ELECTION SNAP-SHOTS.

How Some Witty Editors View the Avalanche.

Atlanta Constitution.
There must have been a whalin' big crop of "floaters" this year.

Don't try to "analyze" the returns. They won't bear analysis.

Endure it a little longer. The editorial explanations are about all in.

Reckon the democratic party has another reorganization coming to it.

The war in the Orient is much more interesting than American politics, anyhow.

Standard oil advances. Now is the time to recoup campaign contribution losses.

However, Judge Parker will note that Tom Watson carried his own home county.

The spirit of democracy still lives, though the hearts that cherish it are in the minority.

If you know of any state of the union which, by any reasonable possibility, can be classed as "doubtful," please name it. It may break the fall some.

When it came to a voting show down Steve Elkins couldn't stand for his father in law, and he seems to have voted West Virginia in blocks of five hundred.

The labor vote elected Douglas, democrat, governor of Massachusetts in the face of a tremendous plurality for Roosevelt. This is about the only lucid interval exhibited by the labor vote.

Charlotte Observer.
About the only consolation people down this way can find is the statement of the president that he will not stand for re-election.

Chairman-Senator Simmons also performed his duty, and performed it like a man who knows how. No fault can be found with his management of the campaign in North Carolina.

The prophet of evil is never a welcome guest, but it had just as well be said, by way of preparation of our people for what is to come, that with as strenuous a man as Mr. Roosevelt in the white house for the next four years, with a senate and house each about two-thirds republican, the south, the only hostile section, may look out for rough sledding.

C. J. Harris, the republican candidate for governor, was very properly defeated, as he knew he would be, but in going up and down in the state he made a good impression upon the people he met: He is not an orator, but a business man, and in his personal contact with people he knows how to bear himself. He missed the governorship by about 50,000, but has more friends than he ever had before. Mr. Harris is a northern man of means who settled in the mountains of North Carolina about fifteen years ago, and is bringing things to pass up there. He should not be deceived, either, because he is a "foreigner" or because he was the republican candidate for governor. He is exactly the type of men that we need to come to North Carolina to make homes and establish businesses. If they left their bad politics behind them so much the better. But let that pass.

Raleigh Post.
The shouting spell will not last as long as the campaign.

Tom Watson didn't even rise to the dignity of a fly in the ointment.

There was such an avalanche of it that there has been no room for shouting.

The silent vote made noise enough at last to relieve all anxiety as to its lung power.

For comfort the North Carolina democrats are busy reading the returns from home, which are all to the good.

We hope Mr. Bryan will not talk too much about it, as he has already had two runs at the thing while Mr. Parker has had only one.

As a sensational performer on the homestretch the silent vote is entitled to the blue ribbon. It got in under the wire ahead of everything.

The strife is not all over yet, for there'll be plenty of candidates for clerks and pages in the legislature, and more candidates for janitor than there were for president of the United States.

We trust the leaders of the various factions will not charge the defeat to each other. It would be unseemly to blame anybody, as the whole bunch was licked to a finish and all should take the medicine prescribed.

New York World.
No postponement of Thanksgiving on account of the avalanche.

New York wins anyway. She has once more succeeded in electing a New Yorker president.

The man who "voted for Parker just to keep down the Roosevelt majority" is in great force today.

It looks as if somebody had pulled the tail feathers out of the Brooklyn Eagle's gift of prophecy.

Not even a landslide removes the necessity for an opposition. The first democratic duty, after taking the returns gracefully, is to "get together" for next time.

The contributors and the disbursers of the republican campaign fund ought to be sorry that so much money was wasted. Apparently they could have won without it.

Five vice-presidents have succeeded to the presidency by the deaths of their superiors. Theodore Roosevelt has the distinction of being the only one of them to be elected president on his own account.

It is seldom that an event disseminates such widespread satisfaction as was furnished by the result of Tuesday's election. The pope liked it, the kaiser liked it, the English newspapers liked it, the republicans liked it, Tom Watson liked it and the president was "de-lighted."

Washington Post.
The next crush will be at the pie counter.

We hope that Dr. Swallow's defeat will not drive him to drink.

After all, there does not seem to have been any doubtful states.

"They could not have done worse if they had tried me."—W. R. Hearst.

You will probably be able to recognize a landslide the next time you see one.

The railroad company may now remove its extra sidetracks from the station at Esopus.

New York democrats have the consolation of knowing the subway is open and handy.

It is probably a toss-up between Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Bryan as to which is the happier in his vindication.

President Roosevelt may be thrown occasionally by a horse, but he evidently knows how to ride the elephant, all right.

It is only fair to call attention to the fact that most of the democratic leaders predicted that there would be surprises in the vote.

Republican managers still insist that they did not have as much money as usual for campaign purposes. They did not need any.

York state farmers report a remarkable scarcity of turkeys suitable for the Thanksgiving trade. It does not matter so much this year, as a lot of us are going to eat crow, anyway.

The New York Herald estimates that the campaign cost $22,500,000. Much of that might have been saved by a joint debate between Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Parker, with a stiff admission price.

Raleigh News and Observer.
The Greensboro Record has discovered that money "votes" as well as "talks."

Only eighteen votes were cast in Wake county for Watson electors. That was eighteen too many.

It is said that Governor Odell won three hundred thousand dollars on the national result. Isn't it a disgusting spectacle to see the governor of a great state resorting to betting?

It is very small business to be denouncing northern democrats. There are thousands of democrats in every northern state who are second to none in loyalty and patriotism and it is silly to denounce them for the avalanche.

Asheville Citizen.
Refugee Taylor, who is hiding from justice in Indiana, must be smiling these days.

A straw vote taken in Mexico

City shows a majority for Roosevelt. Turnpike has yet to be heard from.

Owing to censored telegraphic dispatches we are unable to say whether or not Judge Parker took his "regular" morning plunge.

Last night's dispatches announce the first snow in Nebraska and Missouri. We thought "the beautiful" fell in those states Tuesday night.

Missouri having gone republican, President Roosevelt has decided that it is an auspicious time to visit the St. Louis fair. How the bands will play!

No sweeter morsel of comfort has come over the wires than the announcement last night that Peabody, the republican governor of Colorado, had met his Waterloo.

Taint no use to sit down and whine when no fish get tangled on your line; Bait your hook with a bumble bee, and keep on taking Rocky Mountain Tea.

Under municipal ownership and central management of British tramways it is thought the trolley system of England will be enormously increased. With a cheap and expeditious means of conveyance between producer and consumer the English people expect that much of the food-stuff now obtained from abroad may be replaced by that produced at home.

Not a Sick Day Since.
"I was taken severely sick with kidney trouble. I tried all sorts of medicines, none of which relieved me. One day I saw an ad. of your Electric Bitters and determined to try that. After taking a few doses I felt relieved, and soon thereafter was entirely cured, and have not seen a sick day since. Neighbors of mine have been cured of rheumatism, neuralgia, liver and kidney troubles and general debility." This is what B. F. Bass, of Fremont, N. C., writes. Only 50c at all druggists.

It is proposed to introduce into Denmark the whipping post for thugs. Several might be erected in San Francisco and used to advantage, for according to Gen. Greene and the press of that city, the town is infested with thugs. Not long since one of these detestable creatures murdered a young Washington lawyer while on his way to Manila.

The president of Ann Arbor University, who has 3,000 students under his observation, has come to the conclusion that their morals average better than among the same number of young people who are not in college.
