EAGAN TO BE TRIED BY COURTMARTIA

on This Course.

SO INFORMS HIS CABINET with all on board.

The War Investigating Commission Decides to Accept the Commissary General's Testimony as Revised and Resubmitted by Him.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.-President Mc-Kinley announced to the cabinet at its regular meeting today that he had determined to courtmartial General Eagan. Secretary Alger was not present at the cabinet meeting, but Adjutant General ject just prior to the cabinet session. The order for the courtmartial probably will be made today. Just prior to the cabinet meeting.

General Miles made a rather unusual call upon two of the members of the cabinet, Secretaries Hay and Long. He had just returned to the city from New York and when spoken to with reference to the Eagan case adhered to his original declaration that this was not a time for him to act, if at all, leaving the implication that if the commission did not act, or the administration, it erly a resident of Atlanta, Ga. would then be time for him to take

The commissary general was on duty as usual at his office and business was apparently going along in the usual way, although it was noticed that there were more callers upon General Eagan of the official class; namely, officers of said that he was prepared to accept loyally whatever action the president may

The war investigating commission today decided to make public the amended statement filed by Commissary General Eagan yesterday. The commission permitted the representatives of the press formally announced to the newspaper men that General Eagan had eliminated all objectionable statements and therefore the document would be accepted officially by the commission as evidence. As already stated the changes made by General Eagan in the document are mainly in the line of excision, yet the phraseology has been also altered frequently. He refers to General Miles as "the senior major general, Nelson A. Miles." and while keeping strictly within the line of propriety in the judgment of the commission, in a negative manner at least, he resents any assumption of General Miles' superiority and asserts that he is as good, as old and as expedient an officer as General Miles. He also criticizes the latter's attack on the beef industry as infamous. It is believed that so far as the commission is concerned the incident is now closed.

A NAPTHA YACHT MISSING. Paul Jones, With Prominent People on Board, May Be Lost.

Louisville, Jan. 16. - The naphtha yacht Paul Jones, which left Louisville Dec. 7, with a pleasure party of Mr. McKinley Has Determined prominent society people, bound f.e Pensacola, Fla., and other ports in southern waters, has probably gone down in a gale in the gulf of Mexico

The party consisted of Colonel H. C. Yocum and daughter, Miss Yocum, and Began Life as Copy Boy on an Eastern G. M. Yocum, all of St. Louis: Miss Florence Taggart, daughter of Mayor Taggart of Indianapolis, and Miss Margie Woodland of Chicago.

Deck Hand John Berry and Engineer Dadgley were the only two members of the crew of four known in Louisville. The last heard from the yact was when it left the mouth of the Mississippi river on Jan. 3. It was the plan of Colonel H. C. Yocum, under whose direction the yacht was sailing, to coast Corbin was at the White House in con-ference with the president on the sub-Mississippi's mouth and Pensacola, Fla., where it was the intention of the party to make a considerable stay. According to weather reports received at the local bureau, the yacht encountered a storm when three days out. The relatives of those on board are in a terribly perturbed state of mind on account of lack of information. They have been telegraphing every port on the gulf coast where it is thought the slightest chance of information could be obtained.

He had contributed to the New York Tribune and his pleasing style attracted the attention of Horace Greely, with the result that in 1866 Young became managing editor of the paper with which Greely had been so long associated. At that time Young was only 25 years old. His leisure time he devoted to the study of law, and in 1867 was admitted to the bar in New York city. In 1870 he again tried the establishment of a newspaper of his own, this time The Standard. About this time, however, Secretary Boutwell, who was at the head of the treasury department in President Grant's cabinet, induced Mr. Young to go abroad to look into financial affairs. While abroad on this mission the awful days of the Paris commune occurred and Mr. Young's account of the rise and fall of the commune and of the stirring days through which the French capital passed is regarded as one of the best examples of English descriptive writing. In 1872 he became the European representative of the New York Herald and spent two years in London and Paris and another year in work and travel on

On Grant's Memorable Trip. In 1877 General Grant started upon ais memorable trip around the work the party. This made him for two years almost a member of the family of the great general, and a warm friendship sprang up between them. Afterward Mr. Young wrote "Around the World

With General Grant.' During this trip Mr. Young was specially interested in China, to which country President Arthur sent him in 1882 as United States minister. He remained in China until the opening of the first Cleveland administration, when he returned to this country and engaged in literary and business pursuits.

