrs. J. A. Wagouer and John Hart.

A number of ultra stock law men in the county have no hesitation in saying that the poor man has no right to vote on the question, because he does not own the lands. It is this class of men who are advocating the election of Gudger and Jones.

Mr. A. A. Featherston came near meeting with a serious accident on his farm north of the city yesterday. He was driving a pair of mules, and in coming down a hill he fell from his seat, when the mules started to run. He held to the reins and was dragged a considerable distance, receiving several severe wounds.

Our much esteemed friend, Mr. R. L. Fitzpatrick, has returned from Richmond, where he has spent the past two weeks in attendance on the Grand Assembly of the Knights of Labor. Mr. Fitzpatrick was the representative from the Asheville division of that organization, and reports a most pleasant and profitable visit.

We publish elsewhere an address to the republicans of this congressional district, in which the effort of A. H. Jones, and T. J. Candler, pretended republican, to elect Capt. Johnston, is fully exposed. The people of the district will not be deceived by such a palpable game. Let every republican and democrat in the district read the address.

The friends of Gudger and Jones will on election day try to secure the election of those gentlemen by "swapping" votes. Their trusted leader, "Smiling Bobbie," says that Pearson shall not be elected. That means any trick available will be resorted to. Let the friends of our ticket be on the alert and not be caught in this or any other trick of the enemy.

We call attention to the advertisement elsewhere of the Carter property for sale. This place has a front of over 600 feet on Spruce street, and it is a question of a very short time when, with a market house and other improvements on the city property opposite, the whole of this front will be available for business purposes. We know of no property with a greater future.

Bargain Counter at Law's. As many goods accumulate that are imperfect or for some other reason we dispose of under cost. We start a bargain counter, all goods on it are at least half price. A grand stock on hand now, and new goods still coming in. See goods and get prices for fine or common wares at Law's, opposite Eagle Hotel.

Miss GRACE A. DEMERITTE, Pupil of Xaver Scharwenka, Court Pianist to the Emperor of Germany, and Graduate of his Conservatory of Music, at Berlin, will receive pupils in Piano and Vocal Music. She may be seen at Mrs. Reynolds, Main St., between 3 and 4 p. m., daily. sep15

Weekly ADVANCE only $1 per year.

The County Canvass.

The county candidates spoke on Sand Hill (Lower Hoinny) yesterday to a large audience, composed of the best citizens of that section. The discussions were animated but pleasant, and the best of feeling prevailed.

The candidates for the Senate were present, and announced themselves, not having time to enter into a general discussion.

Mr. Pearson's friends present expressed the opinion that he made the best speech of the campaign.

This township is more equally divided on the stock-law question, than any of those that the candidates have yet spoken in. This seems to be the opinion of those who have followed the campaign.

They Want to Know

How any man who believes in the democratic principle, that a majority ought to rule, can consistently advocate the election of Jones and Gudger.

If there is a man in the county silly enough to believe that if Malone, Pearson and Reynolds are elected that the eastern counties will be placed under negro rule. Such is the logic of some of the ring-doodles.

If Senator Vance is opposed to the stock law in Black Mountain as he says, and believes that a majority ought to rule, why he is speaking in the interest of Gudger and Jones.

Why General Jones refused to state to the Board of Magistrates and Commissioners the intent and spirit of his stock law bill, as he promised to do, if he was acting in good faith with the people.

They Say

That Tom Johnston can't possibly do through this time, even with Tom Candler's assistance.

That the thinnest thing of the season is the trick by which "Smiling Robert" expects to defeat Mr. Pearson.

That smiling Bobbie would swap off the State ticket for a vote against Pearson.

That the people of Buncombe county want to go back on a friend to gratify Bobbie's malice.

That the Citizen's bitter fight against Mr. Pearson, particularly, is inspired more by malice than love of party.

That the smiling Bobbie just awfully had to expose any of his little schemes.

That Maj. Malone, is making a brilliant canvass out west, and will "walk Tommie's" log in November.

That a man who has violated his pledges as Tom Johnston has, ought not to expect to be endorsed.

That Maj. Malone is discussing the Blair Educational bill with telling effect.

That Johnston can no longer deceive the people with promises.

That faithless public servants will meet a just rebuke in November.

That the military hero (that is the Gin!) can devote all his time this winter drilling the troops, who fought so nobly for Pearson in the campaign.

That the ringdoodles are scarce compared to the legions of flopdoodles that are to be found all over the county.

