BREVARD, NORTH CAROLINA, FRIDAY, APRIL 16, 1915.

NUMBER—16

SUPERIOR COURT

The regular spring term of the Superior court for Transylvania county convened promptly Monday morning with Judge B. F. Long presiding and Solicitor Michael Schank prosecuting for the state. The routine of organizing was carried through with great dispatch and in thirty-five minutes the grand jury had been selected and empanelled and the judge had started delivering his charge. A number of citizens seemed loath to serve on the jury and after hearing the various excuses only those who were sick or had sick folks at home were turned loose.

The grand jury chosen for this term is as follows: C. M. Cooke, Jr., foreman, J. W. Burns, J. H. Osteen, S. L. Barnett, C. M. Lance, W. R. Merrell, M. A. Gillespie, B. R. Ledbetter, J. P. Whitmore, W. J. Ray, W. G. McCall, Caleb Shipman, E. M. Corn, C. N. Kitchen, J. E. Glazener, C. E. Hogsett, W. J. Raines, J. M. Southern.

McL. Hamilton was sworn in as older of the grand jury, and an order for fifty cents was granted Leon English, Jr., for services in drawing the grand jurors.

Judge Long's charge to the grand jury was for the most part an outline of the duties of the jurors in investigating the various violations of the law and the departments of the county government. In view of the fact that there are three murder cases set for trial at this term special attention was given to this subject.

The matter of retailing and liquor shipments was also touched upon and the judge declared there is nothing people will swear lies about more readily than liquor. Upon being informed that Transylvania has a law absolutely prohibiting the shipment of whisky into the county, the judge declared that the grand jurors and all others would have to stand by cold water, but that if anyone liked his water warm or hot that it would be all right. The grand jury was instructed to keep all matters coming before them a secret for the rest of their lives, and to investigate the records in the clerk's office to see if the guardians of orphan children have made annual report of their trust as required by law.

After the various preliminaries had been attended to, the case of State v. Clarence Norton was called. This was an appeal from the judgment of the recorder, and upon motion of counsel for the defendant the judgment of the recorder was affirmed, the costs of appeal to be taxed by the clerk.

In pursuance of a former judgment of the Superior court Clyde McCall showed good behavior and the case was finally dismissed.

In the case of State v. Baxter Wilkins, which was an appeal by Hallilloeay from the recorder's court in a suit to be excused from the payment of the costs, the appeal was dismissed and defendant Galloway taxed with the costs.

In State v. Oscar Welchans charged with bigamy, it developed that Welchans had married in Hartford, Conn., in 1910, after bringing his wife to this state where they became separated. About one month ago he married another woman without first informing about getting a divorce. The jury returned a verdict of guilty and the sentence of the court was that he work on the roads of the county for four years.

The case of State v. George Hutchison, colored, grew out of the fact that George insisted upon being allowed to vote in an election of a pastor of his church while under discipline, contrary to the rules of order laid down by the brethren. George proved a good character, however, and was turned loose with the payment of $100 in costs.

H. Hodnick, H. Hucker and B. E. Whit will not be tried for their lives for the murder of B. S. McDonald, who was found dead in Davidson River last fall. The grand jury failed to return a true bill, and therefore unless some new evidence comes to light the defendants will not be molested again.

In the case of State vs. George Beddingfield, charged with seduction under promise of marriage, the state allowed a plea of nolo contendere on condition that the defendant pay the prosecutrix $200 in cash and certain expenses as well as all court costs. The defendant was given until Saturday morning to arrange for the payment of the money.

State vs. W. H. Summey, trespass, was an appeal from the recorder's court, where a fine of ten dollars and costs had been taxed. The judge ruled the action out of court after hearing one witness and taxed Rev. W. C. Boren with all costs in the case. Upon motion of the attorney for Mr. Boren he will be given opportunity to show cause why he should not be taxed with the costs in the case.

State vs. Thurman Ball, disturbing religious worship, continued. Defendant to give $200 bond.

State vs. John and Mary Morgan and Dill Cash, affray. Not pros as to Mary. Dill to pay $5 and half the costs and John to pay $10 and half the costs.

State vs. C. B. and Robert Glazener, retailing. Not true bill.

State vs. Pete Price, assault, not guilty. In this case the court took exception to the verdict, declaring that in his opinion the prisoner was guilty.

State vs. John D. and Mary Galway, obstructing road, not a true bill.

State vs. A. P. Davis, larceny, in this case the defendant had been cleared of the charge in the recorder's court and the appeal was taken by J. C. Gibbs, the prosecuting witness, from the payment of the costs. In the higher court Gibbs was called and failed and taxed with the costs of the appeal as well as the costs in the lower court.

State vs. Will Allison, retailing, continued for the state.

In the two cases against Jell Glazener, charged with passing worthless checks, the grand jury failed to present a true bill in one and after hearing the evidence the jury declared him not guilty in the other.

In the case of State vs. E. D. Owen, charged with perjury, the grand jury refused to present a true bill and the defendant was discharged.

J. W. Owen, charged with trespass, was turned loose by the grand jury, sufficient excuse for this not being found.

In the case of Vester Kemp, who was charged with a criminal act of a very serious nature, the jury declared him guilty and he is sentenced to serve on the roads of the county for a term of six years.

