This is the season of the year when the prudent and careful housewife replenishes her supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is certain to be needed before the winter is over and results are much more satisfactory and prompt when it is kept at hand and given as soon as the cold is contracted and before it has become settled in the system. In almost every instance a severe cold may be warded off by taking the remedy freely as soon as the first indication of the cold appears. There is no danger in giving it to children for it contains no harmful substance. It is pleasant to take—both adults and children like it. Buy it and you will get the best. It always cures. For sale by Hood & Grantham.

Bachelors Not Wanted.

One of the small states composing the Argentine Republic has no use for Bachelors. The law holds that a man is marriageable when he is twenty. The exchequer gives points to the opinion by taxing all bachelors of between twenty and thirty five dollars a month. After thirty and up to thirty-five the tax increases 100 per cent. Between thirty-five and fifty single bachelors cost's twenty a month. From his fiftieth to his seventy-fifth year a bachelor may follow his own wild road by paying in thirty dollars a month. After that comes relief. The vicious example of an unmarried man of between seventy-five and eighty is considered to be neutralized by a payment of only twenty dollars a year, and when the eightieth birthday is passed the treasury finally ceases from worrying.

A widower is given three years in which to mourn and choose a successor, but a man who can prove that he has proposed and been refused five times in one year is considered to have earned immunity.—Tribune.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

Everything is in a name when it comes to Witch Hazel Salve. E. C. DeWitt & Co. of Chicago, discovered some years ago how to make a salve from Witch Hazel that is a specific for piles. For blind, bleeding, itching and protruding piles, eczema, cuts, burns, bruises, and all skin diseases DeWitt's Salve has no equal. This has given rise to numerous worthless counterfeits. Ask for DeWitt's—the genuine.—Hood & Grantham.

A great many more men would want to go to church if there was a law against it.

CAUTION.

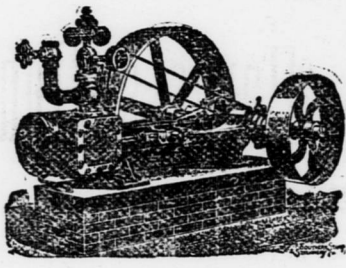

This is not a gentle word—but when you think how liable you are not to purchase for 75c the only remedy universally known and a remedy that has had the largest sale of any medicine in the world since 1868 for the cure and treatment of Consumption and Throat and Lung troubles without losing its great popularity all these years, you will be thankful we called your attention to Bosches' German Syrup. There are so many ordinary cough remedies made by druggists and others, that are cheap and good for light colds perhaps, but for Coughs, Bronchitis, Croup, and especially for Consumption, where there is difficult expectoration and coughing during the nights and at mornings, there is nothing like German Syrup. Sold by all druggists in the civilized world.

How Good Roads Reduce Distance and Increase Values.

Two men were recently discussing the respective merits of their farms. Said one, I am only three miles from the market while you are five, "Yes," said the other, "but my five miles lie along a level road over which my horses easily haul two tons, while your road is hilly and rough and you would not think of putting more than a ton and a half on your wagon." Farmers are just beginning to realize that the distance they are from market is measured in time not in miles; hence the movement in favor of good roads. The cost of getting a product to town is borne by the producer. A bushel of corn has different values in different parts of the country and this value is the value in the ultimate market less the carrying charge.

It will be easily seen then, that any reduction in the cost of marketing a product is to the advantage of the nation, for if the producer does not make the difference the consumer will. It should not be difficult to convince the city man that he is directly interested in the construction and the maintenance of good roads. If he can be convinced of this fact he will be willing to be taxed that road building may be carried on in every part of the county of which he is a resident. The value of land in remote sections would be increased 20 per cent. and in some cases one hundred per cent by cutting and filling and smoothing the roadway.

CURES CANCER AND BLOOD POISON.

If you have blood poison producing eruptions, pimples, ulcers, swollen glands, bumps and risings, burning, itching skin, copper colored spots or rash on the skin, mucous patches in mouth or throat, falling hair, bone pains, old rheumatism or foul catarrh, take Botanic Blood Balm (B. B. B.). It kills the poison in the blood; soon all sores, eruptions heal, hard swellings subside, aches and pains stop and a perfect cure is made of the worst cases of blood poison.

For cancers, tumors, swellings, eating sores, ugly ulcers, persistent pimples of all kinds take B. B. B. It destroys the cancer poison in the blood, heals cancer of all kinds, cures the worst humors of suppurating swellings. Thousands cured by B. B. B. after all else fails. B. B. B. is composed of pure botanic ingredients. Improves the digestion, makes the blood pure rich, stops the awful itching and all sharp shooting pains. Thoroughly tested for thirty years. Druggists, $1. per bottle, with complete directions for home cure. Samples free and prepaid by writing Blood Balm Co., Atlanta, Ga. Describe trouble and free medicinal advice also sent in sealed letter.

A cynic is a man who would make a fool of himself in the society he satirizes.

If you would have an appetite like a bear and a relish for your meals, take Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. They correct disorders of the stomach and regulate the liver and bowels. Price 25 cents. Samples free at Hood & Grantham's drug store.

GENERAL CARR FOR SENATOR.

WHY HE SHOULD BE THE CHOICE OF THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE.

Having Grown Up in the School That Furnished Those Skilled Minds That Have Prepared Tariff Legislation, the Durham Man is Especially Fitted For the United States Senate. A Confederate Soldier and Author of the Pension Bill of 1885 Asks His Comrades and Their Sons to Support General Carr.

