Lost Love.

Who wins his love shall lose her, Who loses her shall gain. For still the spirit woos her, A soul without a stain; And memory still pursues her With longings not in vain!

He loses her who gams her, Who watches day by day The dust of time that stains her, The griefs that leave her gray, The flesh that yet enchains her

Whose grace hath passed away! Oh! happier he who gains not The love some seems to gain; The joy that custom stains not Shall still with him remain, The loveliness that wanes not, The love that ne'er can wane.

He dreams she grows not older The lands of dream among, Though all the world wax colder, Though all the songs be sung, In dreams loth he behold her Still fair and kind and young.

And man should bend his knee, Near by the hollow of his hand Wherein He holds the sea.

In gentler climes the place of God Lies o'er His holy day, And things that move go velvet-shod, And nature kneels to pray.

On this stern coast, wind, sea and sky Drive the wild war along, Though angels unto earth draw nigh To hear the Sabbath song.
