There is now, Canada in the position of the country that with a disease not together, and until the first few years was supposed to be incurable. But a great many years after it pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly falling to cure will find it has now become an incurable disease. Since its prevention, it is a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Dr. J. J. Chas. & Co., 1030-10th St., in the City of Chicago, will treat this disease. It is fatal internally. It acts directly on the blood and various surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Proper Home Influence.

"The boy who is taken out for a stroll on a Sunday afternoon by his father," says Judge Scully, formerly of a juvenile court, "is seldom the boy who gets into trouble." Judge Scully finds, and social workers will agree with him, that the lad who is tempted to follow the downward path is the lad who is deprived of proper home influence. The fate of a family depends largely on the mother, but the father should not restrict himself to the humble though necessary position of breadwinner. In the opinion of many observers, too many boys, whose homes are fairly good in most respects, suffer from the fact that they know little about their father, and he knows little about them.