That the ringdoodle of the Citizen need not hope to win a victory over Pearson and the People's Ticket by the use of his schemes.

That he is a successful schemer, but this time he will fail.

That among the supporters of the flopdoodle ticket can be found many of the leading democrats in the county.

That the rank and file of the party are solid for the ticket.

That smiling Bobbie's efforts to make it appear that Mr. Pearson is supporting Tom Johnston in preference to Maj. Malone is another of his unsuccessful schemes.

That the ringdoodle organ knows as little about fairness in politics as the military hero, (that is, the Gin!) does about statesmanship.

That Will Reynolds can hardly realize he has any opposition.

That the methods by which he was defrauded out of the nomination will receive a black eye to the tune of 600 majority on the 2nd day of November.

That hereafter we will have clean methods and clean politics in Buncombe.

Whitlock sells the genuine Centemeri Kids in blacks, colors, and undressed or Suede Foster's Hooks in blacks and colors, and a very good Kid in latest shades and blocks at 75 cts. Also, a large stock Cashmere and Silk Gloves, very low. oct19tf

THE CONGRESSIONAL RACE.

THE CANVASS DRAWING TO A CLOSE.

Maj. Malone's Election Assured.

Maj. W. H. Malone and Capt. Thos. D. Johnston candidates for Congress, will close their canvass west of the French Broad river, to-day at Hayeaville, the county seat of Clay county. Their next appointment is at Fair View, in this county, next Tuesday. They then go to Rutherford county, and speak at Reynolds's tan yard, Wednesday 27th, at Rutherfordton Thursday 28th, and at Logan's Store Friday 29th, which completes the list of appointments for the district. The canvass between these two gentlemen has been conducted on good grounds, and at most of their appointments they have had large crowds out to hear them.

We are satisfied from all the information we have been able to gather, that Maj. Malone's election is a settled fact. He has made a brilliant canvass, making friends and votes at every point where he has been heard. He has shown the people wherein Capt. Johnston, his competitor, has forfeited all claims upon them for their further support, by violating his solemn pledges to the people made on the stump two years ago. Instead of redeeming his promise to do all in his power to secure the repeal of the Internal Revenue law, Major Malone proves by the records that he suffered himself to be bound by a cautious rule to vote for Carlisle for Speaker, who was a bitter enemy to the repeal of the law, and who, after his election to the Speakership, so packed the committees of the House as to defeat its repeal.

Maj. Malone has shown to the people the cause of the great scarcity of money in the country, the stagnation of business and the poverty and suffering all over the land. He shows that for years national legislation has tended to enrich a few and make poorer the many. He proves that the policy of the present administration on the currency question is inimical to the welfare of the people. He charges and proves that Mr. Cleveland, in his war upon silver, the people's money, is influenced by the great money monopolies of the North. He shows how the contraction of the Currency and the power of the National banks to draw in their circulation, is proving ruinous to the great interests of the country. He shows that to-day money is scarcer in the country than ever before. That while a few are accumulating great fortunes, the cry of the widow and orphan are heard from every section. That capital is grinding down labor, and the poor are at the mercy of the rich, yet congress has failed to come to the rescue. He explains how it is, that by the caucus system, even those members of Congress who are disposed to do something for the relief of the people, are unable to do so. He discusses the Blair Educational Bill and shows, that after it passed a Republican Senate, it was killed in the House by the leaders whose leadership Capt. Johnston follows in Congress. Maj. Malone's speeches make a deep impression, and the people everywhere are anxious to hear him.

NORTH CAROLINA.

A Small Boy's Composition.

North Carolina is counted as a State and has as many mother-in-laws as any other State of its size. It lies in the thirty-sixth latitude, or rather the thirty-sixth lies in it. Before the war latitude was not much account and men believed it had nothing to do with raising cotton. If the free schools had "caught on" to latitude my papa says there would not have been so many soldiers in the war nor so many pension bills for old Grover to veto now, and liquor would have been as water, and wool hats cheap. North Carolina is a State. It consists of the Richmond & Danville Railroad, the Durham Mill and Charles R. Jones. Rufe McCaden has a bank and there is the Bank of New Hanover. In east there are fish, grapes and a man named Jarvis, who has gone a pine apple hunting and will be back home in '88. In the west there is Black Mountain, Nat Atkinson, and the Asheville bar. The Gudgers live in the west and hole office. They are more numerous and more humorous. Reckoning by the census of 1880 North Carolina had nearly a million and a half of folks—not counting Zeb Vance, who adds a half a million more according to my papa's arithmetic. Raleigh is the capital of North Carolina. Frapps and Theo. Josephs and a man named Tim Lee used to live there. Ike Young is dead, but the other revenues are alive and stole a hot still from us last week. Respectfully submitted, LITTLE JIM DALY. Western Seminary of Learning. Sept. 29, 1886.

