

OUR MACON LETTER.

A Variety of Information. JENKINS MILLS, N. C., Aug. 8th, 1891. DEAR DEMOCRAT: Remembering our promise for a better show in the future we are again culling the field for more "news items."

The past few weeks of this unusually quiet section have not been very productive of sensationals, but still we have an occasional breeze. For the present everything seems to be adjusting itself to the old channels, and the routine of business happenings continues to take its regular order with but slight fluctuations.

Our public schools are now being taught and the average butterfly chaser finds his time very much employed in gathering a few ideas that are to characterize his life in the coming years of the uncertain future and point him out as an intelligent, upright and useful citizen in his community, or relegate him to that already greatly swollen list of happy-go-lucky drones that, so far as anything they do is concerned, generally leave the world no better than they found it and would have been as well off not to have been at all.

Well, this is sure a fast world we live in. Mr. T. F. Henry, one of Anson county's best citizens, is on a visit to relatives and friends in this (Macon) county. It is asserted by "Conic Cue" in the Franklin Press that he is "much pleased with the mountains of Western North Carolina, but more so with the Belles."

Mr. Henry is a brother of Capt. W. F. Henry, well known in this section, and we would be pleased to know of his finding sufficient attractions here to hold him among us. We have a lot of the prettiest girls in the world whether he finds them or not. Respectfully yours, CARLYLE.

Some inaccuracies having crept into the demands of the Supreme Council at Ocala, as copied into the press, the following is taken from the minutes published by authority, as being reliable. Quite often the seventh demand has been omitted: 1a. We demand the abolition of national banks.

season seems to trace its origin to a wedding that was to have taken place on last Thursday evening in this community. It seems that a fellow had courted his best girl successfully and the license was bought and placed in her hands as evidence of his full intention to consummate the marriage deal. Calling on her the night before the memorable day, he asked her for the license to place in magistrates hands, who he claimed was to be master of ceremonies; and feeling, as women always do, that something might be wrong, she went to her trunk and folded a paper and gave it to him. He took it and on his way home tore it up and skipped before daylight for parts unknown, just as the girl felt he would do. The girl—a clever girl too—has the legal authority for the marriage in her own possession and is waiting to see what is to happen in the course of coming events.

of the people, and hence we demand that all national and State revenues shall be limited to the necessary expenses of the government economically and honestly administered. 6. We demand the most rigid, honest and just State and national governmental control and supervision of the means of public communication and transportation, and if this control and supervision does not remove the abuse now existing, we demand the government ownership of such means of communication and transportation.