When the new library of congress was completed attention was directed to the choice of a librarian embodying literary ability and executive manage ment and President McKinley named Mr. Young on July 1, 1897. He entered upon his duties while the library was the board of pardons, a respite was still in its cramped quarters at the capitol and saw it expand into the classic temple of the arts and literature which it now occupies. The transition involved not only a removal of vast stores of precious volumes, but the complete reorganization of the library staff. Mr. Young directed all of this, making the change from the old to the new with smoothness. His time has been spent

ROME EDITORS ATTACKED.

Two Encounters Fellow. ROME, Ga., Jan. 13.-Rome is in fever of excitement over an attack made on Colonel B. F. Sawyer, editor of The Evening Argus, by Norris and Holmes Smith, sons of City Clerk Halsted Smith, and a personal difficulty in The Tribune office between W. A. Knowles, manager and editor of The Tribune, and City Attorney C. W. Underwood. The trouble between Colonel Sawyer and the Smith boys grew out of an article published in Tuesday's Argus. The salary of the city clerk was recently in-creased and Colonel Sawyer published editorials condemning the council.

Two of Clerk Smith's sons went to Colonel Sawyer's home and called him out, demanding his authority for his statements, which Colonel Sawyer gave. They also said there would be trouble if any more statements were published in The Argus about their father.

The Argus printed another editorial criticizing Clerk Smith and when Colonel Sawyer and his son Robert were coming from their home to The Argus office they were accosted by Norris and and Holmes Smith. Holmes Smith began an attack on

Colonel Sawyer with a steelheaded cane, striking him several times. Robert Sawyer started to his father's assistance when Norris Smith closed with him. Robert Sawyer drew a pocketknife and Norris Smith a pistol. Norris Smith was cut six times about the head and face, but none of the wounds were serious. One blow cut his collar in haif. Young Smith snapped torial in The Tribune criticizing the city attorney for his opinion on the legality of the raise in the clerk's salary. Mr. Underwood went to The Tribune office and demanded that Mr. Knowles retract the editorial. The latter refused. Mr. Underwood then called Mr. Knowles a liar, and the editor struck the city attorney several times in the face and on on Mr. Knowles' finger cut an ugly gash in Mr. Underwood's head.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Jan. 18 .- D. Mo-Laren, president of the Addyston Pipe and Steel company of Cincinnati, which owns large pipe and steel works at Newport, Ky., and Addyston, O., has closed a deal for the purchase of land from the Bessemer Land and Improvement company on which to locate t e new pipe works which the company is arranging to build in this district.

The land purchased is situated east of Bessemer between the furnaces of the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad company's furnaces. It is touched by all he railroads that enter the district and is well suited for the purpose for which it has been acquired. The survey of the tract will commence at once and as soon as practicable work will begin on the pipe plant.
The plant will cost $400,000 and will have a daily capacity of 850 tons. Next to the Howard-Harrison pipe plant at Bessemer it will be the largest in the southern states. It will manufacture steel castings as well as iron pipe, and the projectors expect to have it in operation by next June. The foreign trade will be especially sought by the company through its plant here. In fact it is in order to be able to enter the foreign markets that the company is building in this section. SMALL DIES ON GALLOWS.

Five Trains and Many Offices. MERIDIAN, Miss., Jan. 14.—The postoffice at Enterprise, Miss., was blown open with dynamite Monday and robbed. Thrasher Mead, one of the most desperate criminals in this country, was arrested in Mobile and brought to Enterprise, but not until after a desperate fight with the officers. A large quantity of stamps and $1,138 in cash stolen from the safe in the Enterprise postoffice were recovered.

Mead has a criminal record that is hardly second to that of the notorious Rube Burrows. For nearly ten years he has infested the railroads of Mississippi and Alabama and is known to have been intimately connected with a band of negro robbers in Chicago.

Mead is known to have been implicated in five train robberies, and the Southern Express company has proof that he blew open safes in their offices at Aberdeen and Durant, Miss., last year. He has escaped from 21 jails and once from the Alabama penitentiary since he began his criminal career.
