Own a Little Dirt.

We notice in the Atlanta Constitution an editorial urging men to invest their earnings in real estate, and that is good advice. Every young man should make it a point to own a little J. C. CLIFFORD dirt. The Constitution cites in its argument that there is real estate, that saying of old Gen-eral Benjamin Butler: "My son, the Almighty is making more folks every day, but He is not making any more land." General Butler further said that he had traversed for forty years the route in Boston from the Lowell depot to his law office, and that at the, time of his speaking he could not see along the route the signs of half a dezen commercial firms that were in business on that route when he first began to travel it. But. on the other hand, he did not know of a half dozen men who had invested in real estate in Boston at the beginning of the period and held on to it who were not wealthy and solid, either for themselves or their families, at the end of the period. That is about the state of things everywhere. The man who buys a piece of real estate at a
