LOCAL DOTS.

Cotton is selling to-day at 6 1/2.

The Dispensary agitation is growing. It has its friends and its opponents.

Mr. J. W. Gregory has made some convenient improvements on the inside of his store.

Tobacco enables you to get money early in the summer. Plant some.

Mr. J. L. Thompson spent a few days in Goldsboro this week.

Don't forget to attend the Musical and Dramatic Entertainment at the Town Hall Friday night.

The public school opened again Monday after a weeks vacation on accounts of bad weather.

We learn that the trestle across Black river where Hall's logging road crosses is washed out by the freshet.

Dr. J. C. Goodwin, who has been at Benson for two weeks, will be in his office here Saturday.

The storeroom which is being fitted up for Messrs. Gainey & Jordan is now about completed and presents one of the prettiest fronts in the city.

See the advertisements of E. L. Hall, the Benson hardware dealer. He carries a big stock and makes prices that please his customers.

R. F. Smith, of Benson, has an "ad" in this issue. He makes tobacco flues and repairs bicycles. Read his advertisement, it may interest you.

We now have at our stables a car load of fine Tennessee horses and mules. They are acclimated and will stand work better than any stock on this market. See us before you buy. LANE & GALBRAITH.

There is a greater demand for tobacco seed than our people anticipated. The farmers generally will plant some tobacco this year.

A bill has passed both branches of the General Assembly establishing a Dispensary at Smithfield. Messrs. W. M. Sanders, W. L. Fuller and H. L. Graves are the directors.

It's not so dry in Dunn as some people think. A considerable row was created Saturday afternoon in trying to take a man, who had imbibed too freely of corn juice, to the guard house.

Mr. Jno. B. Sanders, a deaf mute, has opened a small stock of groceries in the store on the corner near THE UNION OFFICE. He has also moved his shoe shop there.

The stockholders of the Star warehouse met last evening and considered the bids for the erection of the building. Quite a number of contractors had bids in. The contract was awarded to Mr. E. F. Young. The building will be 80 feet wide by 140 feet long.

The Massengill Dry Goods Company has moved its stock of gents furnishings and clothing into the store beside them recently occupied by M. L. Davis. A door has been made in the side of each and the two buildings are now connected. With the new year it is enlarging and preparing for a larger trade. Success to them.

OBITUARY.

LILLINGTON, N. C. Feb. 5, 1899.

EDITOR COUNTY UNION:—

Death, the ever terrible, unwelcome, but inevitable visitor, called in our midst on the morning of Friday, the 3rd inst., and claimed as his victim our esteemed and widely known friend and neighbor Mrs. A. J. Kivett, who for just ten years survived her popular, and excellent husband, Mr. Andrew J. Kivett, who built our first Court House as well as the second building used for such, both of which were destroyed by fire.

Mr. and Mrs. Kivett had a large family of children, twelve in all, born to them, and five of whom are now living, but widely scattered. Walter R. Kivett of Colorado, Robert M. Kivett of Virginia, A. J. Kivett of Texas, Miss Sallie B. Kivett of Washington D. C., and Miss Emma, who was the only child, to whom the sad consolation was afforded of seeing the last of their fond mother's struggle for a life so chequered and so full both of joys and sorrows. Hers is too, the comforting thought, of having been faithful and true in a most remarkable degree, to the deceased, who had been, for some years a helpless invalid. Yet, untiring and unflinching, the faithful, brave hearted, and loving daughter, has calmly faced the demands of every want, and nobly done a worthy daughter's duty.

I say this much of the living, who deserve flowers, as much or more than the dead, because they can give no pleasure to those over whom the grave has closed, and the living may receive some comfort from their fragrance.

Mrs. Kivett was a faithful christian, a loving, and fond mother, true and unflinching in her friendships, generous, and given to hospitality as hundreds can testify who will read this obituary.

What more can be said? Only that she has gone to her mansion on high, prepared for her, where she will meet with the loved ones gone before and where there will be no more pain, no obscured vision, no sorrows, no tears, no disappointments, but peace and joy and song and light, seen not through a glass darkly, but where she may bask in the perfect light of the Son of Glory forever. She had reached near her 64th year of life here.

Why weep and mourn over this, Sons and daughters, live in all, For now 'tis but the perfect bliss, She knows, and followed at His call. OSCAR J. SPEARS.

Communicated.

BARCLAYSVILLE, N. C., FEB. 6.

To the Editor:

I see in your notice in THE UNION under heading "Shall we have a Dispensary", you say: "We learn that there is in the county very strong opposition to the action of the board of commissioners in refusing to grant license to sell liquors at that place." I say what a pity.

As a citizen and voter in the county for the last twenty years I simply wish to say for myself and a goodly number of the best citizens of this section of the county; that we fully endorse the action in not granting any license whatever.

I should guess that there is some opposition up here but I haven't heard a single protest or a word of dissatisfaction even from the moderate drinking element of this section but to the contrary I have heard their action recommended. Of course the sober element of the whole county is well pleased with their action.

Mr. Editor, as I did not attend the meeting at Lillington, I do wish to say in behalf of our people up here, and in behalf of the very best people of the whole county, we will be sadly disappointed should any backward steps be taken.

But we trust our Board of Commissioners will continue to stand firm and that while we are now from under the licensed "Bar Room" system, God grant that we may ever remain from under that system.

I am sorry that any one in our borders are so displeased with the action of the commissioners; but, if some are displeased with the present, others would be dissatisfied with any system that puts any more whiskey among the people. So who shall be pleased, the sober or the drinking people? I do trust that the present system may be continued or some other system equally as powerful in keeping the bottle from our neighbors lips.

Yours very truly,
A. W. GREGORY.