AN EXCITED COMMUNITY.

Evidences of a Brutal Highway Murder—But So Far a Mystery.

Charlotte Observer.

The people in the neighborhood of Clay Hill, near the old Hill iron furnace, just across the line, in York county, South Carolina, are greatly exercised over the occurrence of a supposed highway murder, and the facts which gave rise to the excitement would seem to sustain the people in their theory that a foul crime has been committed. On Sunday morning last, a party of men who were traveling the road early, had their attention attracted by a large pool of blood in the middle of the road, in the locality already mentioned. The blood was clotted, and all around it the deep, soft dust showed a confusion of footprints. In addition to this, the dusty road showed a trail where a body of some kind was dragged from the road into the bushes. The trail was distinctly marked, and along with the marks made by the dragging of the body were the prints of fingers, as if the two hands of the murdered man were outstretched and ploughing the dust as the body was being dragged along. The parties followed the trail into the woods to a distance of about twenty yards, where they found a mat, such as is used by rail-splitters, and near the mat was found an empty cartridge shell. The mat was bloody, and was evidently the weapon used in doing the work. All trace of the body was here lost, though parties of citizens searched through the woods in all directions. The river is near the scene of the supposed murder, and it is believed that if a murder was really committed, of which there seems to be no doubt in the minds of the people, the body was carried to the river bank and cast into the water. The river was yesterday being dragged, but up to the latest accounts the search was fruitless.

Two men are said to be missing from the neighborhood, one a colored man and the other an Irish peddler from Charlotte. The people are aroused over the affair, and are determined to sift the matter to the bottom.

AN ADDRESS

To the Republicans of the 9th Congressional District.

At a mass meeting of the Republicans of the 9th Congressional District assembled at the Court House in Asheville in accordance and with a call made by the editor of the Skyland Herald on the 16th day of October to consider the advisability of nominating a candidate for Congress for said District. After mature deliberation and considering all the circumstances attending the situation, adopted the following resolution.

"Resolved, That we the Republicans of the 9th Congressional District, in mass meeting assembled, recommend to the Republicans of said district that they make no nomination for Congress in said district, but think it advisable, under all the circumstances, and we recommend the Republicans to cast their solid vote in the approaching Congressional election for Maj. W. H. Malone, the independent candidate for Congress."

This conclusion was reached by the mass meeting after mature deliberation and consultation with delegates and leading Republicans from every county and section throughout the entire district. One principle reason that led to this conclusion was the shortness of time to the election, and that any Republican candidate nominated by the meeting at this late day would find it impossible to make a canvass of the district before the election, and whatever merit there might be in our cause, he would not be able to discuss the same before the people, and with a standing democratic majority against him of 1,600 in the district would finally be overwhelmingly defeated at the ballot box at the approaching election, which would be attributed to a defeat of our principles instead of the true cause and lack of a thorough Republican discussion before the people. We had better have no candidate of our own nomination than suffer defeat under any such circumstances.

In voting for Maj. Malone we sacrifice no principle of the Republican party, but simply unite our votes with the good men of the Democratic party who have thrown off the shackles of the old Bourbon democracy and are willing to unite with the Republicans in a common cause to secure better government for the people; to secure protection for the American laborer; to secure the repeal of the Internal Revenue law; to secure a national bill, passed by a Republican Senate and defeated by a Democratic House of Representatives of which Capt. Johnston was and is now a member; to secure a free ballot and a fair count; to secure more money and less taxation; to resist the suspension and demonetization of the silver dollar, and generally, to restore confidence to the American people in the stability of the government and to enact such legislation by Congress as will arrest the hard times, and restore the country to the prosperity that existed under Republican administration, and dispell the gloom into which it has been thrown by the maladministration of the old Bourbon democracy. If these several objects can be attained by uniting our votes with the independent democrats in the district in the election of Maj. Malone to Congress we may well rejoice with all good and true men in the district in a triumphant victory in favor of right and good government over wrong and oppression.
