There is nothing like Asthma. It brings instant relief, even in the worst cases. It cures when all else fails.

The Rev. C. F. Wells, of Villa Ridge, Ill., says: "Your trial bottle of Asthma Cure received in good condition. I cannot tell you how thankful I feel for the good derived from it. I was a slave, chained with putrid sore throat and Asthma for ten years. I despaired of ever being cured. I saw your advertisement for the cure of this dreadful and tormenting disease, Asthma, and thought you had overspoken yourselves but resolved to give it a trial. To my astonishment, the trial acted like a charm. Send me a full size bottle."

 Rabbi of the Cong. Bnai Israel.

AVON SPRINGS, N. Y., Feb. 1, 1901.

Gentlemen: I write this testimonial from a sense of duty, having tested the wonderful effect of your Asthma Cure, for the cure of Asthma. My wife has been afflicted with spasmodic asthma for the past 12 years. Having exhausted my own skill as well as many others, I chanced to see your sign upon your windows on 130th street, New York, I at once obtained a bottle of Asthma Cure. My wife commenced taking it about the first of November. I very soon noticed a radical improvement. After using one bottle her Asthma has disappeared and she is entirely free from all symptoms. I feel that I can consistently recommend the medicine to all who are afflicted with this distressing disease.

Yours respectfully,
 O. D. PHELPS, M. D.

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO. Feb. 5, 1901.

Gentlemen: I was troubled with Asthma for 22 years. I have tried numerous remedies, but they have all failed. I ran across your advertisement and started with a trial bottle. I found relief at once. I have since purchased your full-size bottle, and I am ever grateful. I have family of four children, and for six years was unable to work. I am now in the best of health and am doing business every day. This testimony you can make use of as you see fit.

Youthful Criminals.

It sounds strangely at this late day of the history of the world and of civilization, and especially in this country, to read of a child ten years old being tried as a criminal and sent to the State Prison with mature and habitual criminals, as though a fit subject for such treatment, and deserving no consideration, to say nothing of mercy, on account of his tender age, and of an entire absence of responsibility on his part for his own condition and its inevitable consequences.

Portsmouth, Va., stands alone so far as we are informed, in having recently sent a ten year old boy to the penitentiary for five years.

There is an obligation resting upon the States to prevent the Courts from making criminals of juvenile offenders,—by providing means for caring for delinquent children in such a way that they will not be brought in contact with confirmed criminals by being sent to the same prisons. The law should prohibit the confining of any child under 16 years of age, in any jail or police station, or to confine any child that has been sentenced, in the same building enclosure in which convicts are kept.

Such would be a humane measure, and a wise one.

There are very few white young criminals or offenders against the law in any Southern State and the number who are brought to trial in the courts and sentenced to imprisonment is considerable. The great body of the youthful convicts are negroes and colored people, and the sentiment of the law-makers of our section seems to be, that jails and penitentiaries are quite in order and good enough for bad negroes and colored boys; that they cannot be hurt by further evil associations; that there is no hope of their reform in any event, and that it is not worth the trouble and expense involved, to provide reformatories, or even separate prisons for them.

We believe these are mistaken notions. Our negro population furnishes far more than its quota of adult criminals. Perhaps it is as great an error to make our jails and penitentiaries and convict camps schools of crime for our criminal class as the prisons of some of the States have been found to be for its criminal class, in the same conditions.

Sowing and Reaping.

"Whatever a man sows that shall he also reap," was the text from which a Philadelphia preacher preached a sermon the other day on the political corruption in that city. "We are reaping today in Philadelphia and in Pennsylvania," said he, "precisely what we have sown. We have sown base, conscienceless legislators. We have sown public thieves for civil rulers. We have sown a narrow gospel which has ignored the responsibility of Christians to the institutions of society, and we are now reaping laws which encourage dishonesty and protect crime, public officers that blackmail reputable citizens and denounce and seek to destroy the character of honest men; thieves in high places that are robbing the people of their franchises and of their money in the public treasuries. We are reaping the subversion of Republican government and the institution upon its ruins of an oligarchy whose audacity and whose utter disregard of the interests of the people and whose contempt of public opinion are simply appalling."

That is good preaching. There is a natural law in the political world and its penalties are sure, if it is violated. If the people put corrupt men in office they will get corrupt government. If the decent people are indifferent and let the thugs run the politics, they may expect the kind of government that things believe in. Men do not gather fig of thistles.

Sleeping in Churches.

The High Point Enterprise says the question of the hour is: "What per cent of the congregation sleep in church?" There is a story, which came to us from a leading citizen of Morganton, that when Rev. Jesse H. Page (long life to the noble preacher, philosopher, teacher and wit) was the pastor of the Methodist church in that town, he hit upon a plan to wake up the "sleeping pillars" of the church. He was preaching one hot Sunday night and he noticed that some of the amen members were fast asleep. He lowered his voice gradually until he almost whispered, and then suddenly, in a louder tone, said: "If the brethren in the rear of the church cannot hear me I hope they will excuse me for speaking so low. I am afraid if I speak loud I will wake up the brethren on the front benches."

He had an attentive congregation from "amen corner" to the last seat in church that hot night!—News & Observer.