In this case the question of the age of defendant was factor, the law deeming he was more than one year old.

As a result of the examination of the defendant he was found to be under age.

Miss Caroline Trowbridge returned Saturday night from Asheville, where she had been spending a few days after the play.

A number of our young people took advantage of the fine weather on Monday afternoon to go on a picnic to Mount Surprise. They returned laden with trailing arbutus.

Frank Dillard went home for a few days' rest after the play. Mr. Dillard deserves special commendation, not only for his fine work as Orlando, but from the fact that he was really ill to take his part, but stayed with it rather than break up the cast, as it was too late to coach any one else in the part.

The chorus for the Rose Maiden is rehearsing four times a week, and the cantata is working up in splendid shape.

INSTITUTE NOTES

Miss Hortense Lowe has been called home temporarily by the illness of her mother, who lives in Gastonia. We hope that she will soon return to us. Miss Lowe impersonated the "Representative of Hymen" in "As You Like It" in the last scene. By some oversight her name did not appear on the program. Miss Lowe gave a clear and excellent rendition of the part, and in her white robes and laurel wreath and harp made an effective addition to the final tableau.

The series of meetings closed on Saturday, as Rev. J. P. Rodgers had to be at home for Sunday services. Much interest was evinced and a number of conversions ensued from his ministrations, which were greatly appreciated by all who heard him.

Miss Caroline Trowbridge returned Saturday night from Asheville, where she had been spending a few days after the play.

A number of our young people took advantage of the fine weather on Monday afternoon to go on a picnic to Mount Surprise. They returned laden with trailing arbutus.

STATE NEWS

Declaring that while there was only one voice raised against a pardon for James Wilcox, murderer of Neil Croxby, at Elizabeth City, but that voice was from a mother's heart, always consistent, and with justice on her side, constituting a majority opposition, Governor Locke Craig last Monday refused to grant him a pardon. Wilcox has served twelve years of a thirty years sentence.

In the city election held in Charlotte on Tuesday, Col. Thomas Kirkpatrick won the nomination for mayor by a majority of fifty-eight votes. The nomination on the democratic ticket is considered as good as an election.

Misses Lella Fleming and Ethel Gardner, two young ladies from Wilson, are the winners of the state high school debate, they having defeated Messrs. Stewart Cowles and Cowles Bristow, of Statesville, at Chapel Hill last Friday night. A large number of representatives from the various high schools of the state participated in the contest, the subject being the ship subsidy question.

GENERAL NEWS

No sooner had the German battleship Prinz Eitel Friedrich been interned in American waters than another German commerce destroyer, the Kronprinz Wilhelm, came into the same port with a record of seventeen enemy ships sent to "Davy Jones locker." The Wilhelm is badly in need of repairs, experts finding that the boat is leaky and the boilers are in bad shape. Before the ship was allowed to go into dry dock, her commander, Capt. Thierfelder, was required to make formal application for the repairs his ship required. Although five English and French war vessels were supposed to be just outside the Virginia Capes the Kronprinz Wilhelm succeeded in eluding her enemies.

Secretary of the Treasury McCook and Comptroller of the Currency Williams are charged by the Riggs National Bank of Washington with conspiring to wreck that institution. The bill of indictment contains thirty-seven specific charges to show that the officials are guilty of illegal tactics.

GRAND JURY'S REPORT

To the Hon. B. F. Long, Judge Presiding Spring Term Superior Court:

We, the grand jury sitting at this term of court, do herewith submit to you the following report of the work done by our body.

We have examined the court house, jail, county home and the convict camp, and also the guardian's report in the office of the clerk of the court, and a report on each item is hereby set out.

Court House—We find the condition of court house inside very good, the court room and offices of the various county officers are well kept, and the books and records seem to be well taken care of. We think, however, that the windows should be kept in a clean condition. We find that the court house grounds are not kept as neatly as should be, and we suggest that all trash, tin cans, etc., should be cleaned away and that the same should be kept away in the future.

County Jail—We have visited the jail in a body and after a thorough examination of same are convinced that the jailor is doing as well as could be done under the circumstances. We are of the opinion that the present jail is not safe for the keeping of prisoners, poorly ventilated, unsanitary, and in such condition generally that it would be useless to attempt to repair same, and we are of the opinion that it would be wise for the county to abandon the present building altogether, and take steps to erect at once a new, modern and well equipped jail.

County Home—The following members of the grand jury as a committee, namely, J. P. Whitmore, J. H. Osteen, C. E. Hedges make the following report: Condition of the property generally good, and the inmates properly fed and clothed, but both buildings are in need of coveting as they are both looking badly, and this committee recommends that they be covered at once, and also plastering repaired at the same time.

Convict Camp—The following committee visited the convict camp, namely, W. J. Raines, B. R. Ledbetter and S. L. Barnett, and make the following report: The general condition of the camp is good, the prisoners well clothed and fed, the camp appeared to be clean, except the bed clothes, which are, we think, filthy and should be washed, and the mattresses are also in bad condition and should be repaired or replaced by new ones.
