Koch's Lymph

Is a cure for consumption.
At least that is what has been claimed for it. There may be some doubt about the effectiveness of the Berlin remedy, but there is none whatever about the particular kind of Lymph to which the publishers of
THE ASHEVILLE DEMO-CRAT desire to call your attention.

Advertising :- Lymph

Is a cause of consumption
—consumption of goods
we mean. But in order to produce proper results, it should be properly applied—through the ASHE-VILLE DEMOCRAT, for instance. This is the great people's newspaper, published at No. 10 N. Court Square, Asheville, N. C.
Its strong point is its extensive circulation.

For Business Decay

The competent physician will prescribe a generous application of advertising
"Lymph" in the columns of THE DEMOCRAT. THE ASHEVILLE DEMOCRAT is issued weekly in regular newspaper form, and besides giving all the local news of interest contains so much general matter
that it gains a reading from all the members of the family.

KENILWORTH INN.

Kenilworth Inn is located upon a prominent knoll overlooking both the French Broad and Swannanoa valleys, also Vanderbilt Park. Elevation same as Battery Park. Many of the highest peaks in the Black and Craggy mountains, which are hidden from Asheville by Beaucatcher are visible from Kenilworth. Twenty acres of beautiful lawn, 106 acres wooded park, in which are many of the handsomest old oaks near Asheville, besides a large variety of general timber, pine, walnut, hickory, gum, sourwood, dogwood and locust. All native shrubs have been carefully preserved, while many rhododendrons, azaleas, laurel and larkspur have been transplanted. Summer houses of rustic work, and many seats, have already been built through the woods, and several are to be placed on the Swannanoa river, which runs directly through the Kenilworth Inn property. While Kenilworth Inn is the same distance from the Asheville railroad station as the Asheville court house, the Biltmore railroad station will be largely used, as it directly adjoins the property. A new railroad station, of picturesque design, is to be erected at Biltmore by Mr. George W. Vanderbilt, Kenilworth Inn Co., and R and D Railroad Co. Guests arriving here will be driven up the Swannanoa river road, a few hundred feet to the main entrance, which is defined by two massive stone gate posts, six feet in diameter, and ten feet high. Here the macadam road, which is nearly completed, begins and winds up through one of the most picturesque ravines in this mountain country, and around the hillside in front of the hotel, under a massive stone portico. (Buncombe county needs fifty miles of just such road.) Upon entering Kenilworth Inn the rotunda is found to be of large size, without a column, desk or news-stand. The offices and news-stand open to the rotunda from one side, being convenient, but not too prominent. Upon the first floor there is also a large music hall, two parlors, ladies' billiard room, gents' writing and reading room, eight large cozy dining rooms, with kitchen and serving rooms of liberal dimensions. The kitchen is entirely separated from the rest of the building, and is but one story high, thoroughly ventilated. There are nearly 200 rooms in the house. Upon the fourth floor there is an octagon reading and writing room for the ladies, having an area of over 12,000 cubic feet. In the top of the octagon tower is a sun parlor with an area of 15,000 cubic feet, thirty large windows, fire place, and steam heat, and upon which the sun shines from sunrise to sunset. Kenilworth Inn is well lighted by electricity, has elevator, billiard rooms, bowling alley, livery and all known conveniences and means for recreation and pleasure. Over eighty rooms are connected with private baths, while there are public baths and private closets upon each floor for both men and women. The boiler house and dynamos, as well as laundry, are located some distance from the building. The entire first floor is wainscotted six feet high in quartered oak. The general finish of the interior is all hard wood, natural finish and is largely of oak. The unusual weather of the past winter completely stopped the work of construction, but mechanics are now being put on as materials are coming in freely. The buildings will be completed about May 1st, but will not be opened to guests until July 1st. Many guests from New York, Philadelphia and Boston are arranging to spend the coming summer at Kenilworth Inn. Visitors are not permitted in the building as much damage has been the result of it in the past. The Macadam road is now opened and pleasure vehicles and saddle horses are permitted to drive through the grounds to the Swannanoa river. The most select orchestra in the United States has been engaged for the season. It is a hotel of which any country can well boast, and its management will be such to insure entire satisfaction. Electric cars will soon connect this city with Kenilworth Inn. THE DEMOCRAT is indebted to Dr. Browning, the accomplished manager, for the use of the above cut of this very beautiful building.

COL. H. C. HUNT RETURNS.

Complimentary Resolutions.

We were pleased to meet Col. H. C. Hunt on our streets, who has just returned from California, where he went on government business. In answer to our enquiry as to the business he was called upon to perform, he said:

President Harrison appointed Messrs. D. W. Shyock of Pennsylvania, John W. Lewis of Kentucky, and myself, a commission to go to Round Valley, California, to appraise certain lands which were situated within one of the Indian reservations, but which have been occupied by whites and improved by the latter. There are about 1,000 acres involved. The object of the government is to get the whites off, so the Indians can have these lands and be by themselves. Our instructions were that should our appraisal be approved by the Secretary of the Interior, he would tender the money, and if not accepted he would send a military force and move the whites off their own land. After this work was completed we were further instructed to select a reasonable amount of grazing and timber lands. There are over one hundred thousand acres in this reservation, over five thousand of which are the finest grazing and timber lands I ever saw.

When the three commissioners met in Washington preparatory to going to work the other commissioners were not then ready to proceed West, so we agreed to meet in San Francisco on the 20th of December last. Mr. Shyock and myself were there at the appointed time, but in the meantime Mr. Lewis had declined the appointment. Mr. S. and myself were then ordered to proceed to Round Valley and wait until the third commissioner should come. While waiting about four weeks for the third commissioner we devoted ourselves to examining the situation, and ascertaining the wishes of the people. We could not have been treated better by any people. Mr. S. and myself agreed on a line for the reservation, which would have been satisfactory to both the whites and the Indians, but when Mr. Luther R. Smith, of the Interior Department, who was appointed the third commissioner, arrived, he and the Indian Agent proceeded to enlarge the boundary line beyond that agreed upon by Mr. S. and myself, which was adopted against my protest. The people held indignation meetings, protesting against this act of the commissioners, and went so far as to burn the agent in effigy. The people also adopted the following:

RESOLUTIONS COMPLIMENTARY TO COL. H. C. HUNT.
COVELO, February 25, 1891.
Col. H. C. Hunt—Dear Sir: The citizens of Round Valley take pleasure in presenting to you, with their compliments, a resolution adopted by them at a meeting held in the town of Covelo on Monday evening, February 18, 1891:

RESOLUTION.
That we have only words of praise and commendation for the dignified and intelligent attitude assumed by Colonel Hunt, and hope that no words derogatory to him will be used in this matter. Again, at a meeting held Monday evening, February 23d, the following was adopted:

RESOLUTION.

That it must be distinctly understood that in all our words of censure and condemnation for the action of this commission we make an exception of Colonel Hunt, who has shown himself firm in his integrity and convictions of right, and proven himself worthy of our highest confidence, respect and esteem.

H. S. LOVELL, Chairman.
W. HENLEY, Secretary.
We are pleased to publish these resolutions in justice to our townsman. Col. Hunt says he enjoyed his trip. The country is a fine one, and filled with good people. He was glad to get back to his Carolina mountain home, however.