To the Editor of the Charlotte Observer:

At this point of time we must look men and motives squarely in the face. The careful reader of current history, the optimistic observer of passing events, cannot shut his eyes to the fact that the ideals of expansion and centralization have lured us on like a will-o'-the-wisp until the sovereignty of the states is overshadowed and the Southern's last hope in this highly-favored land is threatened with extinction.

We have been taught by experience the useful lesson that the love of power is inseparable from the ambition of man and whenever the vigilance of the people shall slumber under the sedative poison of misplaced confidence, their downfall may be reasonably ascribed to the triumph of selfish demagogues over a people who put their trust in the frailty of human virtue. We have had the evangelizing ministry of "benevolent assimilation" in the Philippines until there is scarcely a poor native to be tortured or massacred. We have had the "brotherhood of man," in Cuba until the advantage of reciprocal trade and commerce have had to yield to the cupidity of monopolists. We have had the anti-trust law with the power of government to enforce its execution, and today capitalistic combinations are crushing to death thousands of poor in the sweat-shops and mines. We have a president asking a grant of power to deal without responsibility to the people with monopolists and wage-earners to be placed in his hands.

What a commentary upon the "government of the people, for the people by the people!" What a travesty upon the civilization of "benevolent assimilation!" Will constitution of the country warrant the despotic transfer of the highest executive power?

Legislation, too, is differentiating from former years. Sketch over the situation all the gossamer meshes of logical and political sagacity, it still looms to this, that the safety of the people is menaced by the capitalistic tendency of legislation in the United States Senate. We ought to have representatives in the United States Senate whose special fitness and education will enable them to grapple with conditions; with the perplexing problems of industry. It is idle to say that this or that lawyer is disciplined to such a task; we know the fact does not agree with the statement.

If a treaty is to be discussed in the Senate, it is the international lawyer who can give the best opinion; if some question in diplomacy, it is the man who has had experience in that business; if the currency, it is the skilled financier who consulted; if a question of constitutional precedent, it is the statesman whose equipment is thorough; if the tariff, trusts and social and commercial problem, it is the great master of industry and economical reform. There are no private or individual reasons why I should support General Carr for the United States Senate. My inclination as a lawyer would be for some other candidate.

For three successive terms one of the distinguished candidates was my colleague on the judiciary committee. We were rival candidates for the speakership when Col. Holt was elected; we were and are friends. I am proud of that gentleman, of his integrity, his learning, his patriotism. The old State and her interests will be safeguarded as long as he lives. The State says of these gentlemen as Cornelia said of her sons, "They are my jewels." I have in an humble way observed the trend of human events, of

The President says every man must be guaranteed the liberty and the right to do as he pleases with his property or his labor so long as he does not infringe on the rights of his neighbors. Mr. Roosevelt neglects to say, however, that no man is at liberty to exchange the results of his labors with his foreign neighbor without paying tribute to the protected interests.

Our Homes.

What we have said about the barns and cattle are more important about ourselves and households. The home should be comfortable. See that every pane of glass is in. No room is comfortable with a pane of glass out of the window. It is cheaper and better every way to keep the cold out than to warm it when once let in. Look to the supply of fuel. Whether it be wood or coal, see that it is at hand. Carelessness along here causes much exposure and suffering and often sickness. It is easy to work now. Colds do not pay. They sap the foundations of life. There will be bad day, cold days and rainy days. Provide against these so that you will not be compelled to expose yourself when they come. See that the women are cared for. Is the kitchen comfortable for winter? Is the stove wood convenient and plentiful. Very many of our wives and daughters suffer unnecessarily. It is the result of carelessness. But all the same they suffer when getting the morning meal in an open stove room or cooking with green and wet wood. We cannot go over the list of winter duties, but wish to say it is important that you make arrangements for some good reading. The happiness of your family will be greatly increased by having some good books at hand. Your success next year may depend much upon your plans now. See where you have made and where you have lost. See what pays you to plant. Cast up your accounts and see where you stand.—Southern Planter.

A COLD WAVE.

The forecast of sudden changes in the weather serves notice that a hoarse voice and a heavy cough may invade the sanctity of health in your own home. Cautious people have a bottle of One Minute Cough Cure always at hand. E. H. Wise, Madison, Ga., writes, "I am indebted to One Minute Cough Cure for my present good health and probably my life." It cures coughs, colds, la grippe, bronchitis, pneumonia and all throat and lung trouble. One Minute Cough Cure cuts the phlegm, draws out the inflammation, heals and soothes the mucous membranes and strengthens the lungs. Hood & Grantham.

Regularly in Advertising.

The unanimous verdict of those merchants who have made great success in their respective trades, is that advertising has been the foundation upon which they built their business, and from it secured success. And the advertising which has brought this success has been of the regular and systematic kind. And combined with this regularity has been an attention and intelligence in directing the style of advertising which has given an added value to it. The value of publicity is today, as an asset to the merchant, but the publicity wanted is the advertisement which appears daily, not the kind which is seen for a few weeks and then disappears, leaving it a matter of investigation with the public whether the merchant is still in business or has gone away. The merchant, every merchant has an hour for opening, and usually one for closing his store, so that customers know when purchases can be made. There is a regularity in this daily opening, in the continuous hours when goods are to be shown the trade. All this is a matter of professional business. Its regularity assures the trade which passes that the store is open. And yet merchants who are thus regular in their store opening, are too often spasmodic in their advertising. They regard a few weeks in the year as sufficient to let the public know that they are in business. The result may not appear so directly in their own business, but what they lose by neglecting to advertise regularly, is easy to be noted in the building up of the rival merchant who is the persistent and regular newspaper advertiser.—Newbern Journal.
