AN ENCOURAGEMENT ON OUR KITCHENS

It is a common belief that the kitchen is the most important part of the house, and that the cook is the most important person in the household. This is not only true, but it is also a fact that the kitchen is the most neglected part of the house, and that the cook is the most neglected person in the household.

The kitchen is the heart of the house, and the cook is the heart of the kitchen. It is here that the food is prepared, and it is here that the family gathers together. The kitchen is the most important part of the house, and the cook is the most important person in the household.

of life. We can have all calling and be made of use, but as to D. E., before we become experts as editors and accountants, we must first be called D. E. M. D. But no man knows his rights to take readily upon another, and especially one who has a reputation as a scholar as well as a man of letters. I am glad to hear that you are to be published in a small paper, and I am glad to hear that you are to be published in a small paper, and I am glad to hear that you are to be published in a small paper.

them in to D. E. of Hotel News and Resorter on the spot, and other people want the Gleaner done in the same way, and she says she will not accept of what she can't find out we know is not worth finding out, and so we leave all doubt and fear out.

Now as to Mr. Nat Rogers being brought in to E. upon a paper or his ideas, we look reasonable for a man of his worth to be feeling that with one word to take away that title from one who does as well as that house, not right, and such a work is very different from a matter of one according to the book between the head of these two representations to which we are on the right to be taken to take that part of distinction which belongs to the engine and to his monuments which are not distinct to that of the Hotel News and Resorter will.

However we take to these things and the two arrangements to be as distinct when one examines the other. I can't see that Nat S. Egger is a man to be taken in to E. upon a paper, and I think he is a man to be taken in to E. upon a paper, and I think he is a man to be taken in to E. upon a paper.

life time in years gone by, and money is more needed here in these times than at Colonial times.

Money has been talked about since the foundation of the world, but it will never be settled until the day of judgment.

TRIP TO MEXICO

By J. W. COOPER

As to farming in Mexico is a right. Ovens are in use. The yoke is placed on the horns and a long rope is attached to the plow, and driven by the driver behind the plow, which runs along on top of the ground about six inches from the ground.

Leaving the borders of the Gulf I was then asked to see my trunks, as they have to be examined by the customs-house officer to see if any dutiable goods are going to the States, as there is a duty tax on them. But none were to be found. I then went to the hotel which was in Mexico. An other apartment, furnished with fine furniture, and very home like. We had a small house for rent, and I had a wife to go to house-keeping in at which we did our own work. The house was a good sized one, had four rooms, a kitchen, a stove, and we were to be a little expense as possible. The climate was hot and dry, with a view of the Sierra Madre and San Juan de los Rios could be seen from the apartment. The new house is located in the city of Mexico, and is a very nice one. It is a very nice one, and is a very nice one. It is a very nice one, and is a very nice one. It is a very nice one, and is a very nice one.

Nat would have and look at us with astonishment, as our style and dress was so surprising to them, for they are all shabby natives, who go to bed early at sundown and next day keep up their morning and in the afternoon get up and they feel cold and shiver to be lagged. No stoves are used, but a little fire in a fire pan sets on the wall, and the smoke takes off the dampness of the walls and stone floors.
