Buggies by the Car Load

Now is the time to buy a GOOD BUGGY at a right price.

Cash or Time as you wish

I HAVE 21 BUGGIES

for you to select from. Come now and get the opening price. I have them as low as $50 and as high as $100. Remember that we are with you and that when we guarantee a buggy to you, you may be sure that we will live up to that agreement.

You can have an open runabout or a top carriage. Come at once and get your choice—don't wait till the best ones are all gone.

You can get an end-spring or side-spring buggy. Some have red gears, others black.

Here is a partial list of what you will find in our new store in Picklesimer Building:

- | | |
|--|---|
| Axes 65 and 70c. | Nails, Staples, Screws, etc. |
| Mattocks 60 and 75c. | Axle Grease in small cases or pails. |
| Picks 50c. | Try our Washing Machine; if it fails to do the work return it. |
| Handles 12 to 20c. | Paper Roofing $1.75 per square. |
| Trace Chains 45 and 50c. | We have a car load of buggies coming—wait for them before you buy. |
| Potato Hooks 45c to 65c. | Buy that Disc Plow now. We have sold twenty in the county; that shows that they must be all right—$25. |
| Scythes 60 to 75c. | |
| Snathes 45c. | |
| Forks 40c.—Acme 70c. | |
| Ditching Shovels 70c, long or short handles. | |
| Game Traps $1.50 per dozen. | |

You need a GRAIN DRILL; pay part this and the rest next year $70 and $75.

We have a DISC CULTIVATOR

and a few other tools left. Buy now and save the new price next year. All tools will cost more next year.

We want that order for FENCE.

You know that our fence cannot be BEAT. Give us the order now then we will be sure to have what you want.

We still have a little Barb Wire at $2.50 per roll.

The sheds in the rear of our store are for your use; all that we ask is that when we have things you want let us name a price and then if not right you are welcome to go elsewhere. You do not place yourself under any obligations in using these sheds.

I want to see you.

Terrapin.
Terrapin begin laying about the middle of May and hatch in about thirty days. The female terrapin scratches a hole in the sand with her fore paws, deposits her eggs, from thirteen to nineteen, in it and then covers them up and leaves the heat of the sun on the sand to hatch out the young terrapins. They are not much bigger when hatched than a man's thumb nail and are as soft as dough. They crawl around pretty lively and begin to hunt for their food, consisting of small fish, crabs, etc. The first summer they are quite small, and about the first to the middle of November they go into their winter quarters. These consist of some soft mudhole in the marsh or on the bottom of some stream. Here they sleep until about the middle of April or later, when they come out and are of quite respectable size, say four inches in breadth. The next year they are six inches and the third seven inches in breadth. It is undoubtedly while the terrapin slumbers in the mud that he acquires the peculiar qualities for which we admire him. It is the only flesh known which one can crush in his mouth with his tongue without the aid of his teeth. The other animals run about, sleeping only at night. The terrapin sleeps night and day for six or seven months of the year and takes his night naps, too, for the balance of the year.—Baltimore Sun.

Pen Portrait of Grieg.
Here is as vivid a picture of Grieg, the man as any that has yet been drawn. A correspondent who saw the noted Scandinavian composer when he received his honorary degree at Cambridge, in England, in 1894, makes it for the Manchester Guardian: "It was a sad and a strong face that we saw, one might almost have said a grim face, but that there was nothing of hardness in it, a face which must have inspired both respect and affection in all who met him. Yet as the little, old looking man stood there in the red and yellow gown of a doctor of music there was something incongruous about his appearance, the head, encircled with long, straight, white hair, appearing above the still stiffer, straighter lines of gaudy brocaded silk, which descended to the ground in the form of a regular cone, and the smile of one visitor, who remarked that they made him look just like a penwiper, was irresistibly accurate."

Beer Capacity of a Munich Porter.
An English family touring in Bavaria called at the world famous Hofbrauhaus, the pride of Munich, writes our correspondent. To the waitress serving them the head of the family in a matter of fact way simply held up his five fingers. To the family's astonishment, the waitress came back with five quart pots filled to the brim with beer. The visitors bravely struggled with the beer, but managed to dispose of only about a quart between them. Knowing that it would be considered an insult to leave beer, they called a porter and ordered him to finish it. In less time than it takes to relate it the Bavarian accomplished the task. Wiping his mustache, he demanded sixpence for the "job" and, having obtained the money, instantly ordered and emptied yet another quart pot.—London Mail.

A Waiter's Amazing Wail.
The waiter spoke indignantly. "Men go about," he said, "complaining of being mistook for waiters, but it is on the other foot really that the shoe rests. Us waiters are the real complainants in these cases of mistaken identity. Our kicks are sincere. The others' ring false. For at dances and balls and such like crushes many a young man makes money by being mistook for a waiter. How does he make money? Why, he is tipped, and all them tips he pockets, never thinking of handing them over to their rightful owners. At every big affair we count on a loss of 5 per cent through the dishonest advantage that impetuous young swells take of being mistook for waiters."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Sav: Sense of Humor.
Lecturing on New Guinea, A. H. Dunning said he once offered a native some smelling salts. After going through extraordinary contortions the native went away, returning soon with another native, whom he compelled to make acquaintance with the salts. The two brought a third, and so on until the whole village had been victimized. The savages watched each new sufferer with the keenest delight and took good care not to let him know what fate awaited him.—London Standard.

Gold is Everywhere.
Gold can most profitably be extracted from certain mines where the ore is rich and not too difficult to work, but should these deposits ever peter out there is no fear that the world would suffer for lack of a gold supply, for there are many other sources which are as yet untouched, but for working which profitable methods would be devised if need were. Granite, for example, contains an appreciable quantity of gold, and if it were not under present conditions too expensive a matter to extract it we should find Scotland and Cornwall rivaling the Transvaal and the Klondike. The sea also contains gold in solution, and the man who invents a cheap method of getting it out will make himself richer than all the millionaires that ever lived. Gold is also constantly falling all over the surface of the world, blown to us in minute quantities along with cosmic dust, which comes from interstellar space.—Black and White.

Easily Stated.
A committee having in charge a local entertainment went to a noted editor to request him to take part in it. "What do you want me to do, gentlemen?" he asked. "We would like to have you give us a talk on spelling reform," they replied. "Well," he rejoined, "I can give you my idea of spelling reform in one sentence. Just leave 'me' off the 'programme'."

A Working Majority.
"You can fool all of the people some of the time and some of the people all of the time. But"— "Why go further?" interrupted Senator Sniffkins. "The two classes you have named constitute a safe working majority."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

An Amusing Slip.
A well known temperance lecturer who is an ardent advocate of prohibiting the public sale of liquors was coming dramatic over the ideal conditions prevailing in a certain prohibition town. "I am sure all who are present will agree with me," he concluded, sinking his voice to an impressive whisper, "when I tell you that during a stay of over two months I saw but one drunken man—a most refreshing sight!"—Buffalo Times.
