Girl Swore She Would Not Sleep Until She Was Married.

Miss Marie Hensly Prevented From Getting Married in Elizabeth City is More Successful in Edenton.

Elizabeth City, N. C., Dec. 7.—Chief of Police J. B. Thomas was aroused from his slumbers this morning at 1 o'clock to answer a telephone call and a sweet feminine voice exclaimed, "I am married at last." The chief understood and knew that Cupid had won again in his battles with objecting parents and that another tragedy of hearts had been averted.

The voice was that of Miss Marie Hensly or rather Mrs. McRorley, and she was informing the chief that she had just been married to the man of her choice in Edenton.

She had intended to get married here Saturday afternoon on the stage of the Alkrama theatre in the presence of the audience which attended the matinee performance. She was not eighteen years old and the register of deeds would not issue the license without the consent of her mother, who resides in Birmingham, Ala.

A request for this consent by wire brought a refusal and also instructions to the chief of police to take charge of her and send her home, that expense money would be wired. Chief Thomas held her until last night at 10 o'clock, when not receiving further instructions from Birmingham, he released her.

She wired to the other members of the company who had gone to Edenton for this week's engagement, to secure the license and she boarded the 11 o'clock train for that town, declaring that she would marry before she slept again.

The expense money for her return to Birmingham came by wire all right, but it came too late. The "spunky" little miss was then safe in the possession of her husband.

Mr. and Mrs. McRorley are, both members of Harm's Musical Comedy Company.

This pretty little romance which began when the aggregation of performers of the company assembled down in Alabama and started on the road for this season's tour, created a great deal of interest in Elizabeth City.—Va., Pilot
