BREVARD, NORTH CAROLINA, FRIDAY, JUNE 4, 1915.

NUMBER—23

GENERAL NEWS

Last week closed with more reports of submarine activity and fresh movements of the powers of the air. Wherever the British navy takes itself there also find their way the dreaded submarines of Germany. On May 27 the oldest battleship of the British navy, the Majestic, which was of the fleet supporting the allied attack on the Turkish positions at the Dardanelles, went to the bottom as the result of a blow from a German submarine. The officers and crew were nearly all saved. The Majestic was the sixth battleship lost by the allies since the beginning of the Dardanelles operations.

Not long after the sinking of the Norwegian steamer Minerva, recorded in last week's news, the American ship, the Nebeskan, was disabled by a mine or torpedo. The ship had but lately left Liverpool and was sailing near the Irish coast. Precaution had been taken to have her name and nationality printed in plain letters on her sides. The vessel was badly damaged, but taken safely back to Liverpool. Her commander, Captain Greene, declared his belief that the work of destruction was done by a submarine.

Almost coincident with the disasters above mentioned came news of a Zeppelin raid over the coast of England. This time the bombs found human targets, one woman being killed and several persons being injured. English aeroplanes rose to intercept the enemy but were out-distanced in the aerial fight.

Germany's reply to the American protest after the sinking of the Lusitania was delivered to Ambassador Gerard at Berlin May 27. No specific answer was given to American representatives concerning the sinking of the Lusitania and the discontinuance of the present methods of submarine warfare. Germany expressed regret for tactics on American vessels, which which were said to be unintentional, compensation was offered in cases where Germany could be shown to be at fault, and references to the Hague for disputed cases was suggested. No positive statements in regard to negotiations concerning the Lusitania case were made, but the question was asked what steps the United States had taken to induce Great Britain to depart from its policy of cutting off food supplies from Germany provided Germany would abandon submarine attacks on merchant ships.

Proposed, the fortress in Gallipoli taken by the Russians several weeks ago, is in turn besieged by the Austrians and Germans. Desperate efforts have been made recently by the Turkish allies to surround the fortress and cut off its communications, and equally desperate resistance has been shown by the Russians, making that part of Gallipoli again the center of interest.

The British steamer Drexler, bound from Savannah, Ga., to Swansea, Wales, was torpedoed by a German submarine May 29 near the Welsh coast. The captain and crew were landed at Cardiff. The vessel was carrying a cargo of cotton and steel billets. The captain's story of the disaster was that the submarine resorted to the trick of hoisting a sail and thus leading the Drexler to think it was a harmless sailing vessel.

Cases of great importance are up before the Supreme court of the United States this week, after a recess of two weeks. A series of cases involving the constitutionality of the "grandfather clause" in the constitution of the several southern states will be under consideration. The question of the constitutionality of the Webb-Kenyon liquor law also awaits the decision of the Supreme court.

BAPTIST CONFERENCE

The Baptist Conference of church and Sunday School workers of the churches composing the Transylvania Association held with the Zion Baptist church at Rosman Friday, Saturday and Sunday of last week was very interesting and helpful to all interested in the Master's work.

The conference was called to order at 2:45 p. m. Friday by Rev. J. N. Lee, the local pastor. Revs. C. C. Duckworth and A. J. Corn led in prayer. Some of the well-known hymns were sung and one of them was rendered on the violin by Miss Johnson of Birmingham, while her sister played the accompaniment on the organ. Rev. A. W. McDaniel conducted devotional exercises, reading a part of the 11th Chapter of John.

Rev. J. E. Barnard, D. D., of Asheville, made the first address on the subject "Wisdom in location of a house of worship." This address was an able and practical one and was, doubtless, called forth by the fact that the Rosman church house was so located that the church can never grow large. He stressed the fact that a church building should always be in a prominent and easily accessible location. Both experience and observation had proven to him that no poorly located church ever prospers greatly.

This address was followed by one by Rev. A. W. McDaniel on the subject of "Fishing" in which he endeavored to show from scripture that no Christian should give less than a tenth of his income to Christian work. He related several examples illustrating how God had blessed individuals financially who had adopted the scriptural plan.

The evening session began at 8:15. Devotional exercises were held including singing of favorite old-time hymns and the rendering of "Savior Thy Dying Love" by Miss Johnson on the violin. Mr. T. C. Henderson, superintendent of schools, read a good paper on "Christian Education." Dr. Barnard then preached an excellent sermon on "The Ten Commandments." This sermon was a very able one and helpful and was delivered in a fine spirit. Another solo, "Almost Persuaded," was given by Miss Johnson which was so well appreciated that the audience gave a rising vote of thanks for the visit of herself and sister who are teaching music in Brevard.

Saturday morning Rev. A. J. Corn conducted the devotional hour and was chosen chairman of the conference. The songs sung were "How Firm a Foundation," "Happy Day" and "Revive Us Again."

The subject of "More Efficient Sunday Schools" was discussed by T. C. Henderson. "More Efficient Missionary Methods" was briefly discussed by A. W. McDaniel in the absence of the speaker appointed. The subject of "More Efficient Pastoral Work by Grouping the Churches" was discussed by Rev. A. J. Manby. He said that the whole question of efficiency in every department of church work resolved itself into the one question of efficient pastoral service, and that that could not be had until our churches arranged to have their pastors located near the churches to which they were to preach and that could not be done only by grouping the churches. Those themes were then discussed by various speakers.

The forenoon session closed with a sermon by Rev. F. M. Jordan on "Building a New Testament Church." He will celebrate his 56th birthday next Friday. He has been a Christian for seventy years and has been a Baptist minister for more than sixty-five years and has baptized about five thousand people. He has never sworn an oath, played a game of cards, attended a theatre, entered a ball room or dance hall, or used intoxicating liquors or tobacco.

From 1:30 to 3:15 the women had possession of the house and held an interesting service. Mrs. Lee, the efficient helpmeet of the devoted pastor of the Rosman church, presiding. Mrs. W. H. Duckworth of Brevard, the vice-president of the women's missionary work of the association made a good talk on Associational missions. Mrs. G. L. Tabor read an excellent paper on Foreign Missions. Mrs. Lee, who is proving herself to be efficient in women's work, was elected secretary-treasurer of the Women's organization of the association. Miss King, of Brevard, rendered a solo which was well received.

While this meeting was being held the men held an open-air meeting concerning men's work which resulted in the decision to have another associational conference at Culler's Creek beginning Friday before the third Sunday in July and continuing until Sunday.

After the separate conferences pastor McDaniel made a talk on "What Women can do and How to do it."

A round table session followed in which various questions were asked and answered. The session was closed by a brief devotional period.

The evening session opened with devotional service followed by a good address by pastor Lee on "My part in World Evangelization." This was followed by an address by A. W. McDaniel on "Missionary Progress" in which it was shown that Mission work has been marvelously successful considering the obstacles it has had to meet.

The visitors attended the Rosman Sunday school at 9:30 a. m. and found a live interesting Sunday school. Then followed an hour in discussing the Efficient Sunday School including the Superintendent, the teacher, the pupil, the organization and the equipment. Superintendent Patton made an excellent talk and is doing good work. This was a helpful discussion and revealed the fact that we had present five ministers, three superintendents and many teachers.

At twelve o'clock a sermon was preached by Rev. A. W. McDaniel, of Brevard, on the subject "Christ's Church the greatest of all organizations." At the close pastor Lee proposed that every one who desired a better preparation for service come and extend the hand and a large number came. Another proposition brought two nature persons forward who accepted Jesus Christ as their Savior.

A birthday offering was taken for Brother Jordan. The service closed with a real revived spirit at 1:15 and all went away looking forward to the next meeting at Culler's Creek.

The Rosman church, led by their noble pastor, received the representatives of nine churches with open arms and made us feel like going again. Rev. Carpenter the pastor of the M. E. church, South, at Rosman, was present at most of the services as were also other members of other denominations.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE

The county teachers' institute will be held here this summer at the graded school building, beginning Monday, July 12, and lasting two weeks. The instructors are A. T. Allen, superintendent of the Salisbury city schools, and Miss Bernice Turner of Asheville.

The law requires the continuous attendance of all public school high school and graded school teachers, unless providentially hindered, or unless such teachers attend an accredited summer school in lieu of an institute.

Every teacher will need to have Charter's, "Teaching the Common Branches," and in addition the regular text books of the grades they intend preparing to teach.

Only One Entirely Satisfactory. —I have tried various colic and diarrhea remedies, but the only one that has given me entire satisfaction and cured me when I was afflicted is Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. I recommend it to my friends at all times," writes S. N. Galloway, Stewart, S. C. For sale by all dealers. adv
